Suspected Assassin Slain at Jail

Millions See Shooting Of Oswald

DALLAS (AP)—Lee Harvey Oswald met a merciless death amid a crowd Sunday just as President John F. Kennedy did 48 hours earlier. The accused presidential assassin was shot and killed during a jail transfer. Millions saw the shooting on nation-wide television.

Jack Rubinstein, alias Ruby, 52, bachelor owner of a downtown Dallas striptease club, brooding since Kennedy's untimely death, stepped wordlessly forward from the ranks of onlookers outside city hall to send a single pistol bullet into Oswald's abdomen.

The 24-year-old, cold-eyed Oswald dropped unconscious at Ruby's feet, within a cordon of escorting policemen.

That was at 11:20 a.m. while Oswald was being taken from city hall detention quarters to a permanent maximum security cell in Dallas County jail, there to await trial for Kennedy's assassination.

Ruby was quickly arrested and held for a murder hearing today in the same detention area vacated moments before by his victim.

Today, two detectives rushed Ruby from city jail to the county court house.

He pressed down on the car seat so passersby would not see him.

Oswald died at 1:07 p.m. in the same hospital where President Kennedy died Friday, with the same hectic medical activity going on around him, with two of the same doctors working over him who labored vainly to save the president's life. Ruby was charged with murder in Oswald's slaying.

A crowd of about 200 cheered the shot that cut down Oswald.

"Somebody got Oswald — hooray," one person shouted.

A crowd of reporters and television cameramen, advised beforehand of the transfer, was on hand.

Hospital Attendants Warned

Hospital Administrator C. J. Price said attendants on duty at the hospital had been warned of the possibility of an attempt on Oswald's life. Thus they were at hand when word of the shooting came from city hall.

Harvey Oswald may have left behind in death his successful blueprint for the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

Oswald died without revealing why he killed the president. In fact he denied shooting anyone.

District Attorney Henry Wade confirmed today that a Dallas city map with X-marks and a line drawn on it which corresponds to the path of the bullet that killed President Kennedy was found in Oswald's room.

Wade said the map has X's at various downtown intersections. At the intersection of Houston and Elm Streets a line traces the trajectory similar to that of the gunfire which took the president's life.

Wade said he would present his case against Ruby to the grand jury "within the next week."

Meantime officers are guarding Ruby around the clock, taking extraordinary precautions. Police Sgt. M. O. Rogers said they have taken away his belt and shoes.

Ruby's attorney said today he will plead temporary insanity.

"I think he was probably temporarily out of his mind," said attorney Tom Howard.

President Johnson has ordered the FBI to make a full investigation into the shooting of Oswald.

Officials are known to believe that information about Oswald's role in the assassination is vital—not only in providing Americans with knowledge about their president's death but in dealing with possible friction in U.S.-Soviet relations.

Intersections Marked on Map

Police officers theorized, The News says, that Oswald marked the other intersections while considering spots from which a sniper could get a good shot at the Kennedy motorcade. He knew it would move slower than usual at these intersections.

From Mexico City came the report that Oswald visited the Cuban and Soviet consuls there Sept. 26 and 28 respectively and tried to get a visa.

The newspaper Excelsior attributes its report to a high official source which it did not name.

The newspaper says bitter arguments ensued over the time required by the consuls to investigate his requests and Oswald apparently let the matter drop.

Police said Ruby told them he wanted to spare Mrs. Kennedy the trial of her late husband's accused killer.

"I didn't want to be a hero—I did it for Jacqueline Kennedy," Ruby said.

The shooting occurred when the handcuffed Oswald was walking between police officers from the city jail to an armored truck.

Ruby dashed forward and fired the shot at a range of only

A dignified, emotion-packed funeral in Washington today and a sordid shooting in Dallas, Tex., Sunday have climaxed the stunning events of the last four days.

Both were historic, to be remembered as long as man exists.

Some have professed to see in these events, caught in the two dramatic photos on this page, a symbolic commentary on the contradictions in U.S. society.

In the depth of their grief for the slain President, Americans revealed the warmth and tenderness of their nature; at Dallas the grisly events of Friday and Sunday showed the persistent undercurrents of violence and cruelty.

Above, Mrs. Kennedy marches in the funeral procession flanked by the late president's brothers, Robert and Edward.

Below is the dramatic shooting, witnessed by millions on TV, of the president's accused assassin by Dallas night club owner Jack Ruby.

MESSAGE TO K

Johnson To Pursue JFK Goals

LONDON (Reuters) — President Lyndon Johnson, in a message to Soviet Premier Khrushchev, has said that he intends to continue to strive toward improving relations with all countries, including the Soviet Union, Moscow radio reported today.

The message, dated Sunday, said:

"On behalf of the American people I should like to thank you for the condolences you have expresed on the tragic death of President Kennedy.

"All President Kennedy's efforts were devoted to the cause of peace and the peaceful settlement of international problems and to improving relations between all countries, including the Soviet Union and the United States.

"I intend to continue to strive toward the achievement of these aims."

Commons Silent

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons paid a one-minute standing tribute today to slain President Kennedy.

SILENT TRIBUTE IN OTTAWA

OTTAWA (CP) — Noon hour crowds stood with bowed heads and motor traffic halted on Ottawa streets today in mourning for former President Kennedy.

The silence was observed for two minutes and was followed by a musical tribute on the carillon at the top of the Peace Tower of the Parliament Buildings.

A steady procession of visitors filed into the United States Embassy to sign a book of condolence.

Leaders Attend Solemn Rite

Times News Services

WASHINGTON — Amid pangs of sorrow and with solemn rites, John Fitzgerald Kennedy went to rest today on a grassy hillside in a cemetery reserved for U.S. heroes.

There was a twenty-one gun salute in Arlington National Cemetery for the young leader who fell under an assassin's bullets on Friday.

Following the assassinated president closely every inch of his travel to the grave was his young wife, Jacqueline, bravely bearing up.

Her face partly obscured in a long veil, she went part of the way on foot—from the White House to St. Matthew's Cathedral for the requiem mass.

So also did one of the greatest arrays of foreign statesmen ever assembled — they came from 53 nations and included 26 heads of state or government.

Bells tolled as the slain president's sorrowing wife set out on foot heading the procession of world leaders on an eight-block march to St. Matthew's Roman Catholic Cathedral for a funeral mass.

Attorney-General Robert F. Kennedy held Mrs. Kennedy's hand as they walked out the northwest gate of the White House.

President Johnson and Mrs. Johnson walked behind a line of members of the immediate family, who followed Mrs. Kennedy.

French President de Gaulle was close behind, leading the foreign leaders.

They included Prince Philip, British Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home, West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard and Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson of Canada.

Chief Justice Earl Warren and former presidents Dwight Eisenhower and Harry S. Trueman were among leading Americans in the procession. Mrs. Kennedy and the two Kennedy brothers, walking behind the caisson, were separated from it only by the sailor carrying the presidential flag and the riderless horse that symbolizes the fallen warrior in a military funeral.

The procession from the White House began at 11:40 a.m.

Brief Halt at the White House

The cortege had moved from the Capitol, where Kennedy's body lay in state during the weekend, to the White House. Mrs. Kennedy and members of the family had ridden in limousines on this trip.

After a brief halt at the White House, the cortege moved on to the cathedral with the mourners walking.

Thousands lined the streets through all areas. For the most part it was a silent crowd, a crowd of bowed heads and tears. But at one point, a woman broke into a high-pitched wail: "President Kennedy is gone. Oh Lord, Lord."

When Mrs. Kennedy stepped out of the limousine at the White House, she stood still for a moment, listening to a hymn sung by the Naval Academy Choir.

Then she turned and set out at the head of the procession of walking mourners.

Mrs. Kennedy stood straight between Robert and Edward Kennedy. Her face, beneath

ALL CHURCHES OFFER PRAYERS

Dignitaries Attend Mass

Christ Church Cathedral today was decked in mourning for a requiem mass for assassinated President John F. Kennedy.

Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes, Mayor R. B. Wilson, Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston, and other dignitaries attended the mass at 12:15 p.m., conducted by Dean Brian Whitlow.

A requiem mass was said at noon today at St. Andrew's Cathedral for the late president, and Msgr. Michael O'Connell said a eulogy afterwards.

ALL CHURCHES

Virtually all churches offered prayers for the late president during regular Sunday services.

Special prayers were offered at St. Andrew's Cathedral at all masses on Sunday.

Rev. Clifford Waite, DFC, guest preacher at St. Aiden's United Church, spoke of the president during his sermon. Special prayers were said, and a memorial silence observed.

At First Baptist Church, Rev. J. A. Watson led the congregation in prayers for the late president.

The Kennedy family was remembered in prayer during Salvation Army services on Sunday.

At Christ Church Cathedral, prayers were offered for President Kennedy, the Kennedy family, and the new president, Lyndon Johnson.

Dean Whitlow delivered a short sermon about the late president.

BURDEN OF CONSCIENCE RIDES HEAVILY ON SPARKLING METROPOLIS

'This Thing Will Tear Dallas Apart'

By ROBERT H. JOHNSON Jr.

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—In the space of 48 hours, this sparkling metropolis — while trying desperately to show its best face to the world — was degraded twice.

The first time, authorities said, it was by a self-styled Marxist with a mail - order rifle: Lee Harvey Oswald, 24, born in New Orleans, charged with the assassination Friday of President Kennedy.

The second time, it was by a small-time brawling owner of a night club who killed the Communist despite a police cordon: Jack Ruby, 52, born Rubinstein in Chicago, who took it upon himself to act for the courts and shot down Oswald Sunday.

Dallas reacted with deep grief and shame of President Kennedy's death.

The reaction to Oswald's death was more complex. Some openly said the killing was a good thing. Others, secretly, thought it. But over most the weight of shame settled more heavily.

The burden of conscience became enormous. That it could happen here!

Dallas has a metropolitan population of more than 1,000,000. It now is a cosmopolitan city. It's people are from Texas — but also from Connecticut, Ohio, New York, Kansas, Oregon. It is the national melting pot of the southwest.

Its women are superbly gowned, its fashion centres respected the world over, its clubs smart, its symphony and opera renowned.

But it is, indeed, a citadel of political conservatism at certain levels—just, as a matter of fact, as areas in New York, Philadelphia, Boston or Indianapolis.

"This is a black mark Dallas will never live down," said one resident despairingly. That was the day the president died.

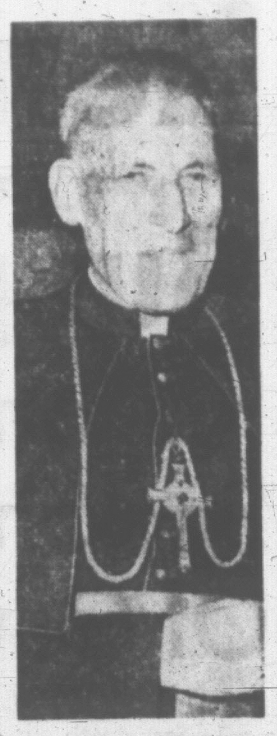

Sunday night . . . "This thing is going to tear this town apart," a young woman said.

People avoid each other's eyes in elevators. The streets are quiet. Some clerks barely murmur as they serve you. And there are few customers. The bars are almost empty.

Cab drivers with their universal ability to spot strangers do not hesitate to offer abject apologies.

"I got a hard knot in my belly," one told a passenger. "I love Texas. I have been in a lot of places where there are nuts. I never thought we had these kinds of nuts in Texas. Stupid . . . stupid . . ."

CARDINAL OVERCOME BY EMOTION

CARDINAL CUSHING
. . . "fought good fight"

BOSTON (AP) — Richard Cardinal Cushing wept Sunday at the end of an emotion-choked eulogy for John Fitzgerald Kennedy, whom he described as a devoted husband and father who "fought the good fight for the God-given rights of his fellow man."

The Roman Catholic archbishop of Boston, a lifelong friend of the slain president, was overcome by emotion as he concluded his eulogy after celebrating a televised memorial mass.

The prelate's voice broke as he finished. He blessed himself, removed his glasses, wiped tears from his eyes, then left the lectern. The TV cameras had switched away and watchers at home missed the moment of sorrow for the fallen leader.

"It was my privilege to have been associated with John F. Kennedy from the earliest days of his public life, and even prior to that time, to have watched him mature with ever-expanding responsibility, to have known some of the warmth of his hardy friendship, to see tested under pain and loss the steely strength of his character," the prelate said.

"I have seen him in joy and sorrow, in decision and in crisis, among friends and with strangers, and I know of no one who has combined in more noble perfection the qualities of greatness that marked his cool, calm, calculating intelligence and his big, brave, bountiful heart. Now, of a sudden, he has been taken from us and I dare say we shall not see his like again."

AROUND WORLD

Millions Mourn President

By The Canadian Press

The peoples of the world today mourned the death of President Kennedy.

Flags flew at half-staff in world capitals. Conferences, meetings and parliaments recessed to honor the assassinated U.S. president.

People gathered in homes and in streets and met in solemn assemblies to honor the dead leader of the Western world.

Guns boomed in salute at U.S. military bases throughout the world.

Jawaharlal Nehru, the Indian prime minister, joined in silent tribute at a U.S. embassy memorial service in New Delhi. Thousands attended.

Both Houses of the Indian Parliament adjourned after hearing a special statement from Nehru in which he described the president's assassination as 'a crime against humanity.

In Amsterdam, a six-foot-high portrait of Kennedy was smothered in flowers. Thousands of Dutch filed past it to pay their respects.

In Saigon, 2,000 South Vietnamese carrying a large portrait of Kennedy gathered outside the U.S. Embassy and presented their sympathy to the ambassador.

"It is for us to resolve—as President Lincoln said—that the dead should not have died in vain," Secretary-General Dirk Stikker told NATO's 15-nation permament council in Paris. The council later adjourned.

In Bonn, West Germany, U.S. Ambassador George McGhee led mourners in a memorial service in a chapel near the banks of the Rhine.

In Nairobi, Kenya, several hundred sorrowing members of the youth organization of the ruling Kenya African National Union gathered outside the U.S. Consulate with banners saying: "He died because he fought against racial discrimination."

They Prayed for Peace Among Men

On Sunday, mourning millions on all continents prayed for the soul of President Kennedy and for peace among men.

They gathered for memorial services in Buddhist pagodas, Roman Catholic and Protestant churches, Greek Orthodox churches and Jewish synagogues, at wayside shrines and wherever else people gather to pray.

Alone in a grief-stricken world, Communist China reported Kennedy's assassination on the inside pages of newspapers and the trade union newspaper Workers Daily printed a cartoon entitled Kennedy Biting the Dust.

Apart from the refusal of China, and to a lesser extent its ally Albania, to mourn the president, tributes from the rest of the world showed extraordinary warmth and respect.

Russian leaders from Premier Khrushchev down continued to mourn Kennedy with a public and private regret unprecedented on the death of a Western leader. Other Soviet bloc countries joined in the mourning.

Correspondents around the world also reported these reactions:

London — Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home stood in a church filled with Sunday worshippers and sang the Battle Hymn of the Republic: "Mine eyes have seen the glory of the coming of the Lord." Thousands of Britons lined up at the United States embassy in London to express their grief.

Berlin—Deep and spontaneous grief gripped West Germany for the man who declared with pride last summer: "I am a Berliner." Thousands of candles burned in windows of West Berlin houses, and today the large square in front of the Berlin city hall will be renamed John F. Kennedy Platz.

Athens — Greek Primate Archbishop Chrysostomos delivered a sermon praising President Kennedy and all Greek Orthodox churches offered special prayers.

Monrovia, Liberia — The West African state which has close ties with the United States began 30 days national mourning.

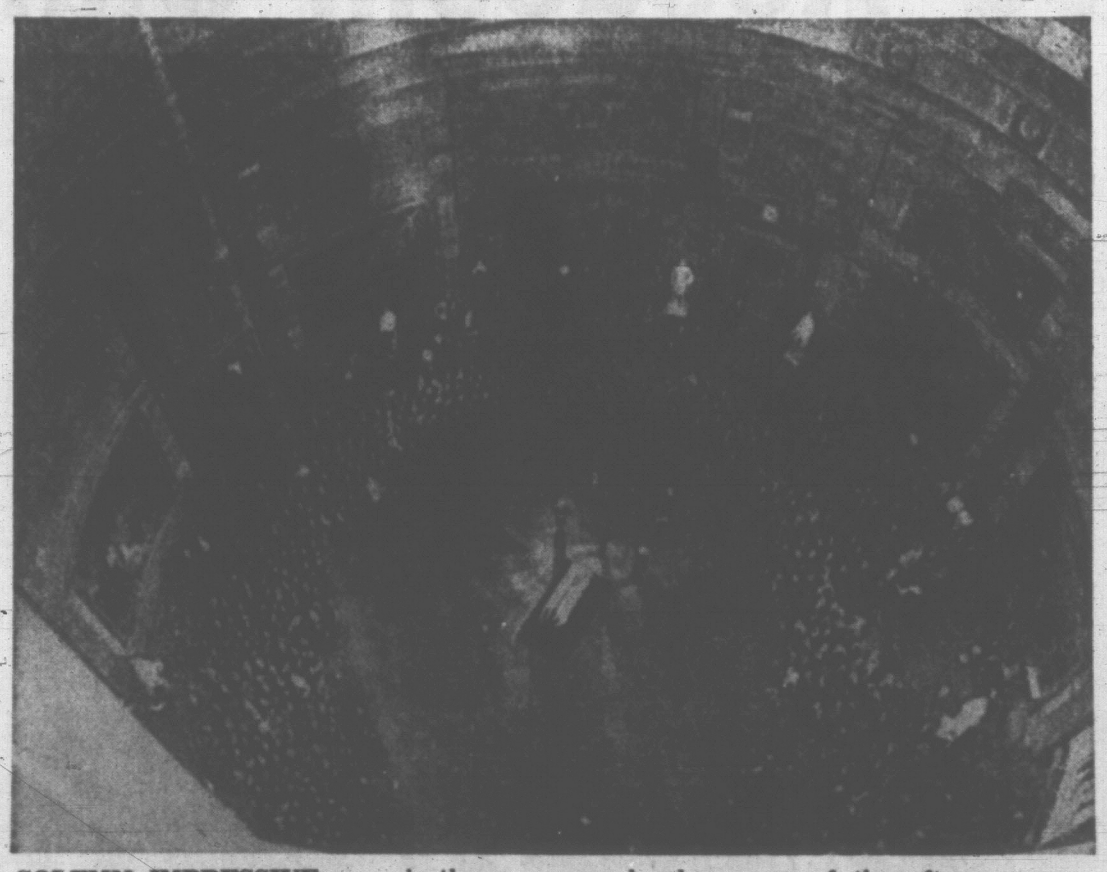

Paris — More than 1,300 Americans and Frenchmen packed the American cathedral here for a special memorial service. The cathedral seats only 600 and hundreds stood in the side chapels and courtyard outside.

Lisbon, Portugal—Hundreds of Portuguese donned black ties and mourning bands after finally becoming convinced of the news they refused to believe.

Israel — Premier Levi Eshkol eulogized President Kennedy at a cabinet meeting which proclaimed three days of official mourning.

JACKIE OFFERS HELP

WASHINGTON (AP) — Even in her sorrow, Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy has thought of the problems facing a new first lady and offered to help. When Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson saw Mrs. Kennedy at the White House Saturday Mrs. Kennedy told her she would be glad to help in any way she possibly could.

SOLEMN, IMPRESSIVE scene in the rotunda of the Capitol at Washington Sunday is underlined by this photo from high overhead as rays of the afternoon sun bathed casket. Citizens lined up for blocks outside, waiting to pass the casket.

MIKOYAN:

Soviet People Grieve Deeply

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Anastas I. Mikoyan, first deputy premier of the Soviet Union, arrived today from Moscow for President Kennedy's funeral and said the Russian people were "deeply grieved" over the tragedy.

In a brief statement after his special Soviet plane set down at nearby Andrews Air Force Base, Md., Mikoyan said he came on orders of Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

Mikoyan, heading a seven-man delegation from Moscow, said the Soviet people "shared with the American people their sorrow," for the assassination of the president.

"Kennedy was known and respected in the Soviet Union as a great man and statesman," Mikoyan said.

"This respect was evoked by his great efforts and tangible contributions" to solving problems and increasing understanding between Russia and the United States," he said.

Mikoyan added that "we extend our most sincere condolences" to Kennedy's family, the U.S. government and the American people.

Mikoyan's Ilyushin 18 turboprop transport plane landed at Andrews Air Base at 6:53 a.m. EST. He was met by Undersecretary of State W. Averell Harriman; Llewellyn Thompson, former U.S. ambassador to Russia, and Richard Davis, deputy assistant secretary of state for European affairs.

Representatives of the Washington diplomatic corps, along with a group from the Soviet Embassy, also greeted Mikoyan.

Mikoyan was accompanied by Mikhail Smirnovsky, head of the American department of the foreign ministry.

CANADIANS ASKED TO JOIN IN TRIBUTE

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson, in a message released by his office Sunday night, invited Canadians to join in tribute to the memory of President John F. Kennedy today.

Text of Mr. Pearson's statement:

"Because of the special place the late president, John F. Kennedy, occupied in the hearts of Canadians, and because Canada is such a close and friendly neighbor of the United States, I invite the people of this country to join with me on the day of the funeral in paying tribute, each guided by his own faith and sense of the occasion, to the memory of President Kennedy and the profound esteem and affection in which he was held."

FROM VANIER

Canadian Goodwill To Johnson

OTTAWA (CP) — Governor-General Vanier sent a message to President Johnson today assuring the new American leader of the "friendship, goodwill and confidence" of the Canadian people.

It read:

"Mr. President, on your assuming the high office of the president of the United States in such tragic circumstances which have cast a shadow over Canada as well as your own country, I send you on behalf of the Canadian people a message of friendship, goodwill and confidence together with fervent good wishes for a fruitful term of office.

"May God grant you the strength to carry on the great work of your predecessor in the cause of peace."

The Governor-General went to the U.S. Embassy to convey, on behalf of Canadians, sympathy to U.S. ambassador Walton Butterworth.

TEARS were in eyes of Mrs. Nina Khrushchev, wife of the Soviet premier, when she left the American ambassador's residence in Moscow after paying her respects to the late President Kennedy. She went to Spaso House as the head of a delegation of the American-Soviet Friendship Society, a Moscow organization of which she is chairman.

REPORTERS GREETED Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson when he arrived at Washington National Airport Sunday. He is among the official representatives of many nations attending the funeral of the late president of the United States.

53 NATIONS

World Leaders Paying Homage

WASHINGTON (AP)—A solemn procession of the world's mighty—some of them nearly twice the age of the slain 46-year-old president of the United States—streamed into Washington to pay homage to John F. Kennedy.

They arrived sombre and unsmiling, expressing the grief of their countrymen and wishing Lyndon B. Johnson, the new president well.

At Dulles International Airport in the Virginia countryside south of the capital, hundreds of persons stood six deep behind barriers Sunday to watch jets deposit their important cargo.

Several dignitaries flew into Washington's other airport, National, and a few motored in by limousine.

Fifty - three countries were represented in all. There were a dozen members of ruling families, 26 presidents and heads of state, 30 foreign ministers and five defence ministers.

MARCH BEHIND CAISSON

This morning, they marched behind the caisson carrying Kennedy's body from the White House to St. Matthew's Roman Catholic Cathedral for the funeral.

After the burial in Arlington Cemetery, Mrs. Kennedy receives the foreign emissaries at the White House. In late afternoon, Johnson greeted them at the state department. And Tuesday, the president plans to confer with some of them.

One of the first to arrive at Dulles was France's President Charles de Gaulle, who celebrated his 73rd birthday last Friday, the day an assassin's bullets ended Kennedy's life.

De Gaulle's presence emphasized the traditional ties between the United States and France, shaken this year by differences of policy. As he stepped from his chartered jetliner, hundreds of spectators broke into applause. De Gaulle shook hands solemnly with State Secretary Dean Rusk and a line of diplomats. Then in austere dignity, he strode from the airport without a glance to left or right.

MIKOYAN ARRIVES

Early this morning, a Russian plane brought a Soviet delegation headed by Deputy Prime Minister Anastas Mikoyan to the capital.

Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson represented Canada. Outside the United States, Pearson said, "I don't think there is any country that feels a greater sense of loss with the death of Kennedy than Canada itself."

From Britain came Prince Philip, wearing a simple dark business suit and black necktie, Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas - Home, Opposition Leader Harold Wilson, and Sir David Ormsby Gore, British ambassador to the United States and an old friend of the late president.

From West Germany, another ally, came President Heinrich Luebke, Chancellor Ludwig Erhard, Foreign Minister Gerhard Schroeder, Defence Minister Kai Uwe von Hassel and Mayor Willy Brandt of West Berlin.

FUND OPENED

World Wide Reaction To Tragedy

LONDON (AP)—The Sunday Telegraph has opened a fund with a donation of £1,000 to build a statue in London of the late President Kennedy.

BASLE, Switzerland (Reuters) — About 1,000 people marched by torchlight through Basle Saturday night in memory of President Kennedy.

NAIROBI, Kenya (Reuters) — The 1,720 Kenyan students educated in the U.S. on scholarships are sending to the U.S. a wreath for President Kennedy's funeral, bearing 1,720 blossoms.

SIOUX CITY, Iowa (AP)—Police said a dental technician, angered when his Russian-born stepfather "cursed President Kennedy and America," stabbed the older man to death Sunday with a pair of scissors. Dead was Stephen Sikerachi, 68, a retired packinghouse worker who came to the U.S. in the 1920s. Police said his stepson, Vaschia Bohan, 47, admitted stabbing him.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Representative Richard S. Schweiker, Pennsylvania Republican, says he will introduce legislation making it a federal offence to kill, assault or plot to harm the president of the United States. He said Saturday present federal law does not cover attacks on the president.

Widow Nhu 'Understands' Grief of Widow Kennedy

ROME (AP)—A United States radio correspondent said Sunday Mme. Ngo Dinh Nhu has sent a cable to Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy saying: "I understand fully how you should feel."

Mme. Nhu's husband and her brother-in-law, President Ngo Dinh Diem of South Viet Nam, died violently in a military coup in that country three weeks ago. Mme. Nhu has been in seclusion at a convent here.

Irving R. Levine, NBC correspondent, said she sent the following telegram:

"Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy, Washington:

"Though not having the pleasure to know you, or hearing from you personally, I wish to tell you of my profound sympathy for you and your little ones in your time of shock and grief.

"Though I have said that anything happening in Viet Nam will surely find the equivalent in the U.S.A., truly I would not wish for anyone what the Vietnamese and myself are now enduring while we were so near our victory against communism.

"But though not being proven alike, I understand fully how you should feel before that ordeal which God has bestowed on you. I sympathize the more, for I understand that the ordeal might seem to you even more unbearable because of your habitually well-sheltered life, notwithstanding how particularly incomprehensible it would be if, as reported President Kennedy's assassination comes from Communist hands.

"Indeed, such a murder where even the wounds inflicted on President Kennedy were identical to those of President Ngo Dinh Diem and of my husband, and coming only 20 days after the Vietnamese tragedy, would only prove to the world that even power or extreme graciousness with communism still does not protect from its traitorous blows.

"My children and I have especially prayed for President Kennedy when we learned that he did not regain consciousness to receive the last sacraments of the church. Be assured also that our most fervid thoughts and prayers are with you and your dear ones.

Madame Ngo Dinh Nhu"

TASK FOR SECURITY OFFICERS:

27 Uneasy Heads to Guard

By C. YATES McDANIEL

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. security officers — still shaken by the assassination of John F. Kennedy—have the staggering job today of protecting some 27 heads of state and government, including President Johnson.

Making the task that much more difficult will be that many of them walked in the slow procession behind Kennedy's coffin from the White House to St. Matthew's Roman Catholic Cathedral several blocks away.

To throw a screen of protection about them, officials are using a maximum security plan drawn several months ago.

Army security officers, secret service agents and metropolitan police devised the elaborate arrangements last spring, church officials recalled, against any eventuality the church might be required for an assembly of important personages.

PLANS REVIEWED

Secret service chief James J. Rowley Sunday went over the plans with the law enforcement officers shouldering the responsibility of protecting more of the world's great and near great who have gathered here for almost half a century.

Accompanying Rowley on his inspection of the cathedral was an army officer carrying precisely scaled plans noting every point around and within the church that might hide a threat or provide a defence.

Security agents will watch every car and every person arriving at the red-brick church, allowing only those with special passes to enter the bronze doors.

Quietly dressed men will be in their appointed places within the cathedral, in the chapels flanking the central nave or in the half shadows east by great, dappled stone pillars and the delicately traced marble colonnade.

Should any of the 1,200 invited mourners look up above the high altar, and higher again above the richer central mosaic of St. Matthew the Evangelist, they might see high up in the sky blue painted dome the shadows of men stationed on a narrow ledge for an overhead view of the solemn scene below.

Assassin's Shot Fells Accused Assassin

THE MAN IN THE FEDORA worked his way through the crowd at Dallas city jail—and it was death in the making as night club owner Jack Ruby levelled a pistol at Lee Harvey Oswald. Seconds after copyright photo by Jack Beers, Dallas Morning News, was snapped, a bullet pumped into Oswald's stomach, bringing death to President Kennedy's accused assassin.

'Tried to Reach Him But I Could Not'

'I Saw A Flash Of Fire'

By DET. B. H. COMBEST
(As Told to The AP)

DALLAS (AP) — I was standing at a corner of the ramp as they led Lee Oswald out of the building, and then I saw Jack Ruby and I knew what he was going to do.

I yelled, "Jack, you son-of-a bitch."

I tried to reach him but I couldn't get to him. He rushed right up to Oswald and put the gun just flat against his chest. And I saw a flash of fire.

I think Ruby did what he was planning on doing all this time since the president was killed. He didn't say anything as he was carried out—I think he'd already accomplished his purpose.

One of his employees had called me earlier and told me Ruby felt a sense of shame for Dallas. A lot of us knew him because of the business he was in—running a strip joint.

I helped carry Oswald to the jail basement office. Someone said, "What do you want to do with him?" and I heard someone answer, "Well, let's get him out of here fast."

BULLET IN BODY

I think the city jail physician said the bullet went in at a slant but did not come out the other side—that it entered his left side and you could feel it under the skin on the opposite side.

I think the gun was a .38-calibre blue steel snub-nose. Ruby pushed it right up against him.

Ruby must have climbed over the railing to get into the crowd. I didn't see him go over the railing—the first I saw was when he rushed forward.

Oswald had a powder burn about as big as a fist on his sweater.

WITHIN MINUTES of the death of Lee Harvey Oswald, Jack Ruby was taken into custody by a Dallas police officer and arraigned on a charge of firing the fatal bullet into Oswald's abdomen from point blank range.

'I've Sent Men to the Chair On Less Evidence'—DA

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — "This is it—I've sent men to the electric chair on less evidence than we have against Lee Harvey Oswald."

District Attorney Henry Wade made the claim as he revealed the evidence which convinced Dallas officers they had an air tight case against the accused assassin of President Kennedy.

"There is no doubt in my mind that Oswald was the killer," Wade said.

Nine hours before Wade spoke to reporters Sunday, Oswald, 24, was fatally shot by Jack Ruby, owner of a Dallas lounge, in the police headquarters basement.

The Dallas morning News said in a copyrighted story that officers had found a map in Oswald's room which marked the path of the bullets which killed Kennedy and wounded Governor John Connally Friday afternoon. Wade had made no mention of this.

Police officers available said they knew nothing of any map. In Washington, the secret service and FBI had no comment.

Wade said two facts stood high in the mass of evidence linking Oswald to the slaying—a palm print on the underside of the rifle which fired the bullets that killed Kennedy was identified as Oswald's; Oswald had definitely been placed inside the building when the shots were fired from there at Kennedy.

Prints on Gun

"The gun was here, his prints were on the gun, the gun was the gun that killed Kennedy, his palm prints were on the box on which the killer sat, and witnesses put him on the sixth floor at the time of the shooting."

Asked if he believed Oswald was slain to keep him from talking, Wade said police were looking into that angle but so far no connection has been established between Oswald and Ruby.

"There is no concrete evidence to go on that there is anyone else connected with the assassination," Wade said, but added that some aspects of the case may still be investigated.

The district attorney said that because Ruby's slaying of Oswald was an assassination, "I am certain that I can get the death penalty for Ruby.

"Ruby walked up to a man who was handcuffed and defenceless and cold-bloodedly assassinated him."

Wade added several specific details to evidence previously brought out.

He said Oswald bought the Italian-make assassination rifle last March from a Chicago mail order firm at a cost of slightly more than $12. The FBI, he said, confirmed the serial number of the mail order rifle matched that of the rifle that fired the shots at Kennedy.

Wade said they found a photograph showing Oswald holding the rifle in one hand and in the other copies of The Daily Worker and Socialist publication, The Militant.

Officers said earlier Oswald told them he was a Communist and was proud of it.

Shells Near Box

Wade also said three ejected shells, of an odd calibre that came from the assassination rifle found on the floor, were located near the box at the ambush window where a palm print of Oswald's was impressed.

The district attorney retraced Oswald's actions last Friday as follows:

He was driven into town by a neighbor from Irving, a Dallas suburb. Wade said Oswald usually stayed there with his wife only on weekends, and at other times lived in a rented room in Dallas.

Oswald was carrying a package, which he said contained window shades. The package was long enough to have held a rifle. Oswald's wife said the rifle he owned was in Irving Thursday night but was not there Friday.

Several witnesses told of seeing the assassin's weapon protruding from a sixth-floor window at the time President Kennedy was shot.

After the shooting, Wade said: "We saw this man in the corner of the building and started to arrest him. The manager said Oswald was an employee and we let him go.

"We located every other employee but him. A description went out to look for him.

"Oswald got on a bus at Lamar Street and told a lady on the bus the president had been shot. The lady told the bus driver, and the driver asked where she had heard this. She said from a man in the back, and he (Oswald) laughed very loud."

"He got off the bus and caught a taxi the rest of the way to his Oak Cliff rooming house."

Ward said Oswald changed clothes hurriedly and left. "Then a block from the rooming house witnesses saw a police officer, Patrolman J. D. Tippit, motion to him. Officer Tippit got out of his car and came around and Oswald shot him three times.

"Then he walked across a vacant lot, ejected three shells, and reloaded the gun."

ON STRETCHER headed for the same hospital where President Kennedy died from an assassin's bullet, Oswald is carried to a hastily-summoned ambulance amid confusion in Dallas city jail where the shooting took place.

SHOCKED REACTION IN DALLAS

'Law Is Violated Again'

PRIOR TO DEATH of Oswald members of his family visited him and talked through bullet-proof window. Shown leaving is Mrs. Marina Oswald, his wife; daughter June, 22 months; his mother, Mrs. Margaret Oswald, carried baby.

By RAYMOND HOLBROOK

DALLAS (AP)—To the man on the street in Dallas, the slaying of Lee Harvey Oswald stirred no personal regrets. Some at the scene even cheered.

But many others in Dallas said they were sorry that "the law has been violated again" and sorry that Oswald can never be brought to trial for the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

Mayor Earle Cabell after Sunday's shooting issued a plea "for all of us to come to our senses, to resist hysteria."

Oswald was gunned down by Jack Ruby.

A cheer went up from the crowd of about 200 gathered at the exit to city jail. One man yelled: "It's too good for him!"

Others, not at the scene, were more reserved.

PROVES NOTHING

"Mr. Ruby proved nothing," salesman Ward Armstrong said. "The law has been violated again. The American people deserved to know if Oswald was the man who killed the president and Oswald had the right to a trial. It is a further disgrace."

"Since it had to happen, I don't have any regrets seeing Oswald go," said Joe Ferguson, a printer. "It was no personal loss to me. I didn't know the man."

"I'm sorry it happened. I would so much rather he had lived and that he would have talked on the witness stand. This way we may never know if he was the one," said Joe Smith, a Negro porter.

Chicago Suicide

CHICAGO (AP)—"The president got shot in the head, I'm going to shoot myself in the head," Teodor Maraszczak, 53, told his wife Saturday night. Maraszczak's body was found Sunday in a workshop behind his home. He had been shot once near the right ear, police said, and a pistol lay nearby.

President to Meet Congress Wednesday

KEEPING STRICT control on her emotions—at least in public—the widow of the president kisses the casket of her late husband in the Capitol Sunday. She was accompanied by her daughter, Caroline, who knelt beside her at solemn moment.

THREE TRIPS TO CAPITOL

Jackie Stays Near Coffin

By FRANCES LEWINE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy went back Sunday night for a second look at her husband's coffin in the Capitol rotunda and pleading, "let me walk," mingled with crowds that mourned the slain president.

Th 34-year-old wife of President Kennedy seemed reluctant to leave his coffin. Today she returned to the Capitol with her brothers-in-law as a member of the cortege bringing him to the White House briefly before the precession to St. Matthew's Cathedral.

With her two children, she had come in a funeral procession Sunday afternoon to leave the president's body to lie in state in the Capitol for public viewing by many thousands.

Mrs. Kennedy, with her little daughter Caroline beside her, had knelt and kissed the coffin before she departed about 2:30 p.m.

Unexpectedly, she was back about 9 p.m. Sunday night, on the arm of her brother-in-law, Attorney - General Robert F. Kennedy, as long lines of people waited to pass the president's bier.

She walked slowly by the ropes keeping the public from the casket area and once again knelt and kissed the coffin.

REMAINS NEAR BODY

Until she had left it at the Capitol, Mrs. Kennedy had remained near her husband's body since he was slain in Dallas Friday afternoon.

On her sudden night-time reappearance, the slow - moving crowd came to a halt. When Mrs. Kennedy rose, she turned her tear-stained face and looked for a long moment at the faces of those who came to pay their respects to her late husband.

As she and the attorney-general left, Mrs. Kennedy seemed to look searchingly at the faces of the incoming throng.

"Let me walk, let me walk," she said to the president's brother as they descended the Capitol steps. And, they set out through the heavy crowds. At first Mrs. Kennedy went unrecognized, but soon she was discovered and some followed after her party of police and secret servicemen.

At one point, Mrs. Kennedy paused to speak to a group of Roman Catholic nuns. They offered sympathy.

Finally when the crowd about her grew, a limousine pulled up and took Mrs. Kennedy back to the White House.

DECIDES FUNERAL DETAILS

It was learned Mrs. Kennedy had decided on many of the details of the presidential funeral, including the decision that the mourners would walk some five blocks from the White House as was done at the funeral of Abraham Lincoln, the president slain almost 100 years ago.

Protocol and research experts had brought to the White House plans of the funerals of George Washington, Lincoln, Ulysses S. Grant, Woodrow Wilson and Franklin D. Roosevelt for guidance.

Mrs. Kennedy, who shared her husband's interest in history, agreed on the marching procession in the streets, a scheme dating back to Washington's funeral. One official said it was more typical of early American and European style than of the 20th century motor car era.

It was not known for sure whether Mrs. Lincoln actually made the march April 19, 1865, when thousands followed her husband's coffin on foot. State department spokesmen said research showed members of Lincoln's family followed, but the widow was not mentioned in records they could find.

Lincoln's riderless horse also followed the caisson. Mrs. Kennedy Sunday sent her thoroughbred bay gelding, Sardar, to fill the symbolic role. The horse, a gift to her from Pakistan President Ayub Khan, a bit skittish and nervous, was led with empty saddle, stirrups turned backwards and boots empty to symbolize the fallen leader.

It was announced that Mrs. Kennedy would receive the foreign heads of state and high officials who came here for the funeral. They were invited to the White House after the Arlington burial service.

INVITES IRISH COUSIN

And, there was the touching remembrance of Kennedy's Irish cousin, Miss Mary Ann Ryan in Dublin, who was sent a special Kennedy family invitation, relayed by the U.S. embassy, to come to the funeral. She had entertained Kennedy on his visit to his ancestral home at Dunganstown, Ireland, last summer.

DALLAS SPEECH

America Strength Greater

DALLAS, Texas (AP) — He saw the United States, in his times, as destiny's choice — "the watchman on the walls of world freedom."

This was President Kennedy's summation of what would have been his major speech in Dallas Friday. He never delivered it. He was assassinated.

★ ★ ★

The text of the speech released in advance showed the president planned to hit hard at far right critics for talking "just plain nonsense."

"America today is stronger than ever before," the text said, and the president struck out at those who expressed alarm and preached what he termed were "doctrines wholly unrelated to reality."

★ ★ ★

He asked the U.S. to exercise its "strength with wisdom and restraint and that we may achieve in our time and for all time the ancient wisdom of 'peace on earth, good will toward men.' That must always be our goal and the righteousness of our cause must always underlie our strength. For as was written long ago: 'Except the Lord keep the city, the watchman waketh but in vain'."

★ ★ ★

A crowd of 2,500 waited at the Dallas trade mart to hear the president give this speech. When it was announced he never would and why—there were sobs, one high-pitched scream, but mostly stunned whispers, then a moving prayer.

In his text, the president said "the notion that this nation is headed for defeat through deficit or that strength is but a matter of slogans, is nothing but just plain nonsense."

★ ★ ★

American policy, he said, must be guided by learning and reason. "Or else those who confuse rhetoric with reality and the plausible with the possible will gain the popular ascendancy with their seemingly swift and simple solutions to every world problem."

SUCCESSOR TO the late president John Fitzgerald Kennedy, President Lyndon B. Johnson, placed a wreath beside the casket Sunday in the rotunda of the Capitol in Washington, D.C.

Unity Appeal Expected

WASHINGTON (CP - AP) — President Johnson — propelled into the spotlight by the assassination of President Kennedy faces sudden national and international problems.

Johnson will address a joint session of Congress Wednesday and he is expected to appeal for unity as he strives to meet the problems thrust upon him.

Leaders of Congress, still numbed by the shock of Kennedy's death, were talking Saturday of providing the new president with a breathing spell in which to clarify his plans and programs.

Congress members on both sides of the Capitol predicted privately that Johnson may find smoother sailing for much of his legislative program next year than Kennedy has met in the current lacklustre session, now in its 11th month.

WON'T LAST LONG

It is evident that Kennedy's death has left little heart for fighting on Capitol Hill at the moment. But some of the partisans said privately it would be unrealistic to expect that all will be harmonious from now until final adjournment.

They noted there still are many controversial measures in various stages of legislative progress. These include foreign aid authorization and appropriation bills, federal aid to institutions of higher learning, federal aid to vocational education and to school districts with heavy enrolment of the children of parents employed at government installations, the civil rights bill and Kennedy's requested $11,000,000,000 tax-cut bill.

Johnson as president will have the advantage of friendship with many influential Senate and House of Representatives members. He has a reputation for skilled legislative manoeuvring and has a long background of intimate involvement in both foreign and domestic issues.

How effectively Johnson can exert his legislative skills from the White House remains to be seen.

The Kennedy administration's basic defence policies probably will march forward under President Johnson without breaking stride.

But one major policy involving the U.S. military role in space—may change direction.

Johnson has indicated he favors an increase in the military emphasis in space research which, under President Kennedy, took second place to civilian space exploration. Broadly, the Pentagon position has been that space weapons could do little that now-available systems can't do and present weapons can do it far more cheaply.

It is not considered likely that Johnson will make any sudden changes in the make-up of the Kennedy cabinet, but later, when he has familiarized himself with the job, changes may be expected.

The new president has said nothing as yet about the heads of the executive agencies and other top posts over which he holds control. But he has not hinted at any general housecleaning such as usually follows a shift of power from one political party to another.

'THAT YOUNG MAN'

Soviet Always Eyed Kennedy

By PRESTON GROVER

MOSCOW (AP)—Doubtless the most influential man in the Soviet Union in the last three years—next to Premier Khrushchev—was President Kennedy.

It was bound to be that way, for with no nation, not even China, has the Soviet Union so many points of international contact as with the United States. Almost every move made by the Soviet Union had to be taken with one eye on the United States and the man who was at its helm.

NEW ATTITUDE?

What the attitude will be toward President Lyndon B. Johnson is not clearly outlined.

Toward Kennedy, the change in attitude could be most sharply marked in the period between the summer of 1961—when the President and Khrushchev met in Vienna—and the Cuban affair.

There is no doubt that Khrushchev set out to give the new president, then barely six months in office, a taste of international power politics in Vienna. Reports of the conference from people who were at the sessions or nearby were that it was stormy and frightening. Months later, Khrushchev was reported to have said:

"I gave that young man a good scare."

But the young man returned the scare in October, 1962, when he moved to the brink of nuclear war, moved divisions of American troops and bombers to the Atlantic Coast facing Cuba, and told Khrushchev to get his rockets off the island. The premier did.

Khrushchev showed new respect for Kennedy after that. It reflected respect for a man who had learned the uses of power, but a man prepared to control that power even in the heat of such an affair as the Cuban rockets.

SYMPATHY, SI . . . BUT . . .

'Condolences' by Castro

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Fidel Castro, while expressing disapproval of John F. Kennedy's assassination, has accused the slain president of carrying the world "to the brink of nuclear war."

The Cuban premier told his people by radio and television Saturday night that despite Kennedy's "hostile . . . policies toward us," the news of his assassination "is grave and bad."

"People feel repugnance to such a slaying because we should not consider this method a correct form of battle," he said.

Castro added in the broadcast heard in Miami: "We Cubans must react as conscientious revolutionaries and not confuse systems with the individual. We fight against systems not the man."

HOSTILE POLICIES

But he said Kennedy's administration and that of his predecessor, Dwight Eisenhower, "were characterized by hostile and implacable policies toward us. Cuba was victim of . . . attacks of all kinds that cost blood. Hundreds of our compatriots lost their lives defending against Yankee imperialism."

Castro recalled the unsuccessful 1961 Bay of Pigs invasion and the October, 1962, naval blockade of Cuba, and decalred nuclear warfare could have resulted.

The broadcast was Cuba's first official reacton to the Kennedy death. The premier said reactionaries in the United States "are taking advantage of the assassination to create a state of anti-Soviet and anti-Cuban hysteria."

The assassination, Castro continued, "could only benefit the reactionary sectors, among which President Kennedy could not be counted."

He charged reactionary elements sought to "push Kennedy toward war."

CHARGES AGGRESSION

Later in the rambling, two-hour speech, Castro said: "Even over the blood of their assassinated president, the Americans have started to form an aggressive policy against Cuba.

"This offers the impression that that policy was linked with the assassination."

Castro read news dispatches mentioning Communist and pro-Castro connections of Lee Oswald, the alleged murderer — who was killed Sunday — and declared:

"There is no one who believes the Soviet Union had any responsibility in this.

"And to insinuate that we could have any interest in Kennedy's death is absurd, although perhaps there have been motives to feel like it."

President Johnson's policies remain a question mark, Castro said.

"Kennedy had great authority in the United States. The circumstances with regard to Johnson are not the same in this respect."

Connally Able to Walk

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Texas Governor John Connally, seriously wounded at the time President Kennedy was assassinated, has regained enough strength to walk around his hospital room.

"He asked me to tell everyone he is going to be all right," Mrs. Connally read Sunday from a prepared statement.

RED PARTY DISOWNS OSWALD

NEW YORK (AP)—Unnamed officials of the Communist party in the United States said Saturday that Lee Harvey Oswald, charged with the assassinaion of Presiden Kennedy, had no connection with their party.

Dallas Police Chief Jesse Curry said Oswald has "readily admitted he is a Communist."

The members of the party, who declined to be identified, said that they had nothing to do with the "monstrous crime."

35TH MAN IN OFFICE, BUT 36TH PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON (AP)—Lyndon B. Johnson is officially listed as the 36th president of the United States although he is the 35th man to hold the office.

The explanation is that Grover Cleveland served two terms but not consecutively. Thus, Cleveland is listed as the 22nd and 24th presidents.

Johnson Hailed As World Leader

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Martin said Sunday Canada looks with confidence to President Johnson's leadership of the free world.

In a special address on the CBC's French television network, Mr. Martin said the tragic assassination death of President Kennedy has deeply grieved all Canadians.

But he declared that Canadians also have continued "confidence in the people of the United States and in particular the leader who has succeeded a man such as John Kennedy in his heavy and tragic responsibility."

"We know that he will carry on in the same spirit of hope."

Mr. Martin, who as Canada's foreign affairs chief had met the late president on several occasions, paid tribute to him as a decisive leader who won the respect and admiration of the entire world.

'I JUST DON'T KNOW WHAT WE ARE GOING TO DO'

This Widow Sheds Her Tears—Outside the Spotlight

By ARTHUR EVERETT

DALLAS (AP)—Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy is the focus of sympathy on the world's stage today as the bereaved wife of the assassinated president. But in the wings another woman also weeps within her heart for the man she has lost.

She is Mrs. Marie Tippit, whose policeman husband, J. D. Tippit, was slain shortly after President John F. Kennedy's asassination Friday.

Police claim the 39-year-old patrolman was shot during an attempted getaway by Lee Harvey Oswald, the man who was charged with the president's murder and in turn slain by a gunman Sunday.

"I just don't know what we are going to do," said Mrs. Tippit, her eyes swollen with tears, as she sat in her neat, three-bedroom pink brick home. Her husband's slaying left her the widowed mother of three children, a girl 10 and boys 4 and 13.

"I depended on my husband so much," she went on. "He spent all his extra time with us, and the family just got used to him, making all the necessary decisions. The problem of raising three children suddenly seems too great. Older children need a father's guidance."

At about the hour today that Mrs. Kennedy pays her last respects to the president in funeral services in Washington, Mrs. Tippitt also will bid farewell to her husband. His funeral is scheduled for 3 p.m., EST.

Despite the awesome tragedy that struck the White House, those most deeply involved have found time to let Mrs. Tippit know that she is not forgotten in her sorrow.

Attorney-General Robert Kennedy telephoned to express the sympathy that the president's wife feels for Mrs. Tippitt. In return, the Dallas wife said she told him "to express my concern to Mrs. Kennedy and tell her I certainly know how she feels."

Another call came from President Lyndon B. Johnson. He took time in the midst of an historic governmental transition to remember the policeman's wife.

"He said they all felt sorrow for me in my time of grief and wanted me to know that he gave his life for a good cause, and that the man Oswald could not have been caught had he not given his life," Mrs. Tippit said. "He said he hoped other police departments took notice as to what courage had been shown."

Nor has Mrs. Tippit been forgotten by her own neighbors here in Dallas. The Times Herald has initiated a memorial fund that already has passed the $2,500 mark. In addition, Tippit had a $5,000 city life insurance policy.

Patrolman Tippit, like many a policeman was a man of modest means. His salary was $490 a month, and to augment it he worked during off hours at part-time jobs.

Tippit, on the Dallas police force 11 years, twice had been cited for bravery on duty.

Mrs. Tippit said her husband stopped home briefly for lunch Friday, but left hurriedly, even though his superiors had not called him. She added:

"He said he couldn't stay because he might be needed, since most officers were downtown for the president's motorcade.

"The next thing I knew he was dead."

GRIEVING WIDOW of Dallas policeman slain Thursday shortly after assassination of President Kennedy, Mrs. J. D. Tippet, is shown with her three fatherless children, Brenda Kay, 10; Curtis Ray, 4, and Allen, 13.

THE CHILDREN of President Kennedy took part in the Sunday procession which carried his casket from the White House to the Capitol. Here, three-year-old John Jr. and six-year-old Caroline stand with the widow at an entrance of the White House before moving off with the procession. At the rear are the president's brother and sister, Attorney-General Robert Kennedy and Mrs. Stephen Smith.

ANOTHER BROTHER of the slain president, Senator Edward M. Kennedy, escorts his mother, Mrs. Rose Kennedy from St. Francis Xavier Church in Hyannis Port Sunday morning after they had attended services. Later in the day they flew to Washington with Mrs. Eunice Shriver, a sister of the president, for the funeral today. The president's father, Joseph Kennedy, former U.S. Ambassador to Great Britain, remained in Hyannis Port. He suffered a stroke in late 1961 and has been inactive since.

WITH MEMBERS of the family and President and Mrs. Johnson following, Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy and the youngsters walk down the Capitol steps after the casket had been placed in the rotunda Sunday. The picture shows, at left, from top: President Johnson, Peter Lawford (brother-in-law), Mrs. Stephen Smith (sister), and Sydney Lawford (niece), and Attorney-General Robert Kennedy (brother); right, from top: Mrs. Johnson, Stephen Smith (brother-in-law), and Mrs. Lawford (sister).

Assassins All Paid With Lives

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The assassins of the three presidents murdered in office before President Kennedy ultimately paid for their crimes with their lives.

John Wilkes Booth, who killed Abraham Lincoln in 1865, was pursued and trapped 12 days later in a barn near Bowling Green, Va., where he was shot by a cavalry sergeant.

Charles J. Guiteau, who shot James A. Garfield in a Washington, D.C., railway station on July 2, 1881, was tried, convicted and hanged in Washington one year later.

Leon Czolgosz, who shot William McKinley in Buffalo, N.Y., on Sept. 14, 1901, was tried in New York Supreme Court, convicted and electrocuted six weeks later in Auburn, N.Y.

All three used pistols at short range. Guiteau and Czolgosz made no attempt to escape. Booth, a Southern sympathizer, thought he would find asylum in the South.

THE PRESIDENT'S BODY was borne to the Capitol from the White House by horse-drawn caisson. Beside the caisson walked a military guard to the roll of muffled drums. In the background is the White House as the cortege moves from the grounds of the Executive Mansion. The procession took an hour.

Bomb Threats Add to Furor

DALLAS (AP) — Two telephoned bomb threats were reported in Dallas Sunday after accused assassin Lee Harvey Oswald was shot and killed.

One threat delayed a Braniff Electra at Dallas' Love Field; another forced evacuation of the Good Shepherd Roman Catholic Church in suburban Garland, Tex.

Astronaut John Glenn, en route to Washington for President Kennedy's funeral, was aboard the plane.

Police said someone telephoned both Braniff and the home of Dallas Mayor Earle Cabell advising that the bomb was on the plane.

Cabell and federal Judge Sarah T. Hughes, who administered the oath of office to President Lyndon B. Johnson after President Kennedy died, had planned to take the plane. They decided to take a later flight.

But Glenn continued to Washington on the plane after a delay of about 45 minutes.

A search revealed no bomb, police said.

About 350 persons were evacuated from the suburban church during an afternoon mass. No bomb was found.

one foot with a .38-calibre snub-nosed revolver.

Millions saw the incident—and the pandemonium that followed—on their television screens. Within seconds, they heard police shout "we've got him," as Ruby was arrested.

Detective B. H. Combest told reporters he knew what Ruby was going to do." . . . I tried to reach over to him but I couldn't get him. He rushed right up to Oswald and put the gun flat against him."

"He took Kennedy's death much harder than that of our 88-year-old father five years ago," said Ruby's older sister, Mrs. Eva Grant. "He couldn't eat Friday. He kept talking about Jackie and the Kennedy kids."

Roommate Tells of Shock

His roommate, George Senator, said Ruby appeared to into a state of shock after the assassination and grieved particularly for "those poor (Kennedy) children." Senator, also an employee at Ruby's night spot, was questioned by police and dismissed.

President Lyndon Johnson ordered a full government probe of Oswald's slaying, and the FBI proposed further investigation into the presidential assassination with the hope of eventually giving the American people the full story. Later, Dallas District Attorney Henry Wade listed what he said was a complete summary of the evidence against Oswald.

Communist propaganda organs abroad promptly depicted Oswald's death as a coverup to mask sinister rightist forces which they blamed for the president's assassination. Moscow bitterly resented the linking of Oswald with communism.

Oswald, a confessed "Marxist," went to Moscow in 1959 and announced his intention to renounce his American citizenship. Later, he apparently changed his mind and returned to the U.S. with his Russian wife in 1962. She bore him two children, one four and the other 22 months old.

District Attorney Wade announced he would press for Ruby's conviction and execution in the electric chair with the same vigor he had proposed to apply toward Oswald.

Oswald was arrested Friday, shortly after Kennedy's assassination and after the slaying of Officer Tippitt. He insisted from the outset:

"I did not kill President Kennedy. I did not kill anyone."

He stuck to this story during 48 hours of intensive questioning in tempory detention quarters in city hall.

Decide to Transfer Oswald

Finally, police decided they would get no information from Oswald. They announced that he would be transferred by armored car from city hall to a permanent maximum security cell in the Dallas County Jail, about a mile away.

Some 200 newspaper men and officials gathered in a basement ramp leading from a city hall elevator to a driveway outside. Other curious spectators stood in bright sunshine outside to await Oswald's emergence.

Oswald, handcuffed, with detectives on either arm, came out of the elevator and took a few steps in the direction of the armored car parked halfway up the inclined ramp.

At that moment, the stocky, conservatively dressed Ruby lunged forward, stuck his pistol flush against Oswald's side and fired a single shot.

The bullet tore through Oswald's vital midsection organs, although it missed his heart. He was hurried to Parkland Hospital and into an emergency room only a few feet from the one where President Kennedy died.

Some of the same doctors who worked on the president tried just as desperately to save Oswald's life. Blood was administered. His chest was opened and his heart massaged by hand. But Oswald never regained consciousness and died at 1:07 p.m. CST. The shooting occurred at 11:20 a.m.

Dapper But Hot-Tempered

Ruby owns a strip tease night club, The Carousel, in downtown Dallas about four blocks from police headquarters, and a dance hall, The Vegas, further out.

The dapper, but hot-tempered entertainment figure came to Dallas about 15 years ago, after a hand-to-mouth boyhood on Chicago's northwest side, where he was born. He had an arrest record in Dallas for carrying concealed weapons. He was acquitted of aggravated assault just recently after a fight with a heckler in another night spot.

"I can take care of myself," was his proudest boast.

Early in life he was nicknamed Sparky because of his volatile nature.

Ruby drove up to city hall in his car shortly before the Oswald shooting. His background had given him an extensive acquintance among Dallas policemen and there seemed no apparent reason why his presence amidst newspaper men and officials should be restricted.

'WICKEDEST MAN'

Chinese Children Applaud

PEKING (Reuters) — Chinese newspapers carried inside-page reports Sunday of the assassination of President John Kennedy.

The coverage portrayed Kennedy's "reactionary policies."

All newspapers printed identical 300-word factual reports summarizing Friday's dramatic events in Dallas, Texas, without comment—omitting only the capture of a suspect.

They also carried 600-word biographical sketches of the new president with caricatures and photographs showing him grim and unsmiling.

Usually reliable sources said school children here applauded Saturday when told the news of the death of Kennedy, who they had been led to believe was the world's wickedest man.

A senior diplomat of a neutral country reported that a Chinese member of the embassy staff commented: "That's good news. He was a very wicked man."

WIRE BRIEFS

Killed By Car

VANCOUVER (CP) — Allyn Edgerton Leversage, 18, of suburban Richmond, died in hospital Sunday night after being hit by a car. Police said he had stepped from his car after a minor accident when an oncoming auto struck him down.

Couple Found Dead

LILLOOET (CP)—Bodies of a young couple were found in a parked car near here Sunday. Police said Ronald Arthur Heigh, 21, and Juliet Rosalind Chandler, 16, apparently died of carbon monoxide poisoning. The car's doors and windows were closed and the motor was running.

Prisoners Freed

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (Reuters) — More than 800 prisoners of the former government of President Ngo Dinh Diem have been released from secret prisons since the coup ousting Diem Nov. 1, the official Viet Nam press news agency reported Monday.

SHOW GIRLS were hobby as well as business with nightclub owner Jack Ruby. Photograph was taken in his office by cameraman Eddie Rocco Nov. 10 while taking pictures on assignment.

GATECRASHER, SEX PEDDLER

What Kind of Man Fired Shot That Killed Oswald?

DALLAS, (UPI) — Jack Ruby was born on Chicago's seamier side. He peddled legal sex for a living. He was hardly the type for an avenger.

But Jack Ruby, 52 years old, Sunday shot and killed Lee Harvey Oswald, accused assassin of President John F. Kenned. He did it before national television cameras, as millions watched.

Jack Ruby lived high. He had a temper that kept him in trouble, but he still talked about class. His "class" brought him to courts to face such charges as assault and curfew violation.

Ruby was known to police in both Chicago and Dallas as a promoter who favored gimmicks to turn a fast buck. The records reflect his temper. He also had an urge to carry a pistol.

Ruby was born Jack Leon Rubenstein March 19, 1911. He was a small-time gambler and street brawler. He shortened his name to Jack Ruby when he came to Dallas in 1948, but he expanded his old ways.

The stocky, now baldish, Ruby started working in a bar owned by his sister, Mrs. Eva L. Grant. He was a bouncer-bartender.

Flesh came natural for Ruby. He opened a strip joint, a second-floor walkup.

Ruby combined his flair for flesh and his love of gimmicks and turned his carousel club into a money-maker. He held crowd-catching amateur nights and strip-tease schools to boost the burlesque stock.

Often, he took the girls out after the show and invited his buddies along. He wore flashy clothes and jewelry. He left the booze for the cusomers.

Police work fascinated him. He liked cops. He liked police reporters. He liked to be with them, to go where normally only they were allowed.

Ruby handed out calling cards that read: "I'm Jack Ruby—Carousel."

Saturday, he handed such a card to Justice of the Peace David L. Johnston and said. "Come by and see me some time." That was when he got into the crowd of newsmen gathered to see Oswald.

He slipped a card to District Attorney Henry Wade, too.

GATECRASHER

Ruby was a gatecrasher from way back. He almost made the Tunney-Dempsey fight. This time he was making history. How he got into the basement of the city hall and cracked the heavy security guard, police do not know. But he did.

He always talked about ways to better his status in society.

Rough with men, arrogant with women, he loved animals and kept four dogs in the apartment he shared with George Senator, an employee of his Carousel joint.

He used to weigh more than 200 pounds. He dieted off 20 pounds, and it gave his face a guant look.

He especially liked white-on-white shirts and snap-brim hats to hide his increasing baldness. He was wearing a white-on-white shirt and a snap-brim fedora when he shot Oswald.

GAVE HIM CLASS

His sister and roommate both said Ruby was upset by the President's death and muttered about "that poor woman and those kids."

"Our father died at the age of 88 five years ago," Mrs. Grant said. "He was more upset over Kennedy's death than that of our father."

Friends in Chicago said he often fought for the honor of the last President Franklin Roosevelt.

"Jack loved every president," his sister said, "That's his problem."

Mrs. Grant talked with her brother after his arrest, but didn't discuss the shooting. She said it was the custom in her family, whose parents came from Poland, that "if he doesn't mention it; I don't mention it."

George Senator, his roommate, said he didn't know where Ruby went Sunday morning, but thought he was out walking one of his dogs.

London Market Calm, Orderly

LONDON (Reuters) — The London stock market was calm and orderly today in the wake of President Kennedy's assassination Friday but stocks, and especially the American favorites, were lower in early trading.

However, selling did not develop as the session continued and a partial recovery was made.

Gilt-edges opened with small losses that were later reduced. Dollar stocks were sharply lower in what was only a nominal market. Several Canadian issues such as Algoma and Consolidated Mining lost several points initially but later recovered substantially. Canadian banks also were lower.

Assassination 'Live' Televised Nationally

NEW YORK (AP)—Millions of television viewers throughout the continent watched in stunned horror Sunday as a murder was committed. It undoubtedly was the first time so many people witnessed a real-life homicide.

But many looked beyond the grisly aspects of the spectacle to find in the deed some type of justice worked against Lee Harvey Oswald, the man accused, but not convicted, of assassinating President Kennedy only two days before.

The overwhelming majority of those polled by The Associated Press looked upon Oswald's slaying by Dallas nightclub proprietor Jack Ruby as a frightening revolt against the American code of justice.

Many thought the murder mirrored a breakdown in the moral standards of the nation. Clergymen condemned it as a serious breach in Christian ethics.

CHEERED BY SOME

Still others saw in Oswald's death a practical loss. They wondered aloud whether the world ever would know if the true presidential assassin had paid for his crime.

In Dallas, Tex., where the slaying of both the president and his suspected killer took place, some openly cheered the killing of Oswald. But many more, along with the clergy and civic leaders, denounced the slaying as an unlawful and damaging act.

In Albany, N.Y., an unidentified woman telephoned a newspaper office to recommend that Ruby be given the Congressional Medal of Honor.

"Good," said Chicago cab driver Carl Moore. "It was justified. The man who did it was a nut. But he, Oswald, got what he deesrved."

Most of those polled expressed belief in the principle of American law stating that a man is innocent until proven guilty. They felt that a man still innocent in the eyes of the law had been slain at the hands of a murderer.

"The Bank's" 1963 Financial Statement in PLAIN WORDS

Annual Statements and Balance Sheets sometimes seem as though they were drawn up only for the trained eyes of accountants and financial experts. For those of our customers, shareholders and friends who are neither of these, we present the highlights of our 1963 operations in plain, straightforward terms:

Funds entrusted to us:
In personal accounts used mainly to accumulate savings	$1,016,783,556
In business accounts to meet payrolls, purchase materials, pay taxes and other obligations	1,260,527,431
Total of customers' deposits	$2,277,310,987
Commitments made to assist customers in their foreign and domestic trade transactions and miscellaneous accounts payable	64,047,361
Funds supplied by shareholders to provide banking offices and equipment and as a reserve to protect our customers' funds	120,584,567
Total funds available for investment	$2,461,942,915
These funds were employed as follows:
Cash resources—to meet the daily withdrawal of funds by customers	$ 342,410,679
Call loans and Government of Canada securities available to provide additional cash at short notice	625,958,922
Funds lent to provinces, municipalities and corporations by investing in their securities	219,002,517
Funds lent to enable customers to acquire their own homes under the provisions of the National Housing Act, 1954	104,127,334
Loans made to our customers to finance their business operations and for their personal needs	1,068,818,990
Land, buildings and equipment needed to provide our customers with convenient and efficient facilities at our 625 branches	46,605,755
Other assets—mainly customers' commitments to "The Bank" covering foreign and domestic trade transactions	55,018,718
Total funds employed	$2,461,942,915

That in simple terms sets out our position as at October 31, 1963. A measure of our progress is the fact that total assets increased by $193 millions or 8½ per cent. Profits after taxes and all charges amounted to $8,754,990, an increase of 6 per cent. This is equivalent to less than 0.4 per cent of the total funds employed. It was a good year for our customers and our shareholders, to whom we extend our thanks for their continuing confidence. It was a good year, too, because of the devotion and teamwork of our thousands of employees across Canada...good reason for us to feel assured that...

LBJ Writes John, Caroline

WASHINGTON (AP) — The first two letters Lyndon B. Johnson signed as president were to the two children whose father is buried today.

The letters to Caroline Kennedy, six years old Wednesday and John F. Kennedy Jr., three years old today, told them at the beginning they perhaps are too young to understand it all now.

Johnson wrote them last Friday only hours after he had been installed to succeed their assassinated father.

Four Represent Canada At President's Funeral

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada did not follow the British practice of having the prime minister and the leader of the Opposition present at the funeral of President Kennedy today.

Four seats were made available to Canada at the Kennedy funeral. They were occupied by Prime Minister Pearson, as representative of the Canadian people and government; Mrs. Pearson; External Affiars Minister Martin and Ambassador Charles S. Ritchie.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker was not asked to form part of Canada's official mourning party, his office said.

Informants said the Canadian government was informed that the British Opposition leader, Harold Wilson, requested permisison to accompany Prince Philip, who represents the Queen, and Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home.

Governor-General Vanier did not attend the funeral because Prince Philip is representing the Queen, a Government House spokesman said.

When Franklin D. Roosevelt died in office in 1945, the Queen was represented at the funeral by the Canadian Governor-General, the Earl of Athlone.

POPE PAUL:

'Much Hatred Still in World'

CP from AP-Reuters

VATICAN CITY—Pope Paul said Sunday that the assassination of President Kennedy shows "how much hatred and evil there still is in the world, and how great the threat is for civil order and peace. . . ."

"Dear children—we cannot in this moment of common prayer remove our thoughts, our sad thoughts from the recent event which the world has deplored," the pontiff told some 30,000 persons in St. Peter's Square.

The pontiff spoke from the window of his apartment Sunday before reciting the Angelus, a devotion commemorating Christ's incarnation.

"Our thought, after that of prayer for the one who is missing from this life and of comfort for those who remain in mourning and sorrow, turns to how much capacity for hate and evil there still is in the world, what menace for civil order and peace, how much need for God's grace and for his mercy and pardon.

"Thus, we pray as Jesus taught us: Lead us not into temptation and deliver us from evil. We pray for the maternal and most human intercession of the Virgin Mary."

The Pope then recited the Angelus prayer and gave his benediction.

City Jews Hold Kennedy Memorial

Jewish residents in Victoria joined the thousands across the nation on Sunday who were holding memorial services for the late John F. Kennedy. Rabbi M. Klein of Toronto officiated at the memorial service held in the Temple of Manuel Synagogue.

'NEVER KNEW WHAT HIT HIM'

DALLAS (UPI) — Staff physicians at Parkland Hospital and the University of Texas Southwest Medical School who attended fatally-wounded President Kennedy all agreed the late president never knew what hit him.

"He was dead for all practical purposes when he arrived in the emergency room," said Dr. Malcolm Perry, one of the surgeons and specialists who were with the late president the fading minutes of his life.

"The severity of the wound made it instantly noticeable that it was mortal," Dr. Perry, an assistant professor of surgery at the medical school next door to Parkland, said.

"He never had a chance. I guess we worked on him about 20 minutes—I couldn't tell how long, we were working so frantically. After a while Dr. M. T. Jenkins turned to me and said, 'It's too late, Mac.'

"I was never able to detect a heart beat after the president arrived. It was obvious he never knew what hit him."

BITTERNESS ACROSS COLOR LINE

Non-Whites Express Alarm

By The Canadian Press

From New Delhi to Accra, leaders of the non-white world have viewed President Kennedy's assassination in the context of his stand on civil rights.

Some, particularly President Azikiwe of Nigeria, reflected bitterness. In a message to President Johnson, he said:

"Whether the headquarters of the United Nations should remain in the United States should be of greater concern to African states because slaughter of this typical American reformer shows clearly that among some Americans there is a deep-seated hatred of the black man as a human being . . .

"As one who was educated in American universities I am disappointed that for over a quarter of a century I had preached to the people to regard the United States of America as God's country and I pray that all who believed me will forgive me for being such a simpleton . . ."

In Kenya, constitutional Affairs Minister Tom Mboya said Kennedy "was a champion of freedom for the black man and the world will be asking why they shot him."

HELPED NEGROES

In New Delhi, India's Prime Minister Nehru said:

"In his own country he stood for civil liberty, more especially in regard to Negroes . . .

"Quite possibly his death was due to some person or persons who did not like his policy in regard to Negroes."

In Karachi, Pakistan, English-language newspapers said Kennedy had been a victim of his support for the American Negro.

The morning News of Karachi and Dacca said Kennedy "fell a martyr in the cause of justice to the less-privileged population of his country."

In Ghana, President Kwame Nkrumah said:

"Amidst the complexities, uncertainties and realities of the 20th century it needs courage to take the uncompromising stand which President Kennedy took in his short term of office to remove the blot America's racial tragedy had inflicted upon U.S. society."

Johnson Church Offshoot Of Presbyterians

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is the second U.S. president to belong to the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ).

The other was President James A. Garfield, who was shot by an assassin on July 2, 1881, and died on Sept. 19 of that year.

The Christian Church, as it is most commonly known, was founded in the United States early in the 19th century by Presbyterian ministers who disagreed with certain tenets of that faith.

Numbering about 1,800,000 members in the U.S., the church is congregational in structure.

A Time of Violence

ONE of the most terrible weekends in the history of human affairs is over. At a time when the whole world stood still, humble and contrite before the assassination of the young American president, more wanton violence erupted; as the muffled drums rolled and the Presidential casket was borne to Capitol Hill, a man accused of his killing lay dying in a Dallas hospital, just a few feet from the room where John Fitzgerald Kennedy received the last rites of his church on Friday.

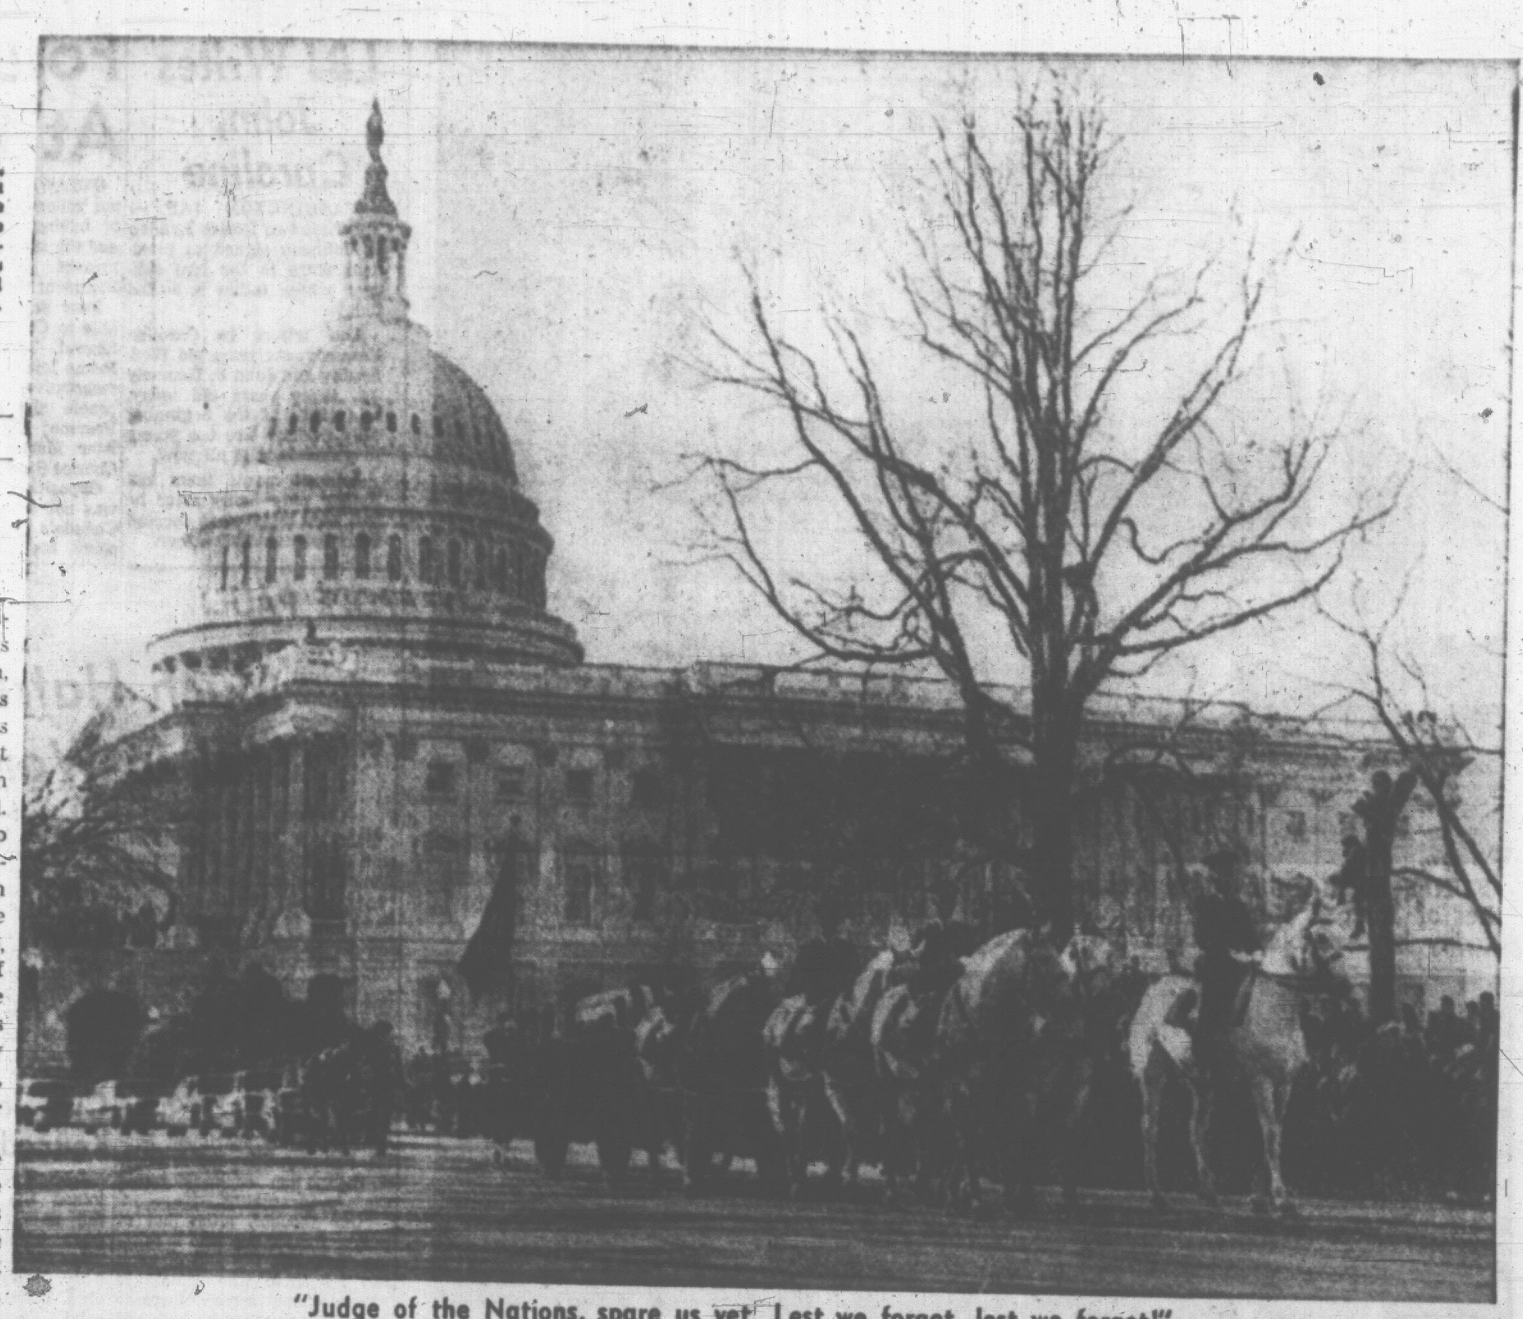

Such stunning events, occurring within the measure of a few hours, are almost too much for the human mind to comprehend or the spirit to endure. But of one thing we may be sure — the assassination of Lee Oswald is no occasion for pride. it has defiled a solemn and sacred ceremony, honoring a great American.

It has debased the rule of law by demonstrating that man himself — for whatever misguided motives — seems only too eager to take the law into his own hands.

While the great weight of evidence was against Oswald — his purchase of the assassination gun, his position in the book depot, his finger-prints, the gunpowder burns on his hands, the subsequent flight and killing of a patrolman — much of the evidence was circumstantial.

No doubt there was enough to convict him of the "crime of the century." But Oswald went to his death protesting his innocence. What the country needed, and was entitled to, was a calm and clear examination of the facts in court, where evidence could be given under oath, exhibits introduced, and the accused directly confronted by his accusers. Thus, and only thus, could the factual record be written into history.

Because one man elected to take the law into his own hands, we are denied this crucial privilege. On this tragic day, then, we mourn for the late President Kennedy, his gallant wife and family; but we should mourn for ourselves as well. In this testing time, we as a society have been unworthy.

"Judge of the Nations, spare us yet, Lest we forget, lest we forget!"

The Right Decision

TRANS-CANADA AIR LINES officials, after careful study of various types of aircraft, decided that the Douglas Aircraft Company's DC-9 would best suit its purposes as a replacement for its aging and no-longer economical Viscounts and Vanguards.

It should be noted at this point that political considerations did not enter into the TCA decision. The air line had no interest in the fact that some of the parts for the DC-9 would be manufactured at the De Haviland Aircraft plant in Toronto while the two competing machines—the French Caravelle and the British One-Eleven—would have been manufactured in part at the Canadair plant in Montreal.

The TCA choice was studied by the cabinet and by the Liberal caucus, the choice was endorsed by those bodies and the decision was announced Friday in the Commons by Prime Minister Pearson.

Then the uproar began. Opposition Leader Diefenbaker charged that a split in the cabinet over the TCA choice of the DC-9 "has been resolved in favor of those who represent Ontario constituencies," a reference to the added employment which will accrue to Toronto.

A Quebec Creditiste member, Louis-Joseph Pigeon, claimed the decision would give impetus to the separatist movement since it denied employment to French-Canadians in Montreal which the Caravelle or One-Eleven would have brought.

Mr. Raoul Caouette, the Creditiste leader, declared the choice was "a dose of castor oil" for Quebec.

And yet, after cutting through the political fog which the Conservatives and Creditistes have created, it can be seen that this is precisely the manner in which this type of decision should be reached.

The Crown-owned airline had to choose the aircraft which would best suit its purpose and on which future efficient and economical operation of its domestic services would depend. The fact that there was unemployment in this area or that could not be a consideration. If all the aircraft under consideration had been in all respects suitable, then the employment factor could have affected the cabinet's decision.

The deep pockets of unemployment which spot Canada are an unfortunate circumstance, but they should not be allowed to distort the economy of the country by dictating decisions which will in the long run make Canada less able to compete with the rest of the world.

There is no long-term solution for the unemployment problem to be gained by beggaring the nation and diminishing its chances of economic survival.

FROM TUCSON

By MAX FREEDMAN

Devotion to Jefferson's Credo—Earth Is for the Living

ON the day Sen. John F. Kennedy made his official announcement that he was a candidate for the presidential nomination, I had breakfast with him at his home. The convention was still months away, and he knew that a long struggle faced him before he could win the great prize.

Even at that early stage he had certain resolute convictions about his campaign. He was determined to enter every primary, to accept every challenge to a debate, to awaken the Democratic Party to meet the needs of a new age, and to rouse the energy of America so that we could repel the somber threat of Communist power.

Idealism

It was to be a campaign of idealism, of immense labor, of disciplined intelligence, with no word spoken that would weaken national unity, with no words left unspoken that would increase national strength.

So it was to be into the next crowded months when his radiance cast a glow over our national life, lighting a fire to inspire us with new purpose where so many others were content merely to curse the darkness. His wife, the incomparable Jacqueline, would be at his side whenever the occasion served. She smiled in agreement, though she knew the months of toil by which alone she could redeem her pledge.

He then said that he had no fear of the Catholic issue. He thought his religion would be a stronger barrier to his nomination at the Democratic convention than it would be to his election in the presidential campaign. It was a very different figure from Alfred E. Smith, and the judgment of America has widened since the campaign of 1928.

End of Religious Taboo

Let me leap forward a few months. Just after his election as president, I congratulated him on having broken the religious taboo in American politics. At once he corrected me. He said his election had given him no more than the chance to end this cruel prejudice. If he turned out to be an indifferent or unworthy president, the taboo would return, and in a more evil form.

In this wicked hour while the nation reels under an assassin's deed, we have the right, and indeed the duty, to record the invulnerable verdict that President Kennedy did in fact succeed in banishing the poison of religious bigotry from American national life. He did it by his own personality, by his conduct in the White House, by his unfaltering devotion as an American to America's needs and America's hopes.

Much of President Kennedy's design has been left unfinished by the brutal folly of an assassin's bullet. But President Kennedy's achievement in destroying religious prejudice as a test of political office will endure, it cannot be repealed or forgotten, and it will keep his name sweet in history.

Let me return to my breakfast with Mr. Kennedy. I have the most vivid and detailed memory of his assurance that he would vote for Sen. Lyndon Johnson, as the man most qualified for the presidential nomination, if he himself failed to be the convention choice. These words are worth recalling now as President Johnson begins his new duties.

President Kennedy never wearied of Jefferson's reminder that the earth belongs always to the living. He would want us to make our grief a shield for the living, not a lamentation for the dead. We honor President Kennedy's ideals, and complete his unfinished purpose, as we rally behind President Johnson in his task of sustaining the unity and honor and strength of an unconquerable America.

Like other friends of President Kennedy, I have never been surprised by the passion of his commitments to the cause of the poor and the disinherited, of all who stagger under unfair burdens, and smart beneath differences of race, or color or creed.

Two Oaths

I have never been able to shake from memory a conversation with President Kennedy on the significance of Inauguration Day. He said he had taken two oaths that day. One was public, and it committed him to lead and protect the American nation. The other was private, but it was no less binding on his conscience, for it committed him to sustain and direct the free nations while the heritage of democracy is under remorseless siege.

The power of America can only be sanctified by service to peace. That was his philosophy, his purpose, and his program. It is for us to make it also his triumph by converting his example into a constant inspiration for American policy.

The supreme tragedy is not that President Kennedy has been cut down in the splendor of his majestic manhood. The ultimate tragedy is that his capacity for growth as a national and world leader has ended.

Growing All the Time

He was growing all the time, in a tradition of spacious statesmanship, and excellence would have been his familiar companion had more time been granted to him. Now other hands will gather the rewarding harvests which he planted; but he will be remembered as the man who broke the furrows and walked always to the far horizons.

We think all too often of the Kennedy family as glittering and fortunate, forgetting that it has been no stranger to sorrow. The father was stricken, a son died a hero in war, a daughter died in the pride of her beauty, another daughter has borne her mental affliction with patient courage, and now our valiant president is gone. Tears overflow the family's enchanted cup of fortune, but room must somehow be found for a nation's grief.

For the president's widow, who lost a son a few months ago, and now her husband, there can be only a breaking of hearts. She has never been so near to us as she is now in her time of tragedy. The whole family stands today in a sacred circle of grief. But it does not stand alone. There is an echo of their grief in our sorrow, and we walk with them through the valley of the dark shadow.

So Near the Target

GREATER VICTORIA'S UNITED Appeal has fallen short of its $400,000 target—a result which should stir serious thought among citizens who realize how urgently the total was needed to carry on the work of the agencies the fund supports.

At the closing date for collections, the amount received, or pledged, was $371,026, a very creditable sum well above the figure last year and only about 7 per cent short of the current objective.

The result is, of course, a cause for concern. It means that different groups which help the underprivileged, assist those in need of special care and those which promote healthy development in young people, as well as ease the later years of the elderly, will have to cut back their programs. This is a disturbing development. It does little credit to the community as a whole.

At the same time it should be recognized that those who worked for the campaign, Mr. John Wallace, the chairman, Mr. Alan Baker, his vice-chairman, and a host of public-spirited citizens, have acquitted themselves well in the tasks they have performed. No one has ever raised more money for the appeal in this area.

It remains to be seen what plans will be made for next year. The work that the agencies do cannot be abandoned. Somehow this community must look after its own.

Mr. Adoula Charges Intrigue

THE FORTUNES OF THE COMmunists in The Congo seem to have come full circle — from the early days of Congolese independence when Russian and Czech "technicians" arrived in great numbers and wielded great influence, to the present time when Premier Cyrille Adoula has expelled all Soviet diplomats and "suspended" relations between the two countries.

Premier Adoula has charged that Soviet diplomats in The Congo had been intriguing with a Congolese "government-in-exile" established in Brazzaville by opponents of the premier.

According to a report from Leopoldville, Adoula is preparing for publication documents seized from Soviet diplomats which give "irrefutable" proof of the intrigue.

If the documents do indeed establish that the diplomats were plotting against the established government of The Congo they could play havoc with Communist attempts to infiltrate the newly-independent African states.

In large part any success which Communists have enjoyed in establishing their influence in these states has been due to the strong bias against the former colonial countries of the West held by most of their leaders. Communist bloc countries have been able to move into this area with goods and technicians by using the line that there are no strings attached to Communist trade and aid.

Premier Adoula's experience may well enlighten other African leaders as to the type of "independence" the Communists are promoting in Africa.

REPORT ON EUROPE

By WALTER LIPPMANN

In the West, General de Gaulle Is the Pivotal Figure

I TALKED about Eastern Europe in the two preceding articles. My main point was that the change of generations coincides with the realization that thermonuclear war has to be and probably will be avoided and that this is weakening the discipline which binds Eastern Europe together under the authority of the Soviet Union.

Lippmann

In the West I visited Rome, Paris and London — omitting Bonn, where it seemed to me too early to get any clear view of what is to come after Adenauer.

There is no doubt, I soon realized, that in Western Europe today President De Gaulle is the pivotal figure. The initiative is in his hands. There is little reason to think that the initiative will pass to London or to Bonn. This is not because General De Gaulle is universally loved, or even admired. It is, so I venture to think, because he has seen more of the future than most of his contemporaries, and so much that happens seems to bear him out.

Democracy Suspended

Let us begin with domestic politics in the western continent. Nobody whom I saw in Paris pretended to believe that General De Gaulle has set up a government which could be made to work without General De Gaulle.

France today is a free country in which representative democratic government has in fact been suspended. Yet no one who has visited Eastern Europe would think of France as a totalitarian dictatorship. It is rather an enlightened monarchy, and there is in France little of the fear which would make the general's opponents, of whom there are plenty, drop their voices and talk in a kind of code language for fear of being overheard.

So far as I could make out, the general's chief instrument to retain his power, apart from his enormous personal prestige, is that he has seized for himself a monopoly of radio and television. His opponents, including the Communist Party, are free to print and to talk. But they are cut off from a mass audience by the government's monopoly of broadcasting.

The Gaullist view is, I think, that representative government with its parties and its factions is no longer workable. In the modern age it is unable to provide good government with sufficient authority and independence. Representative government with its parties did not work in postwar France. It has not worked in postwar Italy. Probably it will not work in post-Adenauer Germany. What will come next the Gaullists do not profess to know. But they insist that it must be something which overrides parties and factions and establishes a continous national authority.

The central political tendency in Italy constitutes a tacit acceptance of the Gaullist finding. The parliamentary system with two-party government, as it comes down to us from the 19th century is, say the Gaullists, now unworkable. It led to Mussolini and to Hitler and might then have led to Stalin.

The Italians are trying to work out what is in reality a suspension of the two-party system. They are trying to form a coalition of all the parties and factions which believe in democracy, or more accurately in personal freedom. This in the inwardness of the so-called "opening to the left."

The Italian centre-left coalition is intended to comprise the Catholic Party insofar as it is progressive and liberal and the Socialists insofar as they are not Communists and totalitarian. I do not know whether such an Italian coalition can be formed successfully. But I have yet to talk to an Italian who had any plausible idea of an acceptable and workable alternative.

A popular front government would be unacceptable, and a centre-right government would be unworkable. If what is wanted is a strong government which is also democratic, then there can be no popular front with the Communists. Nor can there be a front with the rightists, who include what is left of fascism.

In the field of theory and doctrine, moreover, the Italian attempt anticipates correctly, I venture to think, the main tendency among the masses of the people of the Western European continent. The Democratic Socialists are abandoning their Marxist ideology, particularly of the class struggle, and the Christian Democrats are moving away from their former close collaboration with the feudal remnants and the plutocratic lobbiets.

Alternative to Personal Rule

As the Socialist parties in Western Europe are ceasing to be Marxist and as the religious parties are becoming more Christian, there is a prospect that such a coalition in Italy, and after the 1965 elections perhaps in Germany, will provide an alternative to the kind of personal rule practiced by General De Gaulle. But it will not be a revival of representative democracy as it comes down from the 19th century.

Turning now to international affairs, the main fact is that General De Gaulle got the jump on all his partners and allies because he was the first to realize and act upon the fact that the postwar era is ending. Early in the day, he saw that, because nuclear war had ceased to be an instrument of Soviet expansionary policy, it had become safe to turn away from the postwar arrangements. In the Gaullist view, this is not due to any change of heart in Moscow, but to the decisive American superiority in nuclear weapons. This estimate, they say, was confirmed in the Cuban affair.

If we are to understand the real calculation behind the general's insistence on creating a French nuclear striking force, we must begin with the Gaullist conviction that, because of American power, the Soviet Union cannot launch a successful aggressive surprise attack.

'Promise of His Spirit Be Fulfilled'

Britain's poet laureate, John Masefield, 85, saluted President Kennedy in verse today.

The poem, published in the editorial page of The Times, of London, is entitled "John Fitzgerald Kennedy". It reads:

"All generous hearts lament the leader killed;
The young chief with the smile, the radiant face;
The winning way that turned a wondrous race
Into sublimer pathways, leading on.
Grant to us life that though the man be gone,
The promise of his spirit be fulfilled."

YOUR HEALTH — By DR. WALTER ALVAREZ

An Artificial Kidney

As my good friend, that brilliant investigator, Dr. Irvine Page has been saying of late, that today, in every big city, terribly distressing problems are arising in regard to the treatment of persons with badly diseased kidneys. Here, for instance, is the record of a college student who has kidneys so defective that now, at 19 years of age, it is obvious to his physicians that those poisonous products of the body chemistry which normally are thrown out in the urine are piling up in his blood, and poisoning him severely. He is getting "dropsical," his blood pressure is going up, and under the strain his heart is failing.

Alvarez

The lad's parents, having heard vaguely that a normal kidney can be transplanted into the body of such a person, have begun to look around through the immediate family to see who they think should give the kidney. In this case, the father has so high a blood pressure that it would not be safe for him to part with a kidney. The lad's mother is such a nervous and worrisome person that the doctor does not want her operated on.

An older brother says he is willing to give a kidney, but because he is one of the university's best football players the coach insists that he must not go through a weakening operation. So now, the family has decided that a younger brother must give the kidney. But when he consulted the professor of medicine in the university, he was told that, as yet, the chances of a "foreign" kidney remaining in a man's body and functioning well for years are extremely small. The operation is likely to succeed only when one of two alike twins gives a kidney to the other twin. With this information, the young man refused to give a kidney and this refusal has embroiled him with his family—they criticize him and scold him.

* * *

Actually, if I were the sick man with the failing kidneys, I would not permit my brother to give me a transplant, because, as Dr. Page tells us, only a very few such transplants have remained to work well. We physicians hope that the problem will some day soon be solved, but as yet there is too much we do not know about it.

As Dr. Page just wrote, another big question which is now coming up—doubtless to plague us physicians, is this: Should a patient with his kidneys almost gone be connected to a huge artificial kidney, a device which can take much of the poison out of the patient's blood?

More and more hospitals are now planning to put in one or more such machines—machines which are expensive to get and expensive to run. If I were dying with bad kidneys, I would not let anyone hook me up to the machine unless I was assured by experts that there was a good chance that it would not only tide me over a crisis, but would leave my kidneys in so much better shape that when I was taken off the machine I could go on living comfortably and usefully for at least several more years.

* * *

I certainly would not want to live on miserably and uselessly in a hospital bed, with an artery and a vein connected to a machine—which would have to be watched all the time by experts. Also, I would refuse to accept the situation if all it meant was that it would first impoverish my family and then put a big burden of taxes on my city or state. Why should they spend large sums to keep me alive, not only to no purpose but perhaps to keep me suffering constantly?

I would want to know also if the doctors would pull out the tubes and let me die when I begged them to let me go? I fear they would not. They would probably put the problem up to some theologians—and that I would hate to see. Dr. Page asked the other day, in a splendid editorial, if he begged to be allowed to die in peace, and if a physician were to pull out the tubes, would the local district attorney indict him for murder?

EXCERPTS FROM SPEECHES

Where Johnson Stands on Key Issues

WASHINGTON (AP)—Here are views expressed by President Lyndon B. Johnson during the last year on key issues:

Peace — "Reciprocity is the key to peace. If the Soviets want America's co-operation, they can earn it. If the Soviets want America's hostility, they certainly can provoke it. But we are ready to give the Soviets the opportunity to demonstrate that they are ready to make limited agreements on precise subjects and to abide by these decisions in the interests of humanity." Speech to Liberal Party rally in New York City, Oct. 15, 1963.

U.S.-Soviet relations—"From time to time sensible arrangements may be possible which will reduce tensions in some areas of conflict. But they are arrangements which involve mutual advantage. For the time being it is clear that the cold war . . . will continue." Veterans Day speech at Welch, W. Va., Nov. 11, 1963.

United Nations—"The UN is very necessary. We would be at war without it." Talk at University of Wisconsin's Milwaukee branch, May 4, 1963.

Latin America — "The purpose of the United States remains unchanged toward this hemisphere: We intend that the Americas shall be free of communism, free of those who serve Communist masters and —through the joint efforts of the Alliance for Progress— free of the seeds from which communism grows." Speech to American Petroleum Institute in Chicago, Nov. 14, 1962.

Cuba—"We shall not be content until the last of the Soviet forces are withdrawn from Cuban soil." Speech at Inter-American Defence Training College, Washington, March 20, 1963.

Soviet - China relations — "There is clear and growing evidence that influences are now at work within the Communist world which may well break the bonds with which the Communists have shackled both themselves and the people they rule." Speech to American Association of School Administrators, Atlantic City, N.J., Feb. 17 1963.

Space race — "We are committed to leadership in space, not as a contest of national vanity, but for the practical reason that we believe such leadership can help assure peace — while lack of such leadership for free men might plunge the world into a reign of terror and tyranny from outer space." Speech to National Security Industrial Association in Washington, Oct. 10 1963.

Civil Rights — "The words of the Declaration of Independence —the words of the Constitution of the United States—do not need to be further interpreted. They need to be implemented for all Americans." Independence Day speech in Philadelphia, July 4, 1963.

"I can well understand how patience is wearing thin. I do not believe we are justified in asking further patience of those people who have so much given of that quality already."

Luncheon speech at Equal Employment Conference in Los Angeles, Aug. 9, 1963.

Public Accommodations Law — "Certainly we know it is wrong—certainly we know it is a corrosive cancer in our society — for tax-paying, arms bearing, vote casting Americans to be unable to find a bed for the night or meals for their children along the highways of our free and decent society." Speech to Chamber of Commerce luncheon in Houston, Tex., Aug. 12, 1963.

Painting Recovered

TORONTO (CP)—Police recovered a $7,500 Renoir painting Sunday which had been taken Saturday from a private gallery in midtown Toronto. The painting, Profile of a Girl, was found in a private home but no one has been arrested for theft. It was one of an exhibition of impressionist and modern artists.

HOME GARDEN — By HILDA BEASTALL

. . . For Meritorious Service

Among the daphnes which can be grown in our mild coastal climate are two which merit our attention for their contribution to the winter garden.

Hilda

These are not among the choicest daphnes, and perhaps because of their ease of culture are somewhat neglected.

Daphne laureola, the spurge-laurel is a small evergreen shrub of rather curious habit, growing two to three feet high. The stems somewhat resemble the trunks of miniature palms, and are crowned with whorls of narrow dark green leaves about three inches long.

Hidden beneath the leaves are the stemless greenish-white flowers in early spring. Reputed to be fragrant, they develop into blue-black berries which give rise to seedlings quite readily.

These little shiny green shrubs are worth cultivating as specimens in shady areas, or as low hedge material for garden dividers.

Another member of the family whose fragrance is obvious is D. mezereum, an extremely hardy shrubbery plant growing to three feet.

This daphne is deciduous, but bears multitudes of its fragrant little flowers all over the leafless stems during late winter.

Purplish-lavender when open, the buds are even now in evidence, and only wait for a continued mild spell after Christmas to spread their perfume.

The white variety, alba, seems to be much earlier to bloom. I have seen it fully out before Christmas, and it may last for many weeks.

As might be expected, daphne mezereum will flower earlier and last longer if planted with a south or west aspect, since it will then be sheltered from the cutting winter winds.

In spring, the narrow leaves appear, and a crop of berries, which, if sown as soon as ripe will produce seedlings.

Red berries follow the purplish-lavender flowers but the white flowers are followed by yellow fruits.

All daphne berries are poisonous if eaten and swallowed, but all daphne plants are well worth growing for their beauty.

Rites Held For 23-Year City Resident

Funeral services were held this afternoon for Mrs. Martha Baylis, 74, of 21 Midwood Road.

A resident of Victoria for the past 23 years and widow of the late Edward Septimus Baylis, she died at her home on Thursday.

Mrs. Baylis was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Joseph Nickson of Sechelt, B.C., who came to B.C. in 1885 and settled in Cobble Hill.

Mr. Nickson formed Nickson Construction Company, worked on construction of the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway, and installed a water system at Elk Lake before moving to Vancouver. There he installed a water main across the First Narrows, laid many streets and cleared districts of the city.

Mrs. Baylis is survived by two sons, John P. E. Baylis at home and Denbigh H. Baylis at 268 View Royal; two granddaughters; a brother, Harold Nickson of Vancouver and three sisters, Miss Lindsay Nickson, Sechelt, Mrs. A. F. (Edith) Paddon and Mrs. T. D. (Rena) Sutherland, both of Vancouver.

Bennett Wants Right to Take Direct Taxes

By FRANK RUTTER

Premier W. A. C. Bennett will ask Ottawa Tuesday to return to the provinces the right to take all direct taxes for themselves.

The main result would be: the provinces would get all the income tax imposed on its residents.

Mr. Bennett, in his brief to a federal-provincial conference, says the rights of the provinces under Confederation have become "blotted out."

The brief also calls for rapid reductions of tariffs which the premier claims put B.C. at an economic disadvantage and which make British Columbians pay much higher prices for consumer goods than residents of Eastern provinces.

POSTPONED

The conference was to have been held today, but was postponed until Tuesday because of President Kennedy's funeral.

Federal interference in provincial matters has caused "much of the strain of recent years on national administrations" the premier says.

"It is time that independent decision on all matters other than those of genuine national and international concern be restored to the provincial legislatures," his brief adds.

Although the brief does not spell it out, this is obviously in part a reference to the legal entanglements of the B.C. Electric takeover.

ADVERSE RULING

The Supreme Court ruled that the province had no right to expropriate a company with federal ties.

Although this judgment never went into effect because of a settlement, the B.C. government argues that it should not be necessary to have those ties.

Mr. Bennett suggests the field of direct taxation should be returned to the provinces on a progressive basis, starting with inheritance taxes.

Present federal estate tax laws encourage cheating and infringe upon provincial property and rights, the brief says.

Until the direct tax field is completely returned to the provinces, Mr. Bennett says, the federal government should, however, continue to make contributions toward provincial highway construction and toward health programs.

HEALTH INSURANCE

The brief repeats the stand B.C. took as long ago as 1955 that there should be a national health insurance scheme initiated by Ottawa.

The present agreement on direct taxes allows the federal government to collect income tax and return only a portion to the provinces, amounting, says Mr. Bennett, to less than 20 per cent.

Although Confederation specifically allows the provinces to exclusive control of direct taxes, they surrendered this power during the war.

Instead of returning the tax rights, the federal government has handed out "equalization" payments and conditional grants. Mr. Bennett refers to them as "subsidies."

FALSE PRINCIPLE

He says that it is a false principle for one government to impose a tax and another to spend the revenue.

The equalization payments are based upon the amount of income tax revenue per capita in each province.

B.C., with a high per capita income, gets no equalization.

This system, the premier says, is wrong and unfair.

It creates the illusion that only one or two provinces are solvent, while the rest are "have-nots."

The payments made by Ottawa total $106,000,000, of which two-thirds goes to Quebec, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

If this system is continued, Mr. Bennett warns, "it will pose a serious threat to the spirit of Confederation."

BETTER TRADE DEAL

B.C. also wants a better deal on trade, Mr. Bennett says.

Present national tariff policies protect Quebec and Ontario, and leave British Columbians paying higher prices for consumer and production goods.

The amount of the difference, the premier says, was $100,000,000 on $600,000,000 worth of goods which B.C. had to buy in 1962.

In addition, B.C. could only sell $130,000,000 worth of its goods to Ontario and Quebec to offset the $600,000,000—a ratio of five-to-one unfavorable to B.C.

This just doesn't make sense, he adds, when B.C. exports more than its proportional share of goods to foreign markets. In fact, Mr. Bennett maintains, B.C.'s heavy export trade saved Canada from a very substantial trade deficit in 1962.

He urges Ottawa to reduce "as rapidly as possible" its national tariffs, quotas and dumping duties.

Tug of War Looming Between East, West

OTTAWA (CP) — Provincial premiers began gathering in Ottawa over the weekend for the federal provincial conference starting Tuesday and early indications were for a tug of war between East and West.

Premier Smallwood of Newfoundland said he does not want to see the federal government lose hold of the national purse strings. Premier Bennett of British Columbia made public a brief urging the central government to pull out completely from the field of direct taxation. Mr. Bennett also wanted abandonment of equalization payments — a succession strongly opposed in the Atlantic provinces.

Mr. Smallwood, Mr. Bennett, Premier Shaw of Prince Edward Island, Premier Manning of Alberta and Premier Lloyd of Saskatchewan were in Ottawa Sunday night despite last-minute postponement of the fiscal conference to Tuesday from today allowing Prime Minister Pearson to attend the funeral in Washington of the late President Kennedy.

SIMILAR VIEWS

Premier Shaw and Attorney-General Richard Donahoe of Nova Scotia expressed views similar to those of Mr. Smallwood.

"When we joined Confederation it was with the idea that all would be given an equal opportunity so far as possible," said Mr. Shaw. "I don't think a federal one, he said, that principle should be forgotten now."

Mr. Bennett's brief, to be presented at the opening session of the week-long conference, said equalization payments didn't contribute to national harmony.

"The grants are undue subsidies to certain provinces at the expense of others. . . . Equalization in its present form is basically wrong and unfair," he said.

REDUCE TARIFFS

Another British Columbia suggestion aimed directly at Ontario and Quebec was for reductions in tariffs, quota restrictions and dumping duties designed to protect the big manufacturing provinces.

Mr. Lloyd said his provincial submission also dwelt on the question of tax sharing with the federal government but he would not elaborate on what changes he would like to see.

One point that would emerge in his presentation was the question of education of Indian children. Control over such education should be placed in provincial hands with the federal government paying the bills, he said. This would overcome the problem in northern Saskatchewan of having separate arrangements for Indian and Metis children. At present, the Metis—of mixed white and Indian parentage—were a provincial responsibility and the Indians said Mr. Shaw. "I don't think a federal one, he said.

WALKER-GW EARNINGS SET ALL-TIME HIGH

Hiram Walker-Gooderham & Worts Ltd. has reported all-time high consolidated net earnings of $29,643,656, or $3.45 a share, on record sales of $478,788,327 for the year ended Aug. 31.

Earnings of the preceding year were $27,705,832, or $3.22 a share, on sales of $469,287,365.

President Burdette Ford said in his report that industry sales in the U.S. market continued to expand with Canadian and Scotch continuing to enlarge their shares of the whiskey market.

Consumption of distilled beverages aso continued to expand in Canada and the company's brands maintained their positions.

The report shows that while earnings accounted for a little over six per cent of the sales dollar, excise taxes and import duties took almost 60 per cent.

SEPARATISM — SECOND OF A SERIES

Guarding a Treasure

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

QUEBEC CITY — If, as our politicians promise, Canada's constitution is to be overhauled for Quebec's benefit, we had better understand at the beginning what we are about.

Hutchison

This reporter has recently explored, in a rough but intimate fashion, the whole spectrum of French Canada's constitutional aspirations, from the extreme, sans-culottic wing of total separatism to the moderates who would leave the British North America Act unchanged.

All the neat and generally unworkable devices of law now debated in Quebec are merely the outward symptoms of something much more important—the true meaning of the "quiet revolution."

That meaning, though it is obscured by the slogans and often distorted by the manoeuvres of politics, can be stated quite simply:

A great, proud and indestructible race, which numbered some 60,000 at the time of the so called Conquest and now forms a third of modern Canada, is struggling to preserve something infinitely precious but indefinable in words.

The elusive something is not only the French language, certainly not the demand for more political patronage. It is not only the Church, whose decline in power has been, indeed, a major cause of a revolution secular in purpose and not without its tinge of anti-clericalism.

No, the inner imperative, usually called Quebec's separate way of life, is larger and deeper than any outward symbol or any political theory and it defies any definition understandable to the Anglo-Saxon mind.

Yet we Anglo-Saxons should be the first to realize that nothing of ultimate importance to any people is ever truly defined. All our own history, and the instincts that made it, though clear and compelling to us, have never been put into words.

Valued Treasure

Suffice it to say, in English, that Quebec has a treasure of highest value to preserve, asks us to recognize it as valuable and seeks the means of preservation.

Accepting these claims (as the writer does), we shall not begin to comprehend the nation's crisis until we realize that the French Canadian mind is torn today between a new confidence and an ancient dread.

Quebec's resolve to remain Quebec, a racial island in the rising sea of North American conformity, is tortured by the unspoken fear that this sacred dream has been doomed by the nature of the contemporary world. A negative anxiety, far more than any positive policy, animates the revolution, convulses politics and confuses the rest of Canada.

As always, in times of hope and peril, the French mind, with its fatal logic, turns instinctively to the mere mechanics of the constitution, assuming that everything can be settled by lawyer's magic.

So it turned in the revolution of France when, after years of furious wrangle, the constitution, as Carlyle said, would not march. It does not march today without an elected dictator.

Quebec's almost pathetic faith in constitutional amendment as a sovereign remedy is natural to a minority in any nation. Among French Canadians it comes with peculiar force from the long roots, the subliminal impulses of the Gallic spirit, even after two centuries of separation from the motherland.

Hence Quebec's debate, mysterious to the pragmatic Anglo-Saxon and, for the most part, irrelevant to practical affairs.

Starting with the separatist extreme, I sought out a representative figure who could speak with undoubted authority.

Wide Experience

He was not one of those primitive prophets who appear daily in the headlines but possess little influence. He was not the sort of man that one would expect to find in the extremist camp.

On the contrary, he was a man of superlative education, of wide experience throughout Canada and in foreign countries. As in the case of most Quebec intellectuals, his perfect English speech, his refinement of mind and manner, must make most English-speaking Canadians feel rather like savages.

This outright separatist, having sacrificed his own professional career for an ideal, took it for granted that the Canadian Confederation was finished and would not last until its centennial of 1967.

Already, he said, the rest of the nation had sold itself to the United States, a great power without a culture. Quebec alone remained spiritually intact.

Therefore, if it was to survive as an entitity, free of contamination, it must be politically and economically separate—not because it was unfriendly to other Canadians but because it had its special mission, its duty to itself and mankind.

Yes, the new nation of Quebec, about to declare its independence, would face difficulties. Its entire economy would have to be transformed and oriented largely out of North America toward France and western Europe, which would supply its necessary capital and help to nourish its culture. But all these problems could be solved by independence, not otherwise.

Since independence had been assured by the automatic forces of history, it was useless to talk about revising the Canadian constitution, now dead but not quite buried.

The middle position in the grand assize was explained by another intellectual, equally educated but more confused.

He rejected separatism because, he said, it would destroy the very thing that Quebec was trying to preserve. The economy of a French Canadian nation would be so disrupted, when it could no longer sell its goods adequately in English-speaking Canada or secure its capital in the United States, that inevitably the democratic process would collapse under the strains of increasing poverty.

Dictatorship

A brutal, right-wing dictatorship of some kind would then emerge to grapple with these insoluble problems.

The revolution of liberal reform would die in birth. Quebec would become a dark and ugly pocket of reaction where a few rich men fattened on the poor.

Finally, in its desperation, Quebec would join the United States and that would be the end of the French Canadian dream.

To save it, this man and many others are building constitutional air castles of varied design.

The most popular as openly advocated by Mr. Daniel Johnson, leader of the Union Nationale and a person of irresistible charm is a constitution giving Quebec a veto on national policy.

It would be provided by an upper house of Parliament, replacing the Senate and equally representing (regardless of population) the French Canadians and the rest of the nation.

The House of Commons, elected according to population, would supervise the nation's routine housekeeping but any vital decisions, touching both races, or such issues as foreign policy, would be settled in the bi-racial chamber. Then two nations within a single state would live happily ever afterwards.

That such arrangements would usher Canada straight back to the old days of deadlock and paralysis, as resolved by Confederation, apparently does not occur to the builders of imaginary constitutions.

The third witness in my little survey was a man of extraordinary learning, reputed to be the ablest constitutional scholar in Quebec.

'Sheer Moonshine'

He dismissed all the notions of the extreme wing and the centre as sheer moonshine. A separate Quebec, he said, could not survive for a decade and, after a spasm of fascist-type rule, would precede the rest of Canada into the United States.

That, in a general way, is the view of the Pearson government and its ministers from Quebec. It is also, I suspect, the private nightmare of the Quebec government.

All French Canada's talent and energy, the constitutional scholar said, would be needed to conduct the revolution already under way, to educate the people, to provide business management, to complete a huge program of social reform.

The existing constitution — one of the oldest and most successful in the world — gave Quebec all the freedom of action required for these purposes. Why waste time and compound the present confusion by worthless legal hair-splitting? Quebec must get on with its day-to-day business, and so it would after a brief, cyclical flurry of separatist agitation.

There, in the rough, is the spectrum of the grand assize revealing at once that Quebec is not unified in its political opinions but fractured on everything except the will to survive.

As I shall try to argue later, none of the current constitutional phantasies can work if the nation is to survive. Given that premise, what are the actual intentions of the Quebec government and of a federal government which promises to revise the constitution? No one knows.

A bipartisan committee of the provincial legislature, established to consider constitutional reform, is the surest proof that no one knows, in the Quebec government anyway. If it had any definite plans it would not need a committee to advise it. Ottawa for its part is equivocating and buying time.

No Agreement

Meanwhile the committee has talked much and agreed, so far, on nothing. In terms of practical Canadian politics it is playing with shadows but the shadows can deepen and become dangerous.

For in terms of practical Quebec politics Premier Lesage is constantly driven toward extreme positions, in words at least, by the competition of Mr. Johnson who, himself a moderate, reasonable man, is driven by his competition for votes.

Gresham's law of politics debases the coinage of thought and imperils both Quebec and the nation.

There is more to it than that. The future of events depends primarily on the secretive, troubled and flexible mind of Mr. Lesage, who will be discussed in a final report.

NDP Endorsed

MONTREAL (CP) — The 320,000-member Quebec Federation of Labor CLC endorsed the federal New Democratic Party at the close of its three-day meeting Saturday but reserved judgment on the newly-formed Quebec Socialist party and the Quebec wing of the NDP.

TRIBUTE TO SLAIN PRESIDENT

Commerce at Standstill

NEW YORK (AP) — Commerce slowed to a standstill today as the United States paid homage to the slain President Kennedy.

The New York and American stock exchanges, regional stock exchanges and major commodity exchanges closed for the day. Most banks across the country also were closed.

Many stores and plants closed for periods ranging from a few moments to the entire day. The Pennsylvania Railroad, Baltimore & Ohio and New York Central trains scheduled halts of one minute as tribute.

The United Mine Workers and the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union said their members would not work today.

Major retail stores in New York closed their doors. Most Broadway stage presentations also were cancelled for the day.

TORONTO (CP) — The Toronto Stock Exchange announced today that it will be open for business as usual on Tuesday.

Trading was suspended at 2:23 p.m. Friday following news of President Kennedy's assassination and remained closed today.

It was the first time in the history of the exchange that it has been closed as a result of any international crisis.

Other Canadian exchanges also were closed today.

FRANKFURT, West Germany (AP) — West German stock prices declined slowly today on a market marked by caution and limited trading. It was the first session following the death of President Kennedy.

Prices were 10 or more points lower at the opening, generally the equivalent of a two to three-per-cent drop from Friday's closing prices. Some leading issues staged a modest rally but then sank again.

There was no trading in American securities. Banks, which act as brokers here, reported only slight offerings on the market and claimed there was no evidence of panic selling.

ZURICH (AP) — Swiss stock markets showed no noticeable reaction to the assassination of President Kennedy today when trading resumed after the weekend. Swiss shares fluctuated unevenly. There was no trading in American securities.

PARIS (AP) — The Paris stock market, which has been in the doldrums since mid-September, was listless today at the opening.

Most quotations were about the same as last Friday, when downward pressure was noted. There were a few gains, especially among Sahara oil issues. Trading was light.

Diamonds Seized

TORONTO (UPI) — RCMP seized $20,000 worth of loose diamonds from a man at Toronto International Airport Sunday as he was about to board a flight for Mexico City. Joseph Eder, 50, of Mexico City, was charged with smuggling and was lodged in jail at Brampton, Ont.

SERGEANTS EVEN LUG BAGS IN PPCLI MOVE

Officers Man the Baby Brigade

BY NORMAN CRIBBENS
Times Staff Reporter

TRENTON, Ont.—Officers carrying babies and sergeants lugging bags is no uncommon sight at this busy RCAF-Army base, 95 miles from Toronto.

They do it at odd times around the clock, yet you never hear any complaints—seldom even a cuss word. For these men are dedicated members of Third Movement Control, Royal Canadian Army Service Corps, and they have a humane job to do.

It is to get 1,600 Victorian soldiers and their families safely aboard the big Yukon turbo-props which are whisking them over to Germany, 123 at a time.

1,000 Moved

Operation Airlift for First Battalion Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry is proceeding apace and more than 1,000 have been moved.

Buses meet the trains at all hours and bring the weary travellers in. Some of the mothers look like walking corpses and soldier-fathers often have that drawn tense look you see in the faces of men who feel they have had enough.

Infants are apt to get irritable on long journeys and their bawling can be trying even to the most devoted parents.

When a baby-carrying transport gets in here, it's a case of all hands to the pump—and my own are slightly dampish from handling travel-tired infants.

Ask Capt. Bernard Wallis, in charge of this operation, if you can be of any assistance and he will answer "of course!" For the captain has a one-track mind on the job and sees only the end result.

"No one goes home until every mother and child is in a room," he tells his army helpers.

Big Challenge

And Captain Wallis does plenty himself. His home phone is as busy as his office phone and he will talk to anyone at any hour.

"You have lots of headaches," I said.

"You can call them that if you like," he answered. "I call them challenges. The reward is the delight on a mother's face when she sees we are ready and anxious to help."

Officer commanding the detachment is Capt. W. I. Nelson, whose brother, Jack, lives at Brentwood, V.I.

"I have talked to many of the wives," he said, "and they all speak highly of the service we give them."

Back in Victoria, the detachment has an able ally in Capt. J. D. Snowball, rotation officer at Work Point Barracks. Capt. Snowball will be the last of the Princess Patricias to leave for Germany, as he is responsible for departure of all the rest.

After a night or two in Yukon Lodge, the army's well-equipped guesthouse for travelling families, passengers are shepherded aboard the spacious Yukon aircraft which leave every few days for Dusseldorf—the big industrial city on the River Rhine, which is about 60 miles from the Princess Patricia's new home at Fort McLeod.

11-Hour Trip

The planes usually leave around 6 p.m., EST, and a substantial meal is served one hour after take-off. Flying time to Dusseldorf is about 11 hours, with breakfast one hour before landing.

Tedium is lightened by the distribution of hampers prepared by Maple Leaf services containing toys, candy and comics for the youngsters; playing cards, cribbage boards, chewing gum and magazines for adults.

Coffee, soft drinks and biscuits are served at intervals during the journey.

There are some taboos—no liquor, no lighter fluid, no nail polish, as these are classified as inflammable items of baggage.

Passengers carrying transistor radios are asked to take out the batteries, since transistors in operation can interfere with navigation.

"We also discourage people from taking liquor before they embark," an RCAF officer said. "It is never advisable to get 'high' when flying at high altitudes."

On arrival at Dusseldorf, soldiers and families are transferred to army bases for a two-hour drive to Fort McLeod, which is located close by the Rhineland village of Hemer.

Already in residence at Fort McLeod is Lt.-Col. G. G. Brown, officer commanding the First Battalion, with his wife and family. There, too, are Regimental Sergeant-Major A. J. Rudd and Quartermaster Sergeant Instructor Andrew Danyleyko. QMS Danyleyko flew there recently with his wife, Dolores, and six children, formerly of 922 Lyall Street, Victoria.

Tobacco Note Denies Link With Cancer

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian tobacco industry said today the relationship between smoking and ailments such as lung cancer and heart disease is still a matter of dispute.

The industry made the statement in a brief presented at an Ottawa conference on smoking and health called by Health Minister LaMarsh.

The brief, which the industry said is based on "findings of scores of medical scientists throughout the world," declared that "exaggerated charges against smoking are frequently repeated but remain unproved."

Knowledge of lung cancer was scanty and scientific experiments had failed to establish that it was definitely associated with smoking.

The brief was presented by a committee on behalf of four tobacco manufacturing firms: Imperial Tobacco Company of Canada, Rothmans of Pall Mall Canada, Macdonald Tobacco Incorporated, and Benson and Hedges (Canada) Limited.

Also attending the two-day conference are provincial health officials and representatives of tobacco growers and health agencies, both professional and voluntary.

Disease Controlled

CASTLEGAR (CP) — An outbreak of infectious hepatitis is now under control, district medical officer Dr. James McAnulty said Friday.

Sex Slayer Hunted

MIAMI, Florida (UPI) — A force of 50 detectives was on round-the-clock duty today in a search for the sex-slayer of 10-year-old Loreen Thorbahn. Her body, showing signs of massive blows on the skull, was found in the city's outskirts in same general area where the remains of a 19-year-old girl, the victim of a similar crime, was found last month.

Eskimos Fallout Victims?

CALGARY (CP) — Nuclear fallout from Russian hydrogen bomb testing may be indirectly responsible for forcing Canada's 12,500 Eskimos to integrate with the white man's civilization, Northern Affairs Minister Arthur Laing said Saturday.

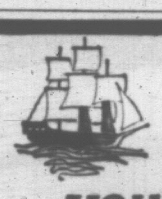

He said Eskimos are being forced to change from hunters and foragers to wage earners because of a 90 per cent depletion in caribou herds during the last 12 years.

Caribou were once the main source of food for the Arctic nomads, he said.

"There is a strong suggestion of sterility in caribou herds caused by nuclear fallout," he said. "Concentrations of fallout are very high in the Arctic regions, especially in lichens, which are the main source for caribou."

"These people must be adapted to a wage-earning economy. There are places where they are living where the population cannot be sustained."

Famed Author Aldous Huxley Dies of Cancer

HUXLEY
. . . prophetic vision

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Novelist Aldous Huxley, famed for his satirical version of a "Brave New World" and a member of the eminent British family of letters and sciences, died Friday of cancer. He was 69.

Huxley died at his home and private funeral services were conducted in Los Angeles.

Huxley was the son of Leonard Huxley and grandson of renowned biologist Thomas Huxley, credited with popularizing the evolutionary theories of Charles Darwin. He was the brother of Julian Huxley, noted biologist and writer and grandnephew of poet-essayist Matthew Arnold.

Author of more than 20 books, Huxley was noted primarily as a philosophical novelist. He used characters largely to represent his far-ranging ideas in his fiction works, which were sprinkled with subtle wit and incisive satire.

LIVELY INTEREST

His massive collection of essays displayed a lively interest in all aspects of the world around him, from 16th century musical instruments to the dangers of nuclear testing, and expressed grave concern for the shape of society in the distant future.

The outstanding testament to Huxley's imagination was "Brave New World," the novel that earned him literary immortality in 1932. The satirical classic envisioned a world of babies mass produced in laboratories and brain-washed slave workers.

HUNTER SHOOTS OWN SON

KAMLOOPS (CP) Two hunting fatalities were reported to RCMP Saturday including one in which a father accidentally shot his own son.

Police said Glen Harold Prigmore, 40, of nearby Celista, was hunting in Chase area about 35 miles east of here Friday when he thought he saw a deer moving through the brush.

His shot struck and killed his son Gordon, 18.

On the same day at 100 Mile House, about 80 miles northwest of here, an unidentified American hunter accidentally shot his hunting guide.

Police said Jack Cecil of Bridge Lake died instantly.

Canadian Jailed 30 Years in Cuba

By JACK BEST

HAVANA (CP) — A young Canadian pilot was sentenced Saturday to a 30-year prison term for conspiring against Cuba and possessing explosives. A second Canadian flyer was found not guilty of the same charges and set free.

Ronald Patrick Lippert, 31, of Kitchener, Ont., confessed to being an agent for the United States Central Intelligence Agency. His 30-year sentence is being appealed by the Canadian embassy here. It was learned unofficially that chances are good for his release after he serves a relatively small part of his sentence.

Acquitted was William (Willie) Milne, 32, of Montreal, who spent Saturday night at the home of Canadian vice-Consul G. I. Warren after being released from detention which began more than four weeks ago. Milne is expected to leave Cuba within a few days.

A third defendant, Maria Magdalena Volta Bravo, also was convicted and sentenced to nine years. A Cuban, she is Lippert's aunt.

ARRESTED OCT. 24

The two Canadians were arrested Oct. 24 at Havana's Jose Marti airport after arriving from Miami in a light plane said to belong to W. A. J. Garsat, a Toronto businessman.

Cuban customs inspectors testified they found in Lippert's possession a supply of explosives concealed in tin cans. The prosecution asked the death penalty for Lippert and 30 years for his aunt.

Canadian Ambassador George Kidd and three other embassy officials attended the trial, which was covered by 10 correspondents from Canada and a number of other reporters regularly assigned to Cuba.

Their feeling appeared to be that the two pilots received a fair trial.

The Canadian government had expressed its grave concern about the case to Cuban authorities both here and in Ottawa.

Embassy officials here were able to see Milne and Lippert almost at will while they were awaiting trial. Two excellent Havana lawyers recruited by the embassy received full access to documents and to their clients—privileges said to be almost unheard of in cases involving the security of the Cuban state.

MAKES CONFESSION

In a lengthy confession, Lippert, a tall, thin man whose wife is from Cuba, admitted he carried the explosives to Cuba on instructions of the CIA. He said he had served the U.S. organization for more than a year, receiving $500 a month plus expenses.

The cans containing the explosives were represented to customs officials as containing preserved fruit from Canada, Lippert said in his confession. He said he was to have left the explosives with an intermediary who would surrender them to another agent acting on coded radio instructions from the CIA.

Lippert said he had made an earlier explosives delivery to Cuba on Aug. 28. He got them through customs and left them with his aunt.

He said the first explosives shipment subsequently was picked up by a CIA agent, presumably for sabotage.

Lippert maintained that his aunt was unaware of the contents of the tins.

The court refused, however, to accept Maria Magdalena's plea of not guilty.

Lippert told the court Milne did not know the cans contained explosives, and thought they were the same as other tins in the same cargo.

Cut in Halibut Quota Agreed By 3 Pacific Treaty Nations

VANCOUVER (CP) — The North Pacific Treaty countries agreed Saturday to cut next year's halibut quota in the eastern Bering Sea by more than 40 per cent.

Delegates representing the United States, Japan and Canada, at the annual meeting of the International North Pacific Fisheries Commission, recommended a combined quota of 6,393,340 pounds.

That compares with a quota of 11,000,000 pounds this year. Approval of the action by the member governments is regarded as a formality.

Japan also agreed to a proposal that no long-time fishing gear be in the water for 48 hours before the opening of the halibut season. That will give fishermen of all three countries an even start.

Japanese spokesmen told the commission there will be no "radical" increase in Japanese trawling operations in the halibut-rich Gulf of Alaska in 1964. Japan operated four trawlers in the area this year for exploratory purposes. Although the treaty does not restrict Japan from fishing for fish other than halibut in the gulf, Japanese fishermen are required to abstain from harvesting halibut there.

The United States has expressed concern over the possible effects of experimental trawling on halibut stock.

The countries also agreed to exchange observers on each other's fishing vessels in the gulf next year.

Irish Honor Guard

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Irish Airlines official said Saturday the Kennedy family has asked the Irish government to supply an honor guard of troops for President Kennedy's funeral Monday, and the request has been approved.

It's earning power that counts!

Earning power depends on the ability of your truck to do the job at the lowest possible cost. That's where Chevrolet Trucks shine. They've been earning top money for owners on every kind of job, in every part of the country for many years. Your local Chevrolet Truck dealer has the right Chevrolet Truck (5,000 to 43,000 lbs GVW) with the right Chevrolet engine (90 to 252 hp) for your kind of hauling. No matter which one you need, you can be sure of this: it'll have plenty of power — earning power. That's the kind that counts!

The 292 Six—one of eleven job-proven 1964 Truck engines.

Dear Sirs:

We have been using Chevrolet Trucks since 1929 and at present 32 of the 39 units in our fleet are Chevrolets.

Over the years we have found Chevrolet six cylinder engines to be the most practical for our fleet. The new 292 cu. in. Six is the best performer yet. It has ample power, is easy to maintain and economical to operate.

We rely on our Chevrolets for the dependability necessary in our year-round operation. Our drivers find Chevrolet Trucks completely suitable for every type of job we handle, and I cannot speak too highly of the success we have had with our Chevrolets.

Yours very truly,

Dear Sirs:

We would like to express our satisfaction with our Chevrolet Trucks. We haul between Toronto and Copetown and to farmers within a five miles radius of our plant. This is a year-round operation on highways, concession and farm roads. Our 1962 truck has a stake body with hoist and bulk blower and is powered by a 348 V8 engine. The truck has covered just over 30,000 miles and in addition the engine works about 10 hours weekly on bulk unloading. We have had no engine trouble of any kind, all that has been done is regular routine tune-up and oil changes. There's plenty of power available even for our heaviest loads, and gas mileage is very good.

We are well satisfied with the all-round performance of the truck and especially with the engine. We have found our operating costs lower than on previously owned trucks and expect to achieve the same results with our new Chevrolet Truck.

Yours truly,
F. Sheppard,
President.

$22,000 FOR 80 ACRES

Ladysmith Buys Park Property

LADYSMITH—The Village Commission has approved purchase of 80 acres of land at Holland Creek for development as a park and residential area.

The purchase price is $22,000.

The land deal was approved by a 3-2 vote after the commission was informed in a letter from the department of municipal affairs that a referendum asking ratepayers to approve purchase of the property was not necessary.

Commissioner Stan Heys objected to the purchase on the grounds the commission had led the public to believe it would have a voice in the matter.

"No one wants to see this property purchased more than I do, but I think the ratepayers should have a chance to vote on it," he said.

SOME OPPOSED

Commissioner Tom Strang said a number of property owners were opposed to the purchase. He also felt that the question should be put to the ratepayers in December.

But Chairman Len Ryan, who cast the deciding note, said members of the commission were elected to act in what they believed to be the best interests of the village.

He said he didn't think the commission should run to the ratepayers every time they were faced with an expenditure.

The commission, he felt, should face its responsibilities.

Girl Scores Top Marks In 4-H Work

DUNCAN — Isobel Roberts was awarded the Baumgart cup for scoring the highest number of points in club work during the year at a recent Cowichan 4-H Holstein Club achievement banquet.

She also won the prize for the best junior calf in the club and the Barkley cup for the best yearling heifer.

Sandra Bell, secretary of the club, received from Peter Bird, manager of the Imperial Bank of Commerce, Duncan, a gold watch for scoring the highest points in livestock judging at the annual field day held earlier this year.

She also received the Cowichan Creamery cup for placing first in the intermediate judging class.

BEST SENIOR CALF

Harry De Wit, Chemainus, won the cup for the best senior calf, the Doney trophy for the best animal in the club, and the Imperial Bank of Commerce rosebowl for the most points of any 4-H member at the Cowichan Exhibition.

Winners of other awards were: Bill Roberts, Buckerfield cup for the best fitted and shown calf; Case Van Jaarsveld, Sandra Bell, public speaking badges; Harry De Wit, Zweitse De Wit, demonstrator badges; Henry De Wit, Isobel Roberts, judging badges; Margaret Tattam, Case Van Jaarsveld, Frances Wallace, Annie Ottosen, Kathy O'Shea, George Baird, showmanship badges; Linda Doney, Annie Ottosen, Kathleen O'Shea, Bonnie Wied, Case Van Jaarsveld, Margaret Tattam, Isobel Roberts, George Baird, Henry De Wit, husbandary badges.

Man Remanded On Fraud Count

DUNCAN — Fred C. Linton of Duncan, was remanded in custody to Tuesday to face two charges of false pretences, by cashing worthless cheques for less than $50, at the Royal Bank of Canada here.

No plea was taken when he appeared before Magistrate D. K. McAdam Saturday.

'Crippling' Rental Threatens Loop

DUNCAN—A request to reduce the rental rate for the Cowichan Senior Secondary School auditorium for exhibition games has been again made by the Duncan Basketball Association.

The present rate is $107 per exhibition night.

Spokesman Bob Evans asked the Cowichan School Board to cut the rate to $3 per hour.

He said if the board does not reconsider the new rental fee, the association will "have to pack up."

He explained the profit from gate money just covers the operational cost of the association, not the uniforms or equipment which are paid for by fraternal organizations and service clubs in the district.

Last year there were 275 to 300 youngsters enrolled in the basketball association. The matter was referred to the building committee for consideration.

New Officers Elected

DUNCAN—Officers of the newly-established Cowichan 4-H Beef Club are Lorraine Jameson, president; David Skeet, vice-president, and Beverley Robison, secretary-treasurer.

Club leader, Cal Campbell, said the interest shown in the new club is beyond expectations, and one of the most gratifying facts is the enthusiasm shown by six Indian children who have joined.

Total membership of the club is 21. The next meeting is scheduled for Dec. 5 at 8 p.m. at the Cowichan Exhibition office.

Seeks Re-election

PARKSVILLE — John Robertson, chairman of Parksville village council, has filed nomination papers to run for re-election in the Dec. 5 municipal elections.

Couns. Norman Trim and E. G. Touzeau are also seeking re-election.

Mrs. Pauline Touzeau will seek re-election on the Qualicum School Board.

ISLAND DIGEST

Hope Still Alive For Boat Basin

NANAIMO—The city's $850,000 boat basin project has not yet been shelved by the federal government, according to Nanaimo MP Colin Cameron.

Mr. Cameron said he sent two telegrams to Ottawa after reading reports by city aldermen that the project had been deleted from the 1963-64 fiscal estimates.

Public Works Minister Jean Paul Deschatelets wired back stating the report was untrue, he said. Finance Minister Walter Gordon had not replied.

The project, first proposed five years ago, was approved by the federal government earlier this year. But two weeks ago Doug Greer said he had been informed by Northern Affairs Minister Art Laing the project had been shelved.

BACK ON APRIL 1

Mr. Cameron said the project could have been taken off the estimates. But he added it would likely be put on the 1964-65 fiscal estimates April 1.

Estimates for this year will come up for review in two weeks at which time the project could be reinstated, he said.

The boat basin, to provide moorage space for commercial fishing craft, is planned at the mouth of the Millstone River adjacent to the Nanaimo Yacht Club.

School Finally Open As Well Water Flows

Three-months-old Durrance Elementary School was occupied for the first time last week with completion of its independent water supply.

School district 63 chairman Reginald Sinkinson said there is "more than adequate flow" from a 175-foot well brought in with service lines at a total cost of about $4,500.

DRY HOLE

Although the three-room school was completed in time for school opening in September, the 106 pupils had to wait for the water supply, a delay compounded by a dry hole in the first 75-foot well.

The chairman pointed out that this well is covered in the total cost, of which ratepayers in the Saanich school district pay only 25 per cent. The province pays the balance.

Pupils were on shift at other schools in the district until going to the new school last week.

There is provision in the new building for addition of another four classrooms whenever they may be needed.

Location is on West Saanich Road at Durrance Road, serving the northwestern part of Saanich municipality and southwestern portion of Central Saanich.

View Royal To Talk Street Lights

A street-lighting study will be the major topic at the annual meeting of View Royal Community and Ratepayers' Association Tuesday.

The meeting will be held in View Royal Community Hall at 8 p.m.

"The directors of the association will also report on the smoke nuisance in the area," said J. A. Rogers, a spokesman.

"Provincial and federal help has been sought, particularly in view of the projected expansion of the Plumper Bay mill."

Mr. Rogers also said Esquimalt-Saanich MP George Chatterton has indicated he will attend the meeting.

Indian Voice Gets Through

VANCOUVER (CP) — A British Columbia Indian delegation has returned from Ottawa confident the voice of the Indian will carry more clearly into Parliament.

Lawyer Henry Castillou of Vancouver said Saturday Ottawa had indicated acceptance of a suggestion that an Indian liaison committee should be formed to travel throughout the province annually to hear submissions from the Indians.

Mr. Castillou accompanied a four-man delegation to Ottawa to press for an Indian commission with wide terms of reference to study mainly the land question which has been unsettled since 1926.

FOUR DELEGATES

Delegates were Chief Edward Thevarge of D'Arcy, near Lillooet; Chief Richard Malloway of Sardis; Clarence Joe of Sechelt, and Ross Modiste of Koksilah, representing 7,000 Vancouver Island Indians.

The liaison committee suggestion — an entirely separate committee from the proposed Indian commission, would consist of parliamentarians, and advisors who would visit each reservation and study its problems, Mr. Castillou said.

"At present, when a band wants to be heard it has to send a delegate to Ottawa and some bands don't have sufficient funds."

He said the five-man delegation also was successful in extracting from Ottawa a promise to supply 90 per cent of the funds necessary for construction of a vocational school in the Powell River district.

"We pointed out the need for more vocational training and were given assurance the school for both Indians and whites near Powell River would be given the necessary financial backing," he said.

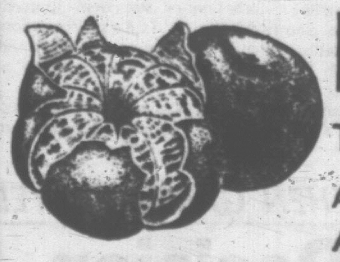

"We also got the assurance from the Indian affairs department that it would pay 50 per cent of the cost of sewers and inside plumbing on reservations."

Ticats Let Ottawa Roar—But in Vain

Overwhelming Victory Vindicates B.C. Lions

Sazio Has Few Scary Minutes In Eastern Final

HAMILTON (CP)—Hamilton Tiger-Cats made several changes this year, but the net result was the same—the Eastern Football Conference championship.

Under rookie head coach Ralph Sazio, and sporting nine players new to the club since 1962, Tiger-Cats clinched the EFC title Sunday by winning the two-game, total-points final 63-35 over Ottawa Rough Riders.

Tiger-Cats lost Sunday's game 35-18, but were coasting on a 45-0 score run up the previous week in the opening game at Ottawa.

It was Tiger-Cats' third EFC title in a row and seventh in 10 years. They meet British Columbia Lions Saturday in the Grey Cup final at Vancouver.

Tiger-Cats have won only two Grey Cups in the six times they have played for it in the last decade—1953 and 1957.

Rough Riders, faced with an almost impossible task of overcoming the 45-point deficit, struck first Sunday, fullback Dave Thelen powering over from the nine-yard line midway in the first quarter.

It was one of the few unpleasant moments for Sazio.

"I can tell you the exact time," he said later in the dressing room. "It was 7:03. I quickly calculated that if they kept on the way they were going, they'd get two touchdowns a quarter and that would be disastrous."

Riders kept the pressure on, but quarterback Russ Jackson ended a second scoring threat in the first quarter when he fumbled inside the Hamilton 10-yard line.

Tiger-Cats recovered the fumble and moved to a touchdown in six plays, halfback Willie Bethea running 40 yards on a reverse for the score.

The first quarter ended 7-7 and Roughriders held a 14-7 lead at half time.

Thelen and Jackson each scored two touchdowns for Ottawa. The other went to Ron Stewart. All five were converted by Moe Racine.

Clair Picks Lions—To Lose

Hamilton's touchdowns were scored by Bethea and Tommy Grant. Don Sutherin kicked both converts, a 38-yard field goal and a single on a wide field-goal attempt.

Sazio started first-string quarterback Bernie Faloney, but switched to substitutes Frank Cosentino and Joe Zuger in the second quarter. Cosentino played most of the rest of the game at quarterback.

Sazio said halfback Jim Pace and middle guard Ellison Kelly, out of Sunday's games with injuries, could have played if needed.

They'll be fully ready for the Grey Cup game. The Hamilton coach was making no predictions for the Vancouver game.

"Even though both teams have good defences, it'll probably by a high-scoring game," he said.

Ottawa coach Frank Clair was not as reticient. "I think they'll beat British Columbia," he said.

Clair said he was "extremely proud" of his players for Sunday's effort. "They had the dignity never to give up."

Rough Riders enjoyed a big statistical edge in Sunday's game. They had 23 first downs, 10 more than Tiger-Cats, on 313 yards rushing and 190 yards passing. Jackson was good on 10 of 22 passes and had three intercepted.

Hamilton rushed for 158 yards and had seven completed passes in 14 attempts, good for 92 yards.

'OOOOOH, WHAT A TRAGEDY!'

. . . is apparent reaction of Hugh Campbell, No. 21, Saskatchewan Roughriders' slick end as he views unfortunate circumstances teammate Ray Purdin has fallen into. Purdin was the middle man in a B.C. Lions' defensive sandwich manoeuvre perpetrated by By Bailey on bottom and unidentified buddy on top. Things like this happened to Roughies all day Saturday as they went down 36-1.

'THAT-A-BOY'

The power and the glory of the B.C. Lions—coach Dave Skrien and president Clayton B. Delbridge—discuss the joys of being associated with a Western Football Conference champion. Next stop: Empire Stadium, Saturday. Bring on Hamilton! (CP Wirephoto.)

Torn Knee Cartilage May Keep Homer on Sidelines

By ERNIE FEDORUK

EMPIRE STADIUM—The floodlights were doused quickly after the big game.

For a time, however, the scoreboard remained ablaze in the darkening dusk of late afternoon. "Lions 36, Visitors 1," it read.

But if you looked at that scoreboard long enough, and hard enough, a different meaning was visible.

"Vindication."

Lions, showing the strength and sureness that took them to a first-place finish in regular league play, pounced on Saskatchewan's gallant Roughriders Saturday to eliminate final Western Conference opposition.

LONG WAIT ENDS

That 36-1 score vindicated Lions from one bad game. It was a mud-splattered decision that wiped clean a 13-8 defeat Lions suffered last Wednesday. They won the first 19-7.

Victory also vindicated Lions for a 10-year wait. That was how long B.C. fans had to wait for the Piffles Taylor Trophy.

This week the Lions prowl for tastier game . . . The Grey Cup.

That's the big prize at stake Saturday when Lions, the Western Conference champions, meet Hamilton Tiger-Cats in the national final.

Only two Lions came out of Saturday's game "hurting." End Pat Claridge, a surprise starter Saturday, says a shoulder separation he suffered a week earlier "still pains" him. Still, B.C. coach Dave Skrien feels Claridge will play Saturday. Skrien is "very doubtful" about flanker Sonny Homer who suffered a torn knee cartilage.

STADIUM TURF TERRIBLE

There were hints, after that second-game loss to Saskatchewan, that Lions are a fair-weather team.

This, the scoreboard dispelled Saturday.

For the most crucial game of the year, the Empire Stadium turf was the worst in years. It didn't bother explosive Willie Fleming, Nub Beamer, Joe Kapp and a Lion line that charged extremely well.

Considering the conditions, the B.C. line play was remarkable. Skrien called his defensive headhunters "magnificent" and greater dues must be given the offensive front wall.

Despite the muck, Bill Frank, Ian Hagemoen, Lonnie Dennis and Steve Cotter were instrumental in opening the door for important yards gained by Fleming and Beamer.

SPIKED COMEBACK

Fleming scored only one touchdown, but it was the one that wrote "finis" to the great Saskatchewan comeback. It was a spectacular pass-and-run play with less than five minutes left in the first half.

Forty-three yards beyond the line of scrimmage, Fleming and Riders' Gene Wlasiuk went up for a Kapp heave. Fleming made the grab and web-footed it another 30 yards for a touchdown.

Fleming, who carried the ball seven times for 51 yards and caught six passes for 112 yards, was actually knocked out of bounds about 15 yards from the point where he made his catch.

"I don't know who it was, but he bumped me out. I remember going by the coach, then I came back on the field and made the catch."

Beamer, Ron Morris and Bill Lasseter scored B.C.'s other majors and the capable Peter Kempf added the other points from placements. The west's rookie-of-the-year, Kempf hoofed field goals from 33, 32 and 16 yards out and, also was good on three of his four convert trys.

ROUGHIES WERE WEARY

End Martin Fabi accounted for Riders' only point on a 45-yard single.

The Riders, generally gallant in defeat, felt they ran out of steam too quickly.

"We were never healthy at the best of times," said captain tackle Bill Clarke. "Five games in 15 days is just too much."

You could sense the weariness in the Saskatchewan dressing room.

Quarterback Ron Lancaster, who took quite a beating from B.C.'s defensive unit, chirped in with: "They (the Lions) wanted this one a little more than we did. They were the better team."

Chinooks Sport That Lofty Look

Victoria Chinooks are standing taller than ever today in the Junior Inter-City Basketball League.

Chinooks ran their unbeaten string to six games by whipping New Westminster Adanacs 66-53 at Vancouver and climbed out in front in the six-team race.

Chinooks, who got an unexpected assist from Vancouver YMCA Saturday night, now hold a two-point bulge over CYO Saints, who went into the weekend with a two-point lead.

YMCA dropped an upset bomb on the Saints by wheeling to 60-49 triumph at Vancouver while the Chinooks were rolling past Kerrisdale Merchants 81-73 at Central Junior High School.

Chinooks ran into little trouble in their Sunday outing and gave all their players plenty of floor time as they waltzed to the win. Ron Bowker was the top point-getter for the Victorians with 14 points while Bill Notter paced Adanacs with the same number.

There was more trouble for the Chinooks on their home floor Saturday. They had to come from behind to keep their record unsullied.

Trailing 43-30 after the opening half, Chinooks started wheeling in brilliant style after Ken Jackson touched off a spark early in the second half.

Jackson picked up Chinooks by firing 13 points in the first 13 minutes after the intermission. That lifted the Victorians back into the battle and when Jackson was excused with four fouls with seven minutes remaining, his mates kept stoking the fire.

GRUNLUND HAS 16

Gary Grunlund potted eight points and Ken Gregory added five after Jackson departed and Merchants never had a chance in the home stretch.

Grunlund came out of the game as the top Victoria scorer with 16 points. Jackson, who hit on six straight shots in one outburst, finished with 15 and John Lauvaas collected 14.

Dave Witherley came up with 21 points for Merchants to top the scoring parade.

Scoring:

SUNDAY

Victoria—Gregory 8, Bowker 14, Robertson 1, McKeachie, Turner 7, Grunland 9, Gallo 4, Richardson 4, Jackson 8, Lauvaas 11. Total 66.

New Westminster—Shaw 6, Fulzen 13, Notter 14, Roberge 7, Baker 3, Toutychuk 10, McLean, Tyler. Total 53.

W. Germans Win O'Keefe

TORONTO (CP)—West Germany came from behind and scored seven points Saturday night to win the O'Keefe international team championship jumping trophy at the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair horse show.

The Germans went into the final event of the show trailing the United States by six points. But with the Americans not competing due to the assassination Friday of President Kennedy, the Germans managed to overcome the lead.

They did not win the final event however.

That honor went to Argentina, scoring its first points of the eight-day show when Dr. Hugo Arrambide rode Emporio to two faultless rounds to win the $1,500 McKee International Stake.

Final team standings were: West Germany, 36; United States, 35; Ireland, 21; Canada, 15, and Argentina 5.

Roughies' McPherson Favors Playoff Change

By ERNIE FEDORUK

VANCOUVER—The East is pushing for a change, so don't be too surprised if the Western Football Conference alters its playoff system next year.

Don McPherson of Regina, an executive of Saskatchewan Roughriders and a past-president of the league, offered the hint Saturday after B.C. Lions wrapped up the Western title with their 36-1 victory over the Roughies.

"The present system is just too tough on the semifinalists," McPherson said. "It's all right for the finalists . . . They have it made."

McPherson indicated that any change would be restricted to the semifinal setup. At present, the series is a two-game, total-points affair. McPherson favors a sudden-death game, with the winners stepping into the existing best-of-three final.

Eastern playoffs call for a sudden-death playoff and a two-game, total-point final. Some easterners, notably Ottawa Rough Riders, are pushing for a best-of-three final.

* * *

Call Herb Capozzi the cautious one.

The Lions' general manager slipped into the press box late in the fourth quarter, B.C. nursing a 29-1 lead on the field.

Herb quietly handed Pat Slattery, press box boss, a box of cigars. "Hand these out," said Capozzi, "when you think it's a sure thing."

* * *

Capozzi revealed that Lions have been allotted 14,000 tickets for the Grey Cup game Saturday.

That means he'll have only 3,000 unhappy season-ticket holders to worry about.

Some 17,000 season-ticket holders—who get first call—have put in applications.

* * *

Happiest Lions of all were defensive stalwarts By Bailey and Norm Fieldgate.

They are the only "originals" from the first Lions' team in 1954.

* * *

And how did the most important game of the season draw?

Paid attendance Saturday was 25,603, smallest of the season.

* * *

Fans and players observed a minute's silence before the game in memory of the late President John F. Kennedy. Lions' Willie Fleming played with black arm bands on his uniform.

* * *

Saskatchewan coach Bob Shaw broke away while talking to interviewers, obviously sick with a stomach disorder. He got out a few words, then sat down to rest. Then he got up and walked out to the bus. He left Sunday for Ohio to attend his mother's funeral. She died Thursday.

Asked whether he was going after a "nice fat contract" for next year, Shaw answered:

"I haven't been offered a fat contract."

Ken Preston, general manager of the Roughriders, said later Shaw had "shaken hands" on a "one-year contract" for next year with a "one-year option."

Cards Toss Race Into Triple Tie

By Associated Press

St. Louis Cardinals have thrown the National Football League's Eastern Conference title scramble into a triple tie with only three games remaining.

Led by the passing of quarterback Charley Johnson and a quartet of defensive specialists with only 10 years of pro experience between them—Larry Wilson, Garland Boyette, Sam Silas and Joe Robb—Cardinals whipped New York Giants 24-17 Sunday.

New York quarterback Y. A. Tittle, who had only four passes intercepted in 10 previous games, watched Wilson steal two. Boyette pounced on a fumble that led to Cardinals' clinching touchdown. And Robb and Silas smashed Tittle to the ground twice in the last two minutes as he brought Giants within striking distance of the tying touchdown.

The triumph catapulted Cardinals into a first-place tie with the Giants and Cleveland Browns, who defeated Dallas Cowboys 27-17. All three teams have 8-3 records. The Browns will be at St. Louis this Sunday while New York is at Dallas.

DOWN THE BEARS

Pittsburgh Steelers remained in contention in the East, boosting their record to 6-3-2 by battling the Western Division leading Chicago Bears to a 17-17 tie. Bears now are 9-1-1 to 9-2 for Green Bay Packers, 28-10, conquerors of San Francisco 49ers.

In other games, Los Angeles Rams knocked off Baltimore Colts 17-16 on a third period field goal by Danny Villanueva, Tommy Mason cracked over for the winning touchdown in the fourth quarter as Minnesota Vikings defeated Detroit Lions 34-31 and Washington Redskins edged Philadelphia Eagles 13-10.

The seven-game NFL program went on as scheduled, only two days after the assassination of President Kennedy, despite protests from some quarters. The crowds were sombre, but attendances were not affected.

The American Football League postponed its four-game program.

Ralston Upset In Net Final

ADELAIDE, Australia (AP)—John Newcombe of Australia upset Dennis Ralston of Bakersfield, Calif., Saturday in the final round of the South Australian tennis championships 6-1, 6-3, 15-17, 6-1.

Margaret Smith of Australia won the women's crown by beating Jan Lehane, also of Australia, 6-3, 6-1.

Lions to Try New Sod On Chewed-Up Field

VANCOUVER (CP)—British Columbia Lions have announced that almost one-third of the Empire Stadium playing field will be returfed for Saturday's Grey Cup football game.

Alan Ayre, vice-president of the club, said the $8,000 job started this morning and should be completed at noon Wednesday if the experiment is successful; if not, the field will be dried by machines.

Ayre told reporters at a cocktail party honoring the Lions team that a test section will be set up with a base of hot sand covered by three inches of sod brought in in flat sections and secured with tape. Lions will scrimmage on the new sod to see how it stands up to punishment.

If all goes well, the Pacific National Exhibition will engage workmen around the clock for two days, returfing the muddy area between the hashmarks and the 25-yard line.

Syre said Lions are working in conjunction with the PNE and the PNE will foot the bill. If the returfing plans don't work out, two drying machines will be placed under the tarpaulin.

'They Sure Taught Us' Says Klukay

MOSCOW (CP)—Windsor Bulldogs ended their six-game exhibition hockey tour of Russia Sunday with a walloping 9-2 defeat from the Central Club of the Red Army.

"They sure taught us a hockey lesson," said playing coach Joe Klukay after the game.

The Russians scored three goals in each of the three periods. Windsor tallied singles in the second and third periods.

Bob Brown and Bill Mitchell scored for Bulldogs.

The Russians scored a total of 38 goals during the six-game series, the Canadians eight.

Bulldogs fly to Prague today for the next leg of their European tour.

Three Games On Hoop List

Three games are scheduled tonight at Mount View High School in the Victoria Basketball Association's minor league program.

VBA midgets meet Hall's at 7 p.m., Sooke and Boys' Club midgets play at 7:45, and Schroeders and Boys' Club bantams clash at 8:30.

Hartack Picks Up An $11,000 Ride

BALTIMORE (AP)—Willie Hartack rode quadrangle to a 10-length victory over favored Breakspur Saturday in the $176,250 Pimlico Futurity.

It was the featured race on the only horse racing card in the United States after cancellations in respect to the late President Kennedy.

Quadrangle took the $110,012.50 top purse, paying $8.40, $4 and $3.60.

Willie Shoemaker, scheduled to ride Quadrangle, said he did not want to because of his grief over the slaying of the president.

Quadrangle, owned by the Rokeby Stable, made the 1 1-16 mile run in 1:45 1-5.

Breakspur, with Bob Ussery up, finished second, 3½ lengths ahead of Bupers. Breakspur paid $3.80 and $2.80 and Bupers paid $4.

Hartack receives 10 per cent of the winner's purse.

Fans Protest NFL Decision

By The Associated Press

Scores of professional football fans—and some officials—protested Saturday the decision of the National Football League to play its full schedule of seven games Sunday.

The New York Times says the postponement of all four scheduled Sunday games in the American Football League because of President Kennedy's assassination was "a factor in the criticism."

The Times says it received scores of telephone calls about the St. Louis at New York game in Yankee Stadium and that a "highly vocal minority of the callers said they were shocked, aghast, upset, ashamed or horrified that the game would go on."

The Philadelphia Evening Bulletin, the Milwaukee Journal and the Los Angeles Times reported protests in similar vein against the Washington at Philadelphia, the San Francisco-Green Bay at Milwaukee and the Baltimore at Los Angeles games.

A spokesman for the Steelers in Pittsburgh said "an overwhelming number of telephone calls" were received and that "some expressed surprise" that the Chicago at Pittsburgh game would be played. A Green Bay spokesman said "a few protests had been received."

The office of James Tate, mayor of Philadelphia, said the mayor had asked Pete Rozelle, NFL commissioner, to postpone the Eagles-Redskins game, but had been turned down.

Tony Zecca, Tate's press secretary, said "he (Rozelle) said the league does not feel it would be disrespectful to play the game on Sunday because President Johnson's proclamation does not specify the day of mourning as Sunday, but Monday."

Chasm Separates Hawks From Rest

TIME OUT! By JEEP KEATE

"You toured this course in 81 strokes, Edna . . . too bad you had an additional 53 in the neighborhood around it!"

By The Canadian Press

The National Hockey League now has divided into two sections. Chicago Black Hawks are in one division and the rest of the league in the other.

The Hawks probably deserve to be awarded the league title right now but there's a formality. NHL rules insist the 70-game schedule be played in full.

But while the Hawks go their own way, fans can begin concentrating on an interesting race shaping up in the "second division."

Toronto Maple Leafs currently hold the upper hand there, picking up three of a possible four points during the weekend. They whipped Boston 4-1 Saturday and came from behind Sunday to tie New York 3-3.

The performance gave the Leafs a one-point edge over Montreal, beaten mercilessly 7-3 by the Hawks in Chicago Sunday night.

No other games were played.

Detroit was scheduled to visit Boston but the Bruins management postponed the game in respect to the late President Kennedy, who was born in Boston.

Coach Punch Imlach juggled his lines in hopes he could encourage his highly-paid Leafs to score some goals. He put big Frank Mahovlich on a line with Bob Pulford and Eddie Shack.

Result: Two goals by Mahovlich Saturday and two by Bob Pulford Sunday.

Allan Stanley, Eddie Shack and Mahovlich scored in the first period against the Bruins and the Big M added his seventh of the season in the second. Boston ruined Johnny Bower's shutout with Murray Oliver's goal at 16:02 of the third.

BLAMES JOHNSTON

Bruins coach Milt Schmidt insisted his goalie, Ed Johnston, blew the game because "he froze on Shack's goal and came out too far on Mahovlich's."

Pulford twice gave Toronto the lead at New York in the first period but both times Earl Ingarfield knotted the score for the Rangers. A scoreless second period set the stage for final period dramatics.

Camille Henry gave the blueshorts a 3-2 lead at 9:35 of the final frame with a beautiful goal. He hooked the puck into the net as he dived through the crease.

GOOD PERCENTAGE

But rookie Jim Pappin, playing his second game in the NHL, scored his first goal at 14:43 to earn Toronto the tie.

The Canadiens fired 22 shots at Hawks Goalie Glenn Hall in the first period and he frustraded the Canadiens by stopping each one, driving Montreal into retreat.

The Hawks found scoring on Charlie Hodge much easier. They managed just eight shots at him in the same span, but scored four times.

Cougars Near Top Spot After Tripping Royals

Victoria Cougars go shooting for first place in the Pacific Coast Junior Hockey League Tuesday night.

Coach Johnny Bond's Cats crept to within a point of the league lead Sunday by toppling the previously-unbeaten New Westminster Royals 7-5 at Queen's Park Arena.

The Victoria squad suffered its first loss of the season Saturday night at Chilliwack, 4-3 despite the fact they out-shot the hometown Chiefs 42-30.

ROYALS VISIT

The leading Royals, out-shot 35-31 Sunday, supply Tuesday night's opposition at Memorial Arena. Game time is 8 p.m.

Cougars, the busy bees of Victoria hockey, will play their fourth game in five days Wednesday when they return to Victoria Hockey League play.

Les Johansen was Cougar's big gun at the weekend, figuring in six of the 11 Victoria goals. He scored two goals and one assist in each game.

Bob Cherry, a recruit from Nanaimo, also scored a pair Sunday while Ray Gregoire, an impressive newcomer who last played with Calgary Buffaloes, and Don Wilson added singles. Hugh Sherwood was the other marksman Saturday night.

ALBERNI BEATS CHIEFS

Billy-Joe Lifts Harlems to Top

As long as Billy-Joe Price remains healthy, North Vancouver Harlems should have a good shot at retaining their Inter-City Basketball League title.

Harlems went into a pair of weekend games with one-half of their potent one-two punch, but towering Bill-Joe was dealing in his usual style and pushed Harlems into a tie for the league lead.

Missing was starry American guard Vince Knight, who has received his draft notice and may be lost to the club for the balance of the season.

SHARP ON REBOUNDS

Price was most noticeable on rebounds at Vancouver Saturday night, but he also managed to drop in 18 points as Harlems tripped winless New Westminster McGavins 75-63.

Price was more spectacular in a return bout with the Bakers Sunday, firing 30 points as Harlems collected an 81-71 triumph.

It was the fourth straight win for Harlems and boosted them into a deadlock with Alberni Athletics, who bounced back at Alberni Saturday to trim Victoria's Haida Chiefs 86-67.

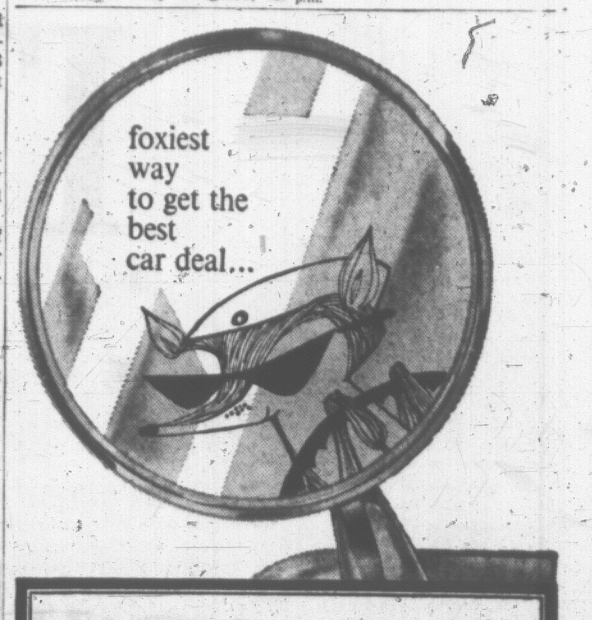

DON KREGO RETURNS

Athletics, who had dropped a 105-91 decision to the Haidas Saturday in Victoria, got a big lift from the return to action of Don Krego, who gave them valuable height on the boards.

Denny Grisdale set the scoring pace for Alberni with 21 points. Neil Dirom chipped in with 16 while Krego and Doug Brinham each counted 12.

Chiefs, lacking the zip they displayed Friday, got 24 points from Darrell Lorimer and 19 from Norris Martin.

Both Oak Bay and James Bay moved in on Cowichan on Saturday. The leaders, taking the field Sunday, shrugged off the challenge with an impressive 49-3 romp over winless Royal Roads.

Royal Roads, thumped 44-3 by Oak Bay on Saturday, suffered from injury and the wear and tear of two games in two days Sunday. The Cadets, against Cowichan, were especially weak inside.

James Bay, now a point behind Oak Bay and three behind Cowichan, blanked University Vikings 16-0 in the weekend's only other first division match.

TURNER INJURED

Vikings suffered a double loss. Forward Bob Turner suffered a broken ankle when tackled early in the second half and will be sidelined for the balance of the season.

In the second division, Naval Training School jumped into a first-place tie with Naval Command by defeating James Bay 8-6. Oak Bay came to within a point of the lead by defeating winless Royal Roads 19-3.

Oak Bay blanked Saanich 8-0 and QOR Cadets beat the Sea Cadets 15-6 in junior league play. Victoria United shut out Gordon Head 11-0 in a midget match.

Buttons Remain At Gorge

Amateur Bill Wakeham and professional Art Donaldson, impressive in carding a best-ball, three-under-par 67, kept the Victoria District Golf Committee's open buttons Sunday.

The defending button-holders, from Gorge Vale, defeated Ardmore southpaws Hal Jacobsen and Emile Beauchemin, 4 and 2, at Colwood.

Junior button-holders Earl Francis and Rick Bath also were successful in keeping the under-20 pins at Gorge Vale. They downed Oak Bay's challenging team of Jay Wilson and Jim Pomeroy.

Firefighters 1, Vic. United 0

There are times when Jim Blundell doesn't look the part of a Pacific Coast Soccer League forward.

You'll find smoother manipulators of the round ball with him on the front line of Vancouver Firefighters. Some are fleeter of foot. Others are flashier in style. But the men who know Blundell best will tell you he has a valuable talent.

It is a talent he demonstrated for 490 playing customers Saturday afternoon at Royal Athletic Park.

Late in the second half with Firefighters and Victoria United locked in a scoreless tie, a young soccer scribe in the press box was moved to comment:

"Blundell really isn't much of a player, is he?"

"Don't let his style fool you," remarked a ginger-haired companion. "Blundell knows how to put the ball in the net. He gets a lot of important goals."

Two minutes later, nimble Louie Trischuk, working with Blundell on the right side of the Firefighters' forward line, cut toward the centre, drawing United's persistent and capable defenders.

He flipped a pass to Blundell, who crashed a shot from the edge of the penalty area as Victoria centre-half Bobby Mars shifted over to cover.

CURVED UNDER BAR

Acquiring overspin as it deflected off Mars' leg, the ball started high, then curved down under the cross bar. United goalie Barry Sadler, who had moved out in anticipation, apparently had the shot covered until the deflection, was unable to recover in the muddy footing.

It wasn't a pretty goal, and it was tinged with luck. But it was Blundell's specialty—an important one—and it gave Firefighters their second successive 1-0 triumph over United.

Until Blundell's goal, strong defensive work by both clubs and the usual remarkable goaltending by Sadler and his rival at the other end, Ken Pears, had made a scoreless tie appear a probability.

United had an edge in play in the first 55 minutes, but again showed the lack of a man or two on the front line to make the quick, decisive moves that open the door for goals.

QUICKER ON BALL

Firemen, usually quicker on the ball, were more constructive with their passing and perhaps deserved the win. But, like United they had a few fortunate moments on defence.

Although the wet pitch and soggy ball made accurate passing difficult, the match didn't lack for interest and it again demonstrated the ball hasn't been bouncing for United this season.

The last time the Victorians lost to the Firemen on a penalty. This time it was on a deflected shot.

What it will be next time is anybody's guess.

MIDGLEY TO TOP POST IN AUTO RACING BODY

Reg Midgley of Victoria was elected president of the Canadian-American Modified Racing Association at the annual meeting here Saturday. Jim Malloy of Denver was elected vice-president.

The association accepted new members from Portland, Ontario, Ore., Eugene, Ore., and Pocatello, Idaho.

Other member tracks include Victoria, Vancouver, Nanaimo, Prince George, Edmonton, Boise, Idaho, Salt Lake City, Spokane and Seattle.

Next year's season will begin in Nanaimo May 22 and end at Seattle Sept. 20.

Co-Leaders Draw Before Top Crowd

VANCOUVER — The Pacific Coast Soccer League's co-leaders attracted the largest crowd of the season to Callister Park on Sunday, but settled nothing.

Playing before 2,338 fans, Columbus and Canadians drew 1-1 in a rough, hard-hitting match that saw two players ejected just before half-time. Ejected after the fist-swinging duel were Evo Katnich of Canadians and Errol Crossan of Columbus.

Canadians grabbed a 1-0 halftime lead on a fine effort by leftwinger Ken Ferrier. Columbus equalized on a solo effort by outside left Bob Smith.

WALLACES TIE

Saturday, Westminster Royals scored on the last play of the game to salvage a 1-1 tie with Wallaces. A scheduled Hungarians-North Shore game at Seattle was postponed in respect to the death of President Kennedy.

Wallaces, without a point in nine previous starts this season, opened scoring at the 34-minute mark when newly-signed inside-forward Siggi Gthringer beat two defenders to score.

There was no further scoring until the last seconds of play when a long centre from left-winger Don Wilson was scrambled into the Wallaces' net by inside right Tony Crisp.

Tag Champs Defend Title

Whipper Billy Watson and Dan Miller retained their Canadian tag-team championship Saturday night in a professional wrestling "title" bout at Memorial Arena.

The Great Zim and Ripper Leone, the challengers, were disqualified by the referee before a crowd of 958 customers.

In other bouts, Bill Watt downed Bob Morse, Dick Garza beat Jack Pesek while Miller and the Great Zim fought to a draw.

BAXTER TAKES TOP MONEY

Nicklaus Over $100,000

LAFAYETTE, La. (AP) — Rex Baxter Jr. ended three years of frustration on golf's play-for-pay circuit Sunday by finishing strongly to win the $20,000 Cajun Classic tournament.

It was Baxter's first official victory on the PGA circuit. The 26-year-old swinger from Amarillo, Tex., picked up a $2,800 cheque and boosted his year's earnings to $18,768.69.

Baxter was in second place, three strokes back, when Sunday's marathon 36-hole windup of .1963's last official tournament got under way.

Saturday's play was cancelled by tournament officials because of the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

Baxter carded a 68-71-68-68—275, 13 strokes under par for the 72-hole tournament.

Al Balding of Toronto tied for ninth place and won $775. He shot a 71-72-71-67—281.

Jack Nicklaus fired two 69s to tie for fifth place at 279 with Bob Goetz, who was the leader when play ended last Friday.

It was enough to boost Nicklaus' earnings for the year to $100,040. He became the second golfer, after Arnold Palmer who, did not compete here, ever to crack into six figures in official earnings in a 12-month period.

Bob Shave Jr. finished second behind Baxter with a 277. Deadlocked for third at 278 were Tommy Aaron and Jack Rule Jr.

Hill's Two Lift Brodies to Top

Victoria United is experiencing some unhappy days in the Pacific Coast League soccer wars, but it's a different story for teams that have taken on ex-United players.

Consider, for example, Geoff Hill with Brodies Bakery and Ray Bauckham with Kickers.

As the fates would have it, Kickers and Brodies made the big gains in Suriday's first division activity in the Victoria and District League.

Hill scored twice as Brodies edged Victoria West 3-2 in the big game of the day. Victory pushed Brodies past Vic West and into first place.

BAUCKHAM STARS

Bauckham, a diminutive speedster, scored the first goal of the game and started Kickers on their way to a 2-1 victory over Esquimalt. It was the second straight win for the Kickers, who last week got two goals from Baucicham in his debut.

In the day's only other game, Eddy's Electric finally came up with their first point of the year, playing to a 1-1 draw with Price and Smth. Hank DeBruin scored for Eddy's while Tom Collett kicked in the only P-S goal.

A scheduled Gorge-Canadian Scottish meeting, an important one, was postponed for a quaint reason—no referee. The official designated to work the match wound up at a different park.

DEFLECTED SHOT

Kickers picked up their victory when a ball deflected off an Esquimalt defender into his own net. Maurice Bunyan scored Esquimalt's goal.

In addition to Hill's two goals, the fast-charging Bakers—unbeaten since their first game of the season—got one tally from Ralph Marwood. Stu MacFarlane counted both goals for Wests.

The second division leaders, Kickers, marked up a victory, but not before receiving a king-sized scare from seventh-ranked Kings. Kickers won 2-1.

In other second division matches, Navy trampled Wanderers 8-1, Gorge blanked Dunlops 2-0 and Vikings shut out Oak Bay 4-0.

Nebraska Clinches Bowl Berth

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Most of the United States' football bowls were deathly still Saturday, but a few games were played. One game settled an Orange Bowl berth.

No. 10 Nebraska won the spot and its first Big Eight Conference championship in 23 years by soundly spanking No. 6 Oklahoma 29-20 at Lincoln.

No. 9 Auburn trimmed Florida State 21-15. Vanderbilt won its first game of the year 31-0 over George Washington. Louisiana State tripped Tulane 20-0 and Tennessee whipped Kentucky 19-0.

Arkansas prevailed over Texas Tech 27-20 in a Southwest Conference game.

Utah edged Utah State 25-23. Brigham Young defeated Colorado State U. 24-20.

Those were the only major games played, as the majority were cancelled or postponed in memory of President Kennedy.

East Coast Club Gains Revenge

HALIFAX (CP) — St. Francis Xavier University X-Men won the fifth Atlantic Bowl football game here Saturday with a dramatic 15-9 victory over University of Toronto Blues.

The X-Men, who switched from English Rugby to Canadian Football in 1954, won their fourth bowl game in five tries.

The game was played in fog and on a muddy field before a crowd of about 4,000.

The Blues defeated St. FX 20-14 in last year's game.

Minor Soccer Issues Plea For Manager

Wanted: a good man, some soccer knowledge desireable.

That's the request put out today by officials of the Lower Island Junior and Juvenile Soccer Association.

A manager is needed to take over the handling of a division seven team, already organized and operating out of Windsor Park.

Anyone interested is urged to contact Doug Day at 477-1655.

Because of bad weather Saturday, weekend activity was restricted to five Sunday matches.

The results:

DIVISION 2

Gyros 2, Victoria Optimists 0; Al's Esso 0, Evening Optimists 7.

DIVISION 1

Oak Bay Optimists "A" 2, Evening Optimists 2; Esquimalt Legion 5, Oak Bay Optimists "B" 2; Majestic Eagles 4, S.V.I. Lions 1.

Hoop Sweep By Oak Bay

Oak Bay High School teams, "in charge" of the entertainment, enjoyed themselves most on the basketball floor Saturday night.

Oak Bay swept all three exhibition games while playing host to Nanaimo High.

The Bay's senior boys won 60-40, junior boys clicked 42-27 and the senior girls triumphed 29-20.

The scorers:

SENIOR BOYS

Oak Bay (60): Burrows 9, Rumber 10, Wallace 2, Green 2, Child 22, McKenzie 15.

Nanaimo (40): Dugas 4, Thom 6, Stevenson 4, Shourie 2, Swittam 8, Robinson 16.

JUNIOR BOYS

Oak Bay (42): Moffat 15, O'Connor 14, Boughurst 3, Doan 4, Murgatroyd 4.

Nanaimo (27): Cummings 2, Keeble 14, Pellers 2, Watson 9.

SENIOR GIRLS

Oak Bay (29): Evans 5, Lee Hagland 2, Vosburgh 3, Lynn Hagland 7, Robertson 12.

Nanaimo (20): Lungren 1, Prain 4, Galloway 9, Johnson 6.

. . . KENNEDY GIVEN HERO'S BURIAL

its shear black veil, was composed.

The Kennedy children — John, who was three today, and Caroline, who will be six on Wednesday—were taken to the cathedral in a limousine.

The world's notables, here to pay homage to the assassinated president, were an imposing sight as they walked in the bright sun of a clear autumn day.

Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia glittered with ribbons and decorations. France's Charles de Gaulle in his olive drab uniform, towered over the man with whom he walked. He stared ahead, his lined face expressionless. The international figures made no attempt to march, just strode as purposefully as the slow pace would allow behind the cortege of their dead colleague.

Surrounded by Security Men

They were surrounded by security men.

Rank on rank the military came, representing all the services.

Church bells pealed in the distance and the crowd watched in utter silence.

At 11:55 a.m. the caisson bearing the flag-draped coffin arrived in front of the cathedral and halted.

Mrs. Kennedy, after a pause, took daughter Caroline and son John by their hands and led them to the steps. The children were both dressed in blue.

Richard Cardinal Cushing of Boston, in a tall white mitre and purple and black robes, came down the steps followed by other churchmen to greet the Kennedy family.

The family filed between the wide doors of the church followed by the foreign dignitaries.

There was Prince Philip of Britain, Queen Frederika of Greece, and the many others who had come from thousands of miles.

The church was already crowded when the procession entered and a choir sang as Mrs. Kennedy and the two Kennedy brothers sat in a front pew. Her children were with her.

Caroline rocked back and forth gently as the choir stopped singing and silence fell over the church. Then an organ began playing.

Because of the cathedral's limited accommodations, admission to the service was only by special card. Except for those who walked behind the caisson, the invited were in their places when the procession arrived.

Just before the coffin was carried into the cathedral, Cardinal Cushing sprinkled holy water on it.

Then the cardinal turned and walked into the cathedral, followed by the guard of honor carrying the coffin with the body of the president.

Procession Led By Three Priests

The procession down the aisle of the cathedral was led by three priests, one carrying a cross, the other two flanking him with candles.

The cardinal ascended to the altar to recite the first hymn of the mass, pleading for eternal rest for the dead and reminding men that all that is flesh and blood "must come before the throne of God."

While Cardinal Cushing read the scriptures, soloist Juigi Vena of Boston sang Ava Maria at the request of Mrs. Kennedy. Vena had sung it at the Kennedy's wedding.

At this point, Cardinal Cushing, again while the soloist sang in the background, prepared to read the most important reading of the mass: The proclamation of the holy gospel.

First Cardinal Cushing prayed that he was worthy of the task and then he read from the Gospel of St. John, when Jesus said to Martha:

"I am the resurrection and life; he who believes in Me, though he is dead, will live on. And whoever has life, and has faith in Me, to all eternity cannot die."

After the celebration of the mass, Most Rev. Philip M. Hannan, auxiliary bishop of the Washington archdiocese, took the pulpit for what in a broad sense was a eulogy although it had been announced there would be none.

Hannan spoke of Kennedy's ideals and aspirations, and read the late president's inaugural address.

Hannan also recalled some of Kennedy's favorite biblical quotations.

After Hannan finished reading the inaugural address, Cardinal Cushing recited the final prayers and blessed the body.

As the cardinal blessed the body with holy water and incense, he recited the Lord's Prayer.

Band Played 'Hail to Chief'

The services ended about 1:15 p.m. and the choir sang May the Angels Lead You Into Paradise as Cardinal Cushing led the procession from the church.

The three-man military guard carrying a United States flag met the procession at the front steps.

The marine band began playing Hail to the Chief.

After the cardinal and the priests, came the military guard of honor, nine servicemen carrying the coffin.

The cardinal and the priests stepped aside at the foot of the steps, so the guard of honor could bring the coffin down in full view of the thousands lining the streets outside.

Then came the sailor carrying the presidential flag.

Behind them were Mrs. Kennedy and the two children. Little John Jr., was looking to the side and behind him, seemingly a little bewildered.

Mrs. Kennedy leaned over and whispered to John. The little boy, who was clutching a book in his right hand, handed her the book. He raised his hand and saluted his father's body as it was placed on the caisson for the journey to Arlington National Cemetery.

Mrs. Kennedy entered a limousine. Attorney-General Kennedy joined her.

The many dignitaries got into other automobiles, and the procession to the cemetery began.

The church bell began to toll and the muffled drums beat the cadence.

The thousands who surrounded the cathedral were silent — not even murmurs could be heard.

Hours before the procession began from the Capitol to the White House and St. Matthew's Roman Catholic Cathedral for funeral rites, there was a mass of humanity packed about the Capitol grounds and along the streets.

Some had been there all night. Other thousands came in the early dawn — families huddled with children and blankets.

Through the night, other thousands had walked through the Capitol to see the flag-draped coffin and pay last respects to the fallen president. Police estimated the total at around 240,000.

At least 2,000 were waiting in line, hoping to get in, when the doors were closed to the public at 8:30 a.m.

At times, the line extended nine miles, involving a seven-hour wait.

Bright Sunlight Pierced Windows

As the hour approached for the president's body to leave the Capitol, the rotunda filled with members of Congress, senators, governors of states, and other officials. A few congressmen approached the coffin briefly.

Bright sunlight pierced the windows high up on the dome and cast splashes of light on the north wall. It was a beautiful fall day, sharp and clear.

Mrs. Kennedy, came out of the White House at 10:25 a.m. and entered a limousine for the drive to the Capitol.

The fleet of limousines proceeded slowly up Pennsylvania Avenue to the Capitol between ranks of military guards.

The crowds lining both sides of the street were silent.

The White House party turned into Independence Avenue into the Capitol plaza, stopping at the centre of the Capitol grounds.

Inside, 10 military pallbearers had taken positions around the coffin, and a flag-bearer and guard of honor were stationed just inside the east entrance. In the small lobby outside the rotunda a group of clergymen stood in clerical garb.

Mrs. Kennedy stepped out of her car and walked up the steps of the Capitol. The attorney-general was on one side and Senator Kennedy on the other.

They walked to where the late president's body lay and knelt by the coffin.

There was silence in the rotunda as they rose and slowly backed away, then turned, with Robert Kennedy holding Mrs. Kennedy's hand.

They took a last lingering look before turning away.

The president's flag-draped coffin was slipped slowly from the catafalque.

The guard of honor carried the casket from its resting place with a sailor, bearing the president's flag, walking behind. Guards outside the door saluted as the coffin was borne out the door and down the steps. An officer called "attention," a salute was fired and a band broke into Hail to the Chief.

A U.S. Coast Guard Academy band gave the four ruffles of muffled drums and the other musical tributes.

Outside, the same six white horses were harnessed to the same black caisson that brought the coffin to the Capitol Sunday.

And again the riderless horse, the ancient military symbol of a fallen warrior, was behind the caisson.

Six limousines carrying the immediate family followed the caisson.

The marine band came next, followed by units of the military services.

Contingents from the Military Academy at West Point, the Naval Academy at Annapolis and the Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs also were in the line of march.

Crowds flowed along the sidewalks, keeping pace with the slow-moving procession. Some women wore black veils.

Many of the thousands who lined the route bowed their heads as the caisson passed. Some appeared to be in tears.

The band broke into Onward, Christian Soldiers.

At the White House, while awaiting the arrival of the cortege, the Naval Academy choir sang hymns in front of the north portico.

At St. Matthew's Cathedral, some eight blocks away, people already were arriving for the service.

Many of the men wore tall silk hats and formal clothes. The block in front of the cathedral was cleared of spectators but thousands pressed against restraining lines in nearby streets.

As part of the security precautions, policemen were posted atop buildings across the street from the cathedral. Many of the black limousines bringing invited guests bore national colors. They stopped at the cathedral steps and unloaded ambassadors and other diplomats.

The army band, its drums draped in black, formed on the sidewalk beside the cathedral.

Among the early arrivals at St. Matthew's were Mr. and Mrs. John Glenn.

There was a momentary stir when a window in a building next to the cathedral shattered, apparently accidentally, and showered down on police and troops.

As the cortege moved along from the Capitol, the white horses pulling the caisson plodded along quietly but the traditional riderless horse was fractious, keeping his handler busy.

As the cortege approached the White House, the band played a dirge.

The slow clopping of the horses pulling the caisson could be heard over the soft music.

The sun cast a large shadow of the presidential flag, carried by a sailor immediately behind the caisson.

As the procession approached, many of the thousands gathered in Lafayette Square bowed their heads and turned toward the sound of the muffled drums.

All of Family Except Father

All of the members of the president's family, except his 75-year-old father, Joseph P. Kennedy, had gathered in Washington for the funeral.

His 73-year-old mother, Rose Kennedy, flew from Hyannis Port, Mass., Sunday night and with other members of the family also went to kneel at the casket in the Capitol rotunda.

Joining Mrs. Kennedy at the White House were the attorney-general, his wife, Ethel, the president's sisters, Eunice Shriver, Patricia Lawford and Jean Smith, with their husbands, the president's youngest brother, Senator Edward M. Kennedy and his wife, Joan.

Also Mrs. Kennedy's younger sister, Lee Radziwill, who flew here from London.

Mrs. Kennedy's mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh D. Achincloss, who live in nearby Georgetown, were to be at the funeral, too.

While the president's funeral was under way here today, a special private mass was scheduled at the Cape Cod home of Kennedy's father, who is still suffering from the effects of a stroke suffered in December, 1961, and could not make the trip here.

Fifty jet fighters followed by the famed "Air Force One" which John Kennedy used on his presidential journeys streaked across the skies over the grave of the dead chief executive at his burial hour today.

The 50-plane jet fly-by symbolized a salute from each of the 50 states. Then "Air Force One," the sleek blue, silver and white presidential plane with only the crew aboard soared over the scene.

This was the plane which carried Kennedy to Texas on his fateful last trip as President.

LINCOLN, KENNEDY, PARALLELS

NEW YORK (AP) Striking similarities in the presidential lives of John F. Kennedy and Abraham Lincoln:

Lincoln was elected president in 1860 and Kennedy 100 years later in 1960.

Both were credited with fighting for equal rights for Negroes.

Both were assassinated on a Friday; Lincoln on April 15, 1865, at the age of 56; Kennedy on Nov. 22, 1963 at the age of 46.

Both were succeeded by presidents named Johnson — in Lincoln's case it was Andrew Johnson; in Kennedy's, Lyndon B. Johnson.

Russians Link Assassin With U.S. 'Trotskyists'

By PETER JOHNSON

MOSCOW (Reuters) — An article in the Soviet Communist party newspaper Pravda today linked President Kennedy's alleged assassin, Lee Harvey Oswald, to "the American Trotskyists"—bitter political enemies of Russian Communists.

The article, by Pravda's New York correspondent Boris Strelnikov, was the first suggestion here of a link between Oswald and the Trotskyists. It said it appeared Oswald had been reading "Trotskyist" literature.

Strelnikov said it had been stated that political literature was found at Oswald's home.

The correspondent added:

"Judging by the titles of the books and newspapers, many of them are publications of the American Trotskyists."

A NEW ANGLE

Strelnikov's article represented a new Soviet assessment of Oswald, Western observers said.

The new assessment of the murder came in the wake of widespread mourning here at the death of President Kennedy. In an unprecedented display of regret, Soviet officials from Premier Khrushchev downward paid condolences.

While earlier reports omitted details of reported evidence against Oswald, the Pravda article said 'the police maintain that the guilt of Oswald is fully proved."

The article quoted the United States Communist party and leaders of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee as denying Oswald was associated with those organizations.

'WARNS THE PRESIDENT'

Strelnikov said Governor John Connally of Texas, who was wounded when President Kennedy was assassinated, had flown to Washington to try to persuade the president not to visit Texas, saying unpleasant incidents might occur.

The Pravda correspondent also stated that on the day Kennedy arrived in Texas, The Dallas Morning News carried a black mourning band around one page on which was a letter saying: "Welcome to the city which rejected your philosophy and policy in 1960 and which will reject them even more forcefully again."

Pravda reported the arrest of Jack Ruby for Oswald's murder on the front page. It appeared under the headlines: Ultras cover up the traces.

Earlier, the Comunist press suggested Kennedy's assassination was planned in advance by right-wing extremists who later killed his alleged assassin 'to shut his mouth."

Swedish PM Guarded

STOCKHOLM (CP) — Prime Minister Taga Erlander of Sweden has been put under strong police protection since two anonymous telephone callers threatened his life after the assassination of President Kennedy.

Lots of things got started in 1963

The ignitions of brand-new family cars, for instance, and neighbours' lawnmowers. You helped start lots of both this year if you saved money at the Bank of Montreal.

You can chalk up an assist, too, for starting new farm tractors working in the fields and moving earth-shaking construction equipment into new building projects... for arterial highways steadily advancing towards completion... for bridges moving out across rivers... for new business enterprises of all kinds getting under way.

In virtually every community across the nation, important things were moving because your savings dollars made it possible for the Bank of Montreal to make hundreds of thousands of loans for all kinds of worthwhile purposes. At the bank's year-end, our customers had $3,961,675,039 on deposit.

Loans totaling $2,419,627,136 were reported.

That's why a whole lot of things got started in 1963.

ROUND-A-BOUT

By DOUGLAS HILLSIDE

A friend of this column's, who prefers to remain anonymous, has just returned from Ottawa where he was invited a week ago to Prime Minister Pearson's home and saw tangible evidence of the close friendship between the Canadian leader and John F. Kennedy.

Pearson

On top of a grand piano in the Pearson living room, our friend recalls, are a number of pictures of world leaders. In the forefront are Harold Macmillan and Kennedy.

"The Kennedy picture," he told us, "is in the form of a leather portfolio. On one side is a handsome portrait of the president. On the other, written in Kennedy's large, scrawling hand, is a testament of the warm respect and affection he held for our Prime Minister."

★ ★ ★

At Ottawa airport, our friend also bumped into retired Mountie Commissioner Cliff ("Slim") Harvison and asked him when he was coming back to Victoria to retire.

Harvison

Harvison said that a lot depends on the movements of his son, who is with the CBC. He is now on assignment in Africa.

"If he is moved to the Pacific Coast, we'll probably come back, too," Harvison said. "In the meantime, give our regards to all our friends in Victoria."

Chatted with maestro John Emerson in Vancouver and learned that he is coming to Victoria Dec. 17 to provide the music for the touring "Ice Capades," which plans a five-day run in this city.

The talented John is currently in the pit at Queen Elizabeth Playhouse for "The Boy Friend," a thoroughly delightful British musical. If you're in Vancouver before Nov. 30, try to attend. You'll love it.

One of the games arranged by master of ceremonies Ida Clarkson for a "Breakfast with Santa Claus" program last Saturday morning in a downtown department store, backfired badly and left grownups, at least, with shocked faces.

It had to do with two small boys wearing cowboy suits complete with holsters and guns. They were called to the front and told that the one with the quickest draw would be given a prize.

On the heels of the tragic happening of last Friday, the choice of game could not have been worse. As the children drew their guns, it was quite evident that Ida Clarkson, suddenly hit with the inference, was as shocked as anyone.

In Vancouver Saturday for the Lions-Roughie game we caught up with a hot rumor concerning popular Victoria hotelier Cyril Chapman. He confirmed it today.

Chapman

He has accepted a position as secretary-manager of the Vancouver Club, effective Dec. 9.

But this doesn't mean he is out of the Cha[illegible]u Victoria project of which little has been heard lately. He is at present general manager of the development — a retirement residence planned for construction on the shores of Esquimalt Lagoon next year.

"I shall maintain an interest in the Chateau. It is going ahead as planned. At this stage of the development I've done my job. It is going into a big sales program," he said.

There is a residential hazard to living in Sooke—gravel in the carburetors.

How do you get gravel in the carburetors?

Every so often (it happened about a week ago) the highways people run a grader over the gravel shoulders of the Sooke Road, and distribute the fine gravel evenly all over the surface.

And if you have a car with open-throat carburetors and no air cleaners—presto, gravel in both pots, as soon as your wheels kick it up a little.

This is a minor annoyance alongside what some motorists have suffered, however.

There was, for example, the chap who had to hit the shoulder farther up the West Coast Road, and found that an innocent-looking pile of gravel concealed a large rock that neatly unzipped his car from radiator to rear axle.

The most touching story I heard over the weekend concerned the little five-year-old girl who found her mother crying and asked why. "The President is dead," her mother said.

The little girl left the room and returned to the television set. As part of the program, the station inserted a re-run of some earlier Kennedy speeches.

Whereupon the little girl burst into her mother's room and cried: "It's alright, mommy! He's well again."

Woman Wins Support For Garbage Petition

Petitions urging weekly garbage collection are being circulated in aSanich.

The housewife spearheading the campaign says she is getting support.

Ten people are helping Mrs. Marty Christianson, 4213 Carey Road, distribute the petitions, and she has received "dozens of calls," she says.

At present, garbage is collected twice a month in Saanich.

"If a substantial number indicate they want more service, I am sure we would make every effort to see it was done," says Coun. Gregory Cook, chairman of the Saanich health and welfare committee.

TIME TOO SHORT

With the Dec. 5 municipal elections less than two weeks away, there is not enough time for a garbage referendum to be put to the people, he said.

But the garbage collection question will be on the agenda of the next health and welfare committee, and the metro health board has been asked to send a representative, he said.

It is unlikely another health and welfare committee meeting will be held before the election.

Mrs. Christianson can be telephoned at 479-7370.

MEMORIALS HELD

Students Pay Solemn Tribute

School children throughout Greater Victoria paid sorrowful tribute today to President John F. Kennedy for whom brief memorials were held and silences observed.

Most schools followed the suggestion of Acting Education Minister Ray Williston in observing a moment's silence this morning, in many cases simultaneous with the burial mass being said in Washington.

Some schools marked the death of the American president as soon as they learned of it Friday afternoon when flags were lowered and classes dismissed.

STUDENTS HIT HARD

"We were so shocked here it was unbelievable," said Mount Douglas Ssenior Secondary principal Eric Forster.

"I don't think I've seen anything hit the kids so hard. You could hear a pin drop when they went out of the school."

He compared it with the death of President Roosevelt in 1945.

"But this was different. He was such a young man. He exemplified the important things in life, they felt, and they're still dazed this morning."

At Victoria Senior Secondary, home class teachers read the "Immortality of the Righteous,"" whose lines from the Wisdom of Solomon read:

"The souls of the righteous are in the hand of God, and there shall no torment touch them. In the sight of the unwise they seemed to die: and their departure is taken for misery, and their going from us to be utter destruction: but they are in peace."

Each teacher spoke a brief tribute.

LORD'S PRAYER

A minute of silence was followed by recitation of the Lord's Prayer.

Esquimalt Senior Secondary principal Clive Kelly read to his students this morning "He Belongs to the Ages," an editorial from Saturday's Times, which he felt was especially appropriate.

Jack Wallace, principal of Oak Bay Senior Secondary, tried to describe to his pupils the impact of the president's death on Canada, "how much we are going to miss him, and our sympathy with our neighbor."

At Mount View Senior Secondary, principal Robert Huddlestone read from the 14th Chapter of St. John and the 23rd Psalm before a one-minute silence was observed.

PSALMS READ

Elementary teachers in each school district today read the Psalms or verses from the Bible, and some, as at Royal Oak, spoke President Kennedy's praises when they learned of the assassination Friday.

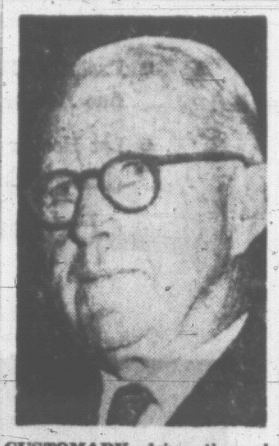

Various University of Victoria instructors made special reference to the occasion today, although no formal assembly was called.

The atmosphere on campus was "expressive of how people feel in this tragic situation," Dean R. T. Wallace said.

"I don't think I've ever seen students so moved."

FLU EPIDEMICS

There have been several serious influenza epidemics in Canada, one of the earliest on record occurring in 1826.

CUSTOMARY drive through countryside was taken Sunday by the late President Kennedy's ailing 75-year-old father, Joseph P. Kennedy. He was accompanied by his niece, Ann Gargan, Rev. John Cavanaugh, and a nurse.

Funeral Held For Former Prairie Cleric

Funeral services were held today for Rev. Walter J. J. Woods, who died at his home Friday in his 71st year.

He came to Victoria on his retirement in 1955 and lived with his wife Margaret at 2713 Avebury.

Born in England, he came to Canada in time to serve overseas with the 151st Battalion, CEF. He entered the ministry after the First World War and served in the diocese of Qu'Appelle, Sask., the diocese of Kootenay in B.C. and in Brandon, Man., and Calgary.

Surviving are the widow; one daughter, Mrs. R. Larson of Merville; sisters and a brother in England and New Zealand, and three granddaughters.

Funeral service was held at St. Luke's Church. Ven. Archdeacon C. E. F. Wolff was assisted by Rev. W. E. Greenhalgh of Duncan. It was followed by cremation.

TRIP WORRIED CONNALLY

ASHEVILLE, N.D. (AP) —Evangelist Billy Graham said Saturday he tried to reach President Kennedy last week to urge him not to go to Texas.

Graham said that Texas governor John B. Connally came to his hotel room in Houston two weeks ago and said he was "troubled and concerned" about the forthcoming trip of the president to Texas.

. . . NO NATION HAS GIVEN SO LONG A ROPE TO THE DISAFFECTED'

By ARTHUR MAYSE

Our friends have laid their great man away, the nut with the mail-order rifle has been murdered by another murderer, and what will next be written for the centuries on this sombre page of American history, the world waits anxiously to learn.

Today the signs are heartening. The ugly episode in the basement of Dallas jail has not yet triggered a pogrom.

It could have, and still may. Certainly it would be politic for the friends of Castro, the friends of Khrushchev, the friends of John Birch to sing small in the United States for a long time to come.

But so far, the assassination of a president has not brewed the climate of violence that might have radiated outward from Dallas jail when one violent man took the law into his own hands.

It is the pride of our neighbors that their country is a melting-pot. That the pot did not boil over in the dangerous hours when the first shock was wearing off, is an everlasting credit to America.

That country has its faults, and we, so close at hand, are well aware of them. But it would seem that intemperance and panic on the heels of calamity are not among them, and for this we can be grateful.

I do not imply that the United States is likely to shrug off the slaying of a president as a mere deplorable accident.

I think in the weeks and months ahead, we will see a drastic tightening of internal security down there, and a re-definition of where democratic dissent ends and subversion begins.

Surely no nation has given so long a rope, such generous leeway to the disaffected. At times it has seemed from our observation post to the north that these gentry have but to scream 'Witch-hunt!' or invoke the Fifth Amendment to justify disservice to their country.

The alleged assassin himself, the dullard who defected to Russia, was one of those who leaned heavy on this wide tolerance. He sang his song of woe at an American embassy and was shipped home at America's expense, to plot the death of his president.

In future, it is unlikely that the enemy within will be dealt with so benevolently.

Our friends have buried their good man, and Canada sent her emissaries, as was fitting.

I wish, though, that we could have done more . . . the one thing else that might have been permitted us as friends.

Even if only for the changing of a guard, I wish Canada could have shared the death-watch at John Kennedy's flag-draped casket.

Police Search for Prowler After $2,500 School Fire

A fire, believed accidentally set by a prowler at Burnside Elementary School early Sunday morning, caused an estimated $2,500 damage to a grade four classroom.

A city police juvenile officer is investigating the burglary and fire, noticed at 11:20 a.m. by a neighboring woman who saw smoke pouring from broken classroom windows.

It was not known how long the fire burned unnoticed, but it could have been a considerable time before heat built up sufficiently to burst window panes.

Masonry construction throughout the building saved it from total destruction, a school board official said.

"If it had been a frame building like today's schools, it would have burned down," said buildings and grounds superintendent Hamilton Smith.

Burnside School was built in 1914, with brick exterior and reinforced concrete between the floors.

The first floor classroom, 15 feet above ground level because of the ground-level basement, was gutted at one end, where fire burned through wooden floor and wood-plaster ceiling, without spreading.

It is believed the prowler, who ransacked teachers' desks throughout the building, dropped a match he used to light his way, which landed in a wastebasket or paper-filled drawer of the grade four teacher's desk.

The desk burned to the floor.

Used matches were found on floors in other parts of the building.

BROKE WINDOW

Entry to the school was via a ladder and window of principal Evan Oakley's office, which was smashed.

Mr. Oakley said it appeared the prowler was looking for Red Cross pennies or other valuables left in the school. Only a stop watch and a few cents were reported gone.

He thought if it had been intended to set a fire deliberately the classroom door would have been left open to fan the flames.

Pupils are having lessons in the auditoruim until repairs are made.

Japanese oranges, which last year went down to $1.98 a box, will probably cost as much as $2.50 this year because of a reduction in the crop.

B.C.'s allotment will be 15 per cent lower than usual because of cold weather which damaged a high percentage of the crop.

At present the Norwegian freighter Lloyd Bakke is unloading the first shipment of 345,000 boxes, and other swift freighters assigned to the lucrative trade are following her.

The total number of boxes destined for B.C. is 2,250,000.

Police Attack 'Flourishing' Bootlegging

10 Charges Laid; Taxi Confiscated

By DESMOND BILL

Police have cracked down on widespread bootlegging operations throughout the city and charged 10 persons with liquor offences.

Three of the accused pleaded guilty in court today and each was fined $300 or three months in jail.

In the case of one of them, Mary French, 326 Simcoe, her taxi also was confiscated.

Chief J. F. Gregory told the Times: "Illegal liquor outlets appear to have been flourishing in the area. Intensive police surveillance will continue until the situation is brought under control."

SINCE NOV. 1

Police investigation of bootlegging has been intensified since Nov. 1 when this form of crime was made the responsibility of the detective department. Previously the uniformed division had responsibility.

Detective Sergeant W. R. Andrews had charge of the investigation. Most of the work of tracking down bootleggers was carried out by newly enlisted policemen who pretended to be customers in search of an after-hours drink.

In addition to Mrs. French, the persons convicted were Ronald Lee, 1750 Burdon, and Howard Hilton, 1206 Wharf.

AT 1206 WHARF

Evidence in Hilton's case was that he sold a plainclothes officer a bottle of rye in the 1206 Club, 1206 Wharf Street, on Nov. 10.

Sidney Travers, accused of having liquor for sale at the club, which he operates, was remanded until Dec. 2 for plea.

CHARGED $8

Evidence showed Lee sold two bottles of rye to a policeman on Nov. 9. He charged $8 for the bottles which retail at government stores for $4.50.

Lee sold the liquor in the 400 block Dallas Nov. 9.

The offence involving Mrs. French occurred early next morning on the west side of Menzies near Dallas.

Constable Garry Galbraith testified he leaned into the accused car, which was used as a taxi, and bought a $2.50 case of beer for $5.

The other six persons in court today were remanded without plea until Dec. 2 and 3. They are:

Polio Clinics Off Until Next Spring

Poor response to a Metropolitan Health Board anti-polio campaign last week means no further public clinics for distribution of Sabin oral vaccine until next spring.

Metro health officer Dr. A. N. Beattie said a total of of 42,000 persons—mostly school children—received Sabin doses at clinics held in Victoria, Saanich, Oak Bay, Esquimalt, Langford, Sidney, Sooke and the Gulf Islands.

The three school districts of the Victoria area have a total enrollment of 28,244, most of whom received the vaccine.

WEATHER FOULS PLANES

Ground Search Set for Pilots

The navy is organizing a ground search for two Victoria pilots missing in an RCN T33 jet since Saturday.

A navy spokesman said the search party is being organized by Squadron VU33 at Patricia Bay, to which one of the missing men, Lieut. D. S. Clark belongs.

The squadron's search would be independent of the air-sea rescue service operations and still was waiting authority at press time today.

The other officer aboard the two-seater jet was Lieut. N. J. Ogden. Both have families in Victoria.

Ground searchers will be taken, possibly by helicopter, to comb the southeast slope of Mount Elphinstone, a 4,160-foot peak on the west side of Howe Sound.

WEATHER CUTS SEARCH

Bad weather delayed all air search activity this morning.

The navy spokesman said the aircraft could have been over the Sechelt area at the time of last contact. He said the plane left Patricia Bay naval air station at 10 a.m. Saturday to practise a ground-controlled bad weather landing approach at Sea Island, the RCAF station near Vancouver.

He said it is possible the aircraft had swung northward to make an approach from that direction.

The practice flight entails flying without visual aids at least until the pilot is in sight of the landing strip. Until then he is guided by the voices of ground personnel who watch the flight on radar.

LOST CONTACT

Shortly after 10:22 a.m. voice contact with the plane was lost and the "blip" disappeared from the radar screen.

The search has been centred in the Sechelt area since Saturday night when reports of flares and flashing lights came in from there.

An RCAF Albatross went over the area 30 miles north of Vancouver, but bad weather forced its return.

Four navy mine sweepers combed the area during the night and a marine search resumed today.

The four ships, Fortune, Miramichi, James Bay and Cowichan, were diverted to the search along with four U.S. mine sweepers while the eight vessels were returning Saturday to Vancouver from exercises near Prince Rupert.

The RCN training yacht Oriole assisted along with RCMP and RCAF crash boats from Vancouver.

Sunday, 10 fixed wing aircraft, some of them amphibians, and two helicopters, took part in the search.

The lights had been reported at the 1,500-foot level of the mountain, too low an elevation for aerial search to be wholly effective because of low cloud.

The two missing men live with their families within a block of each other in Oak Bay's Carnarvon Park area. Norman Ogden lives at 1702 Newton and Donald Clark at 1697 Carnegie.

Ogden, 33, has five children. Clark, 29, has two, the youngest being about three months of age.

TOP PILOT

RCN officials said both men had previous experience with ground-controlled flying. Ogden is described as an expert pilot and resident instructor for BC-922 Reserve Air Squadron here, although he is a parmanent force officer.

Clarke, also a permanent officer, was until recently gaining sea experience aboard the frigate HMCS Sussexvale. It is believed the flight was a "brush up" for his benefit.

He is a fully-trained pilot, however, having graduated from flying school in 1955 at Pensacola, Florida. A Burnaby man, he joined the service in 1952.

Thieves Work Hard But Receive Little

Burglars hit 19 times in Greater Victoria during the weekend in what appears to be an almost unprecedented rash of break-ins in this area.

Only last week Saanich police reported 11 break-ins within five days and warned that a gang seemed to be operating in the municipality.

The most spectacular burglary was at Burnside Elementary School which could have been burned down. (See picture story this page).

$120 TAKEN

The thieves in the city got little money for their work. But in Oak Bay a prowler in the home of F. D. Rodway, 3392 Henderson, got away with $120 in cash and 25 B.C. Centennial dollars.

Saanich police also reported a break-in at Prospect Lake School, where nothing was taken, and apparent attempts to break into Solid Fuels, Cloverdale Ave., and Trans Canada Service Station. In these latter cases windows were broken but nothing is reported missing.

Most of the city break-ins occurred overnight Saturday. A prowler tried to get into the store of Mrs. F. Leidel, 1387 Hillside, by climbing through an open bathroom window in the living quarters at the back of the store.

DOOR BOLTED

The burglar was foiled getting into the store because the bathroom door was bolted on the outside.

A transmitter radio and a small amount of loose cash was stolen from Gem Fish and Chips, 975 Kings, by a thief who broke glass in the front door to enter.

The front door of Shearing's Food Market, 810 Catherine, was also forced by the burglar who rifled the cash register of about $3 in small change.

KNEW WHERE

Cash totalling $30 was stolen from Pay and Save gas station, 420 Burnside. The money was hidden in the office but the thief apparently knew where to look for it.

A window was smashed at Doman's Lumber, 208 Bay, the scene of a recent safe-cracking attempt, but nothing is reported missing. C&C Texaco service station, Wharf Street, also had a window broken but police do not think the prowler was able to gain entry.

The burglar who found only $10 in McDonald's Grocery, 675 Burnside, vented his anger by slashing five sacks of flour with a knife. Entry here was made by a back door.

Offices of Mutual Equipment, 2925 Douglas, were ransacked and $20 stolen. A ransacking also occurred at Mais Cafe, 2251 Government, where an undetermined quantity of cigarettes is missing.

They Ate, Drank Heartily

Burglars took a leisurely swing through five Brentwood businesses overnight, eating heartily and drinking deep as they went.

Their take: a kit of drills, about $60 in cash, a case of beer, and supper.

Central Saanich police investigating the break-ins this morning commented on the neat, professional way the job was done.

Tools for the break-ins were taken from the Brentwood Texaco Service, 7226 West Saanich Road, by someone who neatly removed a pane of glass from a side window to get in, then replaced it.

About $30 was taken from the till, and a case of beer was stolen.

RANSACKED

Next stop for the busy burglars was the office of Drs. J. S. Groves and J. P. Ellis, which was ransacked. Nothing was stolen.

But the burglars then went through a connecting door to the office of the Saanich Peninsula Credit Union.

There, they drank the beer, and tried to punch the lock of the safe, succeeding only in breaking off the dial.

KICKED DOOR IN

Frustrated at the credit union, they abandoned their tools and went next door to Jack's Coffee Shop. They kicked in the door, broke open a cigarette machine and stole $20 from the coin box, and fixed themselves ham sandwiches for supper.

By then the evening was wearing on, so the burglars kicked in the door of the adjoining Brentwood Hardware Store, and stole a set of drills, then fled the area.

"Must have been visitors," said a Central Saanich policeman at the scene.

"Our people would never do a job like that."

It was a repeat visit for the doctors' office.

Burglars broke in there last Wednesday night, and stole a small bottle of morphine.

Prairie Pioneer Dies Here

Eugene R. Johnson, a Saskatchewan pioneer, died early this morning on the eve of his 81st birthday.

He came to Canada from England in 1903 and settled in the Kennel-Ross district of Saskatchewan where he became a charter member of Saskatchewan Wheat Pool and an organizing member of the Kennel-Ross Co-operative Movement.

He was also secretary of the Kelliher Agricultural Society.

After serving in the First World War, he came to Metchosin in 1928.

LEGION SECRETARY

He later became secretary of Branch 91, Royal Canadian Legion, Langford, and secretary of Metchosin Farmers' Institute.

Mr. Johnson was also a member of the Masonic order and Pro Patria branch of the Canadian Legion.

He is survived by the widow, Evelyn, 668 Transit Road, a son, Maurice, and a daughter, Barbara, both of Victoria, and relatives in New Zealand and Great Britain.

Funeral services will be held Thursday at 10:15 a.m. in McCall Bros. Floral Chapel. Cremation will follow.

11th Times Christmas Fund to Pass $100,000 Mark

Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova, director of the Unitarian Service Committee of Canada, will launch the 11th Times-sponsored campaign tonight to raise money to feed refugee children in Korea.

Following a speech at 7:30 tonight in St. Andrew's Church Kirk Hall, Dr. Hitschmanova will present scrolls of honor to the Victoria Daily Times, Dowell's Cartage and Storage Ltd., depot for USC clothing and to Mrs. Mamie Maloney, columnist for the Vancouver Sun, in recognition of their 10 years of service.

During the 10 years in which the Times has sponsored the campaign $90,000 has been raised in Victoria. This year the total should go well over the $100,000 mark.

A Times donation of $100 will start the campaign on its way tonight.

All donations should be sent to the "Korean Kiddies Fund" care of the Times which will publish acknowledgment in daily lists as the campaign grows. Tax deductible receipts will be issued.

Money donated to the USC fund will be used to buy barley for hungry children and provide medical and social assistance for rehabilitation.

Used clothing for Korean children should be sent to Dowell's Cartage and Storage Ltd., 1117 Wharf St.

Since January 11,300 pounds of woolens and layettes have been sent to Korea. It is hoped that by Christmas the total number of pounds of "instant warmths" will reach 20,000.

At the public meeting tonight in the Kirk Hall, 680 Courtney, Dr. Hitschmanova will speak on "The Miracle Tools" and show the Vancouver Island premiere of "The Bridge of Love."

SHOPPING GUIDE

Hubbies Prefer Bikinis Says This Store Owner

By PENNY SAVER

Never let it be said that all Victoria men are conservative! Owner of women's lingerie store I was in tells me that hubbies are the most enthusiastic shoppers for the briefest women's panties I've seen for a long time. Seems that they enjoy shopping for this Brigitte Bardot type of frippery!

These bikini panties come in either black or white and are made of nylon lace that's as airy as a cobweb when stretched to fit. Hubbies are hastening to pay out the $1.25 that's on the price tag.

Small wonder that this same store owner is standing by for the rush that's bound to come once people hear about another line of bikinis that have just been unpacked. These, too, come in black or white but the sheer nylon is so fine that the panties look as if a puff of wind would blow them away! They sell at $1.50.

If your hubby isn't too bikini-minded, he'll probably settle for one of the demure little house coats that come in leopard condana that almost looks like the real thing. Some men have already placed an order with Santa for these, I'm told.

A smart, squared yoke points up the simple rounded neckline. Sleeves are elbow length and there are two big patch pockets as extra trim. Coats have a belt that can be juggled around and used as a half belt, full or omitted entirely, depending on the whims of milady. They're fully washable and a "steal" at $4.99.

With the party season almost upon us, you'll be interested in the comfortable backless, strapless bras that rely on clever elastic contouring to hold in place and yet be unseen under your prettiest revealing party dress.

Shaping also results in the lines that every woman looks for when she's setting out on the party circuit. Bras come in black or white and are priced at $9.95.

If your hubby is headed for the bikini band wagon, prefers leopards or would like to see you looking your best this season, you'll need Penny's phone number. It's 382-3131.

THE BETTER HALF By Bob Barnes

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

One Hour Isn't Long, Until Many Are Gone

The other night we had some delightful friends at our home for dinner. After they left I went out onto the porch to watch the moon scattering silver and gold over the lake. Then I felt the need for some music and listened to records on the hi-fi for a little while.

Lowman

Our friends didn't stay very late, but after a comparatively short time I began to feel guilty about not going to sleep. The reason for this unusual emotion was that the work I had to do the following day was resting heavily on my otherwise sentimental and gay neck.

With great regret, and even greater self-discipline, I decided that I would definitely be asleep by midnight. I took the afternoon paper up with me to read before turning out the light. My head had barely touched the pillow when I saw the newspaper headline "Turn Your Clocks Back One Hour."

It was as though I had been given an hour of life I had no right to expect. It was a gift from heaven. I scrambled out of bed, with no feeling of guilt, went downstairs and looked at the moon, listened to more music, read more and went to sleep just a little later than I should have on the new time.

Of course daylight saving time is also sometimes a hazard. When it first starts I usually rush to catch a train at the last minute and then sit and wait for an hour at least one time. Then there was the time when I visited in Bowling Green, Kentucky. There was a sort of feud going on about daylight saving time. The hotel was on one time, the stores were on another and my friends were on whatever time suited them best.

It was very relaxing. You could arrive at a party whenever it was most convenient for you and all you had to say was, "Sorry, I am on the other time" and everyone understood.

SPADEA DESIGNER PATTERN

NS-351

Charles Montaigne

You'll be plunged right into the style set, the moment you slip this A-line design by Charles Montaigne over your head! Deeply V-ed in the current rage for exposure, it is modest enough to keep you out of trouble. The body of the dress is cut with shaped panels—the side ones featuring long darts that mold the figure without encasing it like a sausage, the front one hiding two well-placed pockets. Made minus an actual waistline, for those who prefer some kind of definition, there is a cross-over belt for you to attach either at a line with the bust or at the more conventional level. Although all Spadea patterns are cut with greater shoulder width than is usual, the slight extension of the shoulders in this case is a fashion point. For holiday parties, choose ribbed silk, brocades or even wool and pin on a sparkler. If there's a winter trip in the offing, it will be marvellous with a tan made-up in linen, novelty cottons, pique. Should the snowy slopes be your destination, it will be a perfect fireside costume in any of the lush mohairs, flannel, crunchy tweed to wear over a turtle neck sweater. To select your correct size use Spadea's exclusive ready-to-wear size chart.

Sizes	Bust	Waist	Hips	*Length

BLONDIES

Half cup shortening, 2 cups firmly packed brown sugar, 2 eggs, 1½ teaspoons vanilla, 1¾ cups sifted all-purpose flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ cup slivered toasted almonds, ¼ cup chopped glace cherries, ¼ cup candied pineapple.

Cream shortening and sugar. Add remaining ingredients in order given, mixing well after each addition. Spread in greased, 8-inch square pan to depth of about ¾ inch. Bake at 350 degrees for 18 to 20 minutes or until golden brown. Do not overbake. Remove from oven while still soft. Cut into bars about 3 by 1 inch. Makes 32 bars. Note: Recipe may be doubled and baked in oblong pan, 13 by 8 by 2 inches.

DEAR ABBY . . .

State Your Main Line!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am 42 years old, and a bachelor by choice. I am neither ugly nor handsome. I enjoy the company of women occasionally, but I do not want to get married just now. My problem is an intelligent, but extremely aggressive young woman, who moved in next door to me. She started the usual neighborly friendship. If she sees a light on in my place, or my car out in front, she runs over to visit. She has offered to cook for me and do my mending, (I refused), and her conversation always gets around to marriage. Last week I moved my refrigerator, cooking equipment and TV down to the basement to make it appear that I'm not at home, but I can't fool her. What should I do?

IN HIDING

DEAR IN: Tell her you're not interested and move back upstairs.

DEAR ABBY: I had my first baby 18 months ago and I received some very lovely gifts for her. I also bought many nice things for her on my own. I plan on having more children and want to save all her clothes for my next baby. I have put them away as good as new. My sister-in-law is now pregnant and is due in May. She has two other children, 11 and nine, and didn't plan on this one, so she has nothing saved for it. She is 35 and says this will be her last, so she doesn't intend to go all out buying stuff. She has thrown hints left and right for me to offer her my baby's things. It may sound selfish, but I want to keep these things for my next baby. Once anything is used by her it is a wreck as she doesn't take care of anything. What can I say if she asks? Please advise.

SISTER-IN-LAW

DEAR SIS: Don't give anything unless it is given willingly and cheerfully. She won't "ask." People who hint haven't the courage to ask.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 15-year-old girl who would like your opinion about something my mother did. Last summer while I was on a trip with my family, I met a very nice boy who was working at the motel where we stayed. My mother looked him over and okayed a movie date. We said we would be back by 11:30. We stopped for a snack after the movie and were only 40 minutes late getting back. Mom didn't want to create a disturbance in the motel so she said she would put off my punishment until we got home. By the time we got home I had forgotten all about it, but Mom hadn't. Out of a clear blue sky she would not let me go to the college club dance. Do you think it is fair of her to punish me this way for something I did last summer? FURIOUS

DEAR FURIOUS: No. She should have punished you when you had it coming.

CONFIDENTIAL TO P.K.: You CAN and MUST quit. Think of the disastrous consequences when your luck runs out.

Home Sewers Just Can't Pleat Chiffon Themselves

"Dear Eunice Farmer:

"I recently saw a two-piece chiffon dress in a magazine I would like to copy for the holiday season, but the fine-pleated skirt has me stumped. How can I pleat chiffon or would georgette make up better?"

Mrs. M.M.

Dear Mrs. M.M.:

Unfortunately, there are a few things we home sewers just can't do at home. Pleating of this type is impossible to do, it must be done professionally by someone who has the proper equipment. If you live in a large city, you may be lucky enough to have someone who does permanent pleating in all fabrics. Georgette would have the same problems as chiffon.

Tea Mark's 25th Anniversary

There were 70 guests when Q Chapter, PEO Sisterhood, held a tea this afternoon in the spacious Beach Drive home of Mrs. Ronald Whittington to mark the chapter's 25th anniversary. Rooms were decorated in the sisterhood's colors of yellow and white. Guests were received by the hostess and chapter president, Mrs. H. G. Ellis. Special guests included Mrs. Percy B. Scurrah, past president of Supreme Chapter; Mrs. D. B. Turner, provincial president; Mrs. H. M. Morrison, provincial second vice-president; provincial past presidents, Mrs. David Clarke, Mrs. H. O. English, Mrs. H. L. Smith, Mrs. H. L. Campbell, Mrs. E. S. Davidson and Mrs. A. W. Johns.

Presidents of Chapters I and AA, Mrs. Hazel Hodson and Mrs. H. D. Wallace, were invited to preside at the refreshment table. Serviteurs were Mrs. Len Acres, social convener; Mrs. J. Gillespie, Mrs. L. Ptak, Mrs. C. Evans, Mrs. R. Newell, Mrs. C. R. Davis and Mrs. J. Calvert. Mrs. R. T. Kipling convened program which included songs by Mrs. Erica Kurth with Mrs. Howard Denike as accompanist. Mrs. T. H. Johns, past provincial president, gave outline of the chapter's formation and Mrs. Jack Calvert told of the chapter's special educational program.

Wedding Guests

Mrs. Nina Gray (former Miss Canada) flew from Whitehorse, Y.T., to be matron of honor at recent wedding of Miss Beverly Lewis and Mr. Arthur Price. Other out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Vic Neill of Saratoga Beach; Mr. and Mrs. E. Lewis of Alberni; Mr. Angus Morrison, Nanaimo; Mr. and Mrs. L. Hicks and Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Price of Vancouver and Mr. and Mrs. D. Shewchuk of North Vancouver.

'Circus Night'

Sketches of circus personalities set decor when the Engineers' Wives Association invited their husbands to a "Circus Night" in the War Amputations Hall. Mrs. T. M. Thomson welcomed guests as they arrived, each wearing an appropriate costume. Party was convened by Mrs. J. Motherwell with Mrs. K. Reid arranging for cocktail hour and dinner. Highlights of evening were a circus parade by association members and a fashion show that saw their husbands modelling women's styles from 1898 to today.

For the Baby

A doll buggy piled with gifts and brought in by Arvelle Penner carrying a lighted candle was climax to a baby shower held for Mrs. John Penner last Sunday, at the Humber St. home of Mrs. Reuben Matiko. A corsage of flowers fashioned around a baby's rattle was presented to the guest of honor. Friends attending were: Mrs. J. Ainscough, Mrs. Ronald Barber, Mrs. R. O. Berry, Mrs. Olaf Clebo, Mrs. C. C. Clifford, Miss Beverly Clifford, Mrs. Lorne Fleming, Mrs. Paul E. Henderson, Mrs. C. F. Herrmann, Mrs. John Jewkes, Mrs. Stan Jewkes, Mrs. Jossul, Mrs. Rudy Kwiram, Mrs. Max Kilba, Mrs. J. M. LeMarquand, Miss Joan McKeith, Mrs. Agnes McKenzie, Mrs. J. R. Mersereau, Mrs. David Meservia, Mrs. Peter Penner, Mrs. A. M. Spenst, Mrs. W. D. White, and Mrs. Cyril Williams.

On Mission

Mr. and Mrs. J. Russell Dudley of Vancouver have been staying at the Empress Hotel. Mr. Dudley is executive director of the Canadian Council of Christians and Jews and he is in the city to stimulate interest in a human relations seminar to be presented here today.

Overseas

Included amongst visitors to British Columbia House in London, Eng., in the past 10 days were the following Victorians: Miss Myra Johnson, Mr. Monty Porter, Mrs. Charlotte Green, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Dickinson and Patricia and Mr. and Mrs. R. I. Vigar. Also signing the register were Mrs. L. B. Scardifield, Sidney, B.C., and Miss Miriam Litch, of Nanaimo.

Getting together for a final check are some of the conveners for the Christmas bazaar of St. Martin's Ladies' Evening Guild, to be held in the parish hall on Saturday, beginning at 3 p.m. They are, left to right, Mrs. L. T. Salmon, Mrs. R. J. Thurston, Mrs. W. H. Cliff, Mrs. G. Harvey, Mrs. H. Irwin and Mrs. C. S. Jensen. A silver collection will be taken at the tea, to be served in the upper hall. There will be stalls of plants, candy, home baking, Christmas novelties, sewing, dolls' clothes, white elephants, good used children's clothing, fish pond and balloons for the children. Another feature will be the "lady with a hundred pockets."

Aquamarines Prevent Marriages From Piling Up 'On the Rocks'

NEW YORK (UPI)—Slightly superstitious husbands can patch a marital spat by doing this ancient thing:

Keep the marriage from going on the rocks by giving the mate a rock—aquamarine, to be specific. This stone's said to insure a happy marriage.

Such superstitions about the mystic power of jewels have been a part of life and history for centuries. We may laugh at our ancestors, but many of the beliefs still persist. Some are medical.

One, for example, holds that a bit of crystal in the pocket will help a toothache. The crystal's supposed to be rubbed over the tooth if the pain is acute.

Authority for this is Betty Fleishman, a New York jeweler. She's glad some of the superstitions have faced.

"People no longer think that pearls bring tears," she said. "That went out—fortunately—with the arrival of culture pearls.

"But many women will not wear opals unless they are their birthstones. And diamonds still are considered powerful stones with a power beyond price. Actually, emeralds often cost more."

FIRE FROM SUN

Why do diamonds have magic powers? Mrs. Fleishmen said the big reason is that they are today's symbol of marriage.

"Beyond all this," she said, "there is the ancient belief that the diamond's fire comes from the sun, which it reflects. To ancient man, the sun was the most powerful thing in the universe.

"Later, a diamond's radiance was thought to come from the fire of love. At one time, some thought the stone's sparkle diverted the evil eye."

Other traditions and superstitions about gems cited by the jewelry expert include the following:

—In the Orient, jade always has been considered lucky. It still is. Today, the firm Mrs. Fleishman operates with her husband, sells many jade rubbing stones designed to be touched at tense times. "It's just as relaxing as a man rubbing the bowl of a pipe," she said.

—Crystal always has been a curing stone. The amazing thing about this is that it acquired its reputation among widely separted tribes who had no communication with each other. It was revered from Scotland to Greece, from Japan to Australia.

—Amethyst is supposed to be happy for everyone, and amber generally good, but especially so for those born under the sign of Leo and somewhat unfavorable for those born under Taurus.

Actuall, many months have two birthstones: one precious, one semiprecious.

"Either way, they're both supposed to be lucky," Mrs. Fleishman said, knocking wood.

Never Too Old

WOODSTOCK, Ont. (CP)—An energetic white-haired secretary in her late 60s says age should never be a barrier to a woman who wishes to further her education.

Mrs. Arthur H. Melson speaks from experience.

She left school to work at the age of 14 and in her early 30s decided she would like to complete high school.

After whizzing through her secondary school studies with a private tutor, she began taking university extension courses and after 20 years of study received her Bachelor of Arts degree from the University of Western Ontario.

Since that time, she has taken more advanced courses in 17th, 18th and 19th century French and has studied German and Spanish.

She has also made a scientific collection of ferns and wildflowers—one often borrowed by university professors for study.

"I get a greater thrill from finding a new wild flower than from buying a new hat," she says.

Mrs. Melson has won several awards for essays, including second prize in a national essay contest sponsored by the Women's Canadian Club.

And with all her private pursuits, she still finds time for the local Business and Professional Women's Club, the Imperial Order, Daughters of the Empire, the Woodstock Naturalist Society and the Girl Guides.

Her latest project has been knitting colorful winter caps—when interviewed she had just completed cap No. 341.

Mrs. E. M. Aldridge, left, admires items to be offered at the Y's Menettes Club of Victoria pre-Christmas sale, to be held at the Shelbourne Shopping Plaza, Thursday and Friday from 1 to 9 p.m. Mrs. C. Joyce holds a 36-inch doll which, complete with wardrobe, will be raffled. There will be stalls of new and old toys, Christmas cards, gift wrappings, dolls' furniture, decorations and novelties, Christmas stockings and many other items.

Daughters of St. George No. 83, Wednesday at 7:30 p.m., K of P Hall, Cormorant Street.

MAPLE LEAF BALL

LONDON (CP) — The Maple Leaf Ball, largest annual gathering of Canadians in London, drew about 400 guests to a Mayfair Hotel, last week.

Among them: Canadian High Commissioner George Drew; Sir Saville Garner, former British high commissioner in Ottawa, and Lady Garner; agents-general from Alberta, British Columbia, Atlantic provinces and Quebec, with their wives.

Mrs. Drew was ill and unable to attend.

The Maple Leaf Ball is organized by the Canadian Women's Club. Proceeds go to welfare work for Canadian veterans in Britain.

Couple Greeted by Guard of Honor

A guard of honor, formed by the Victoria Girls' Drill Corps, of which the bride was a member, greeted Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Earle Price when they left the First United Church after their recent wedding.

Rev. R. J. D. Morris heard the vows of Beverly Joan Lewis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Trevor Lewis, 1224 Princess Avenue, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Everett C. Price of Hudson Hope, B.C.

White chrysanthemums were at the altar and pews were marked with white doilies, centred with lily of the valley.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in a gown of silk organza over taffeta that had appliques of lace and seed pearls trimming the neckline and lily point sleeves. The belled skirt swept back to a graceful train. A four-tier veil misted from a pearl headpiece in lily of the valley design. White feathered chrysanthemums and Talisman roses were in her bouquet.

Mrs. Nina Gray (nee Nina Holden, former Miss Canada) flew from her home at Whitehorse, Y.T., to be matron of honor. Mrs. J. Stearn was bridesmatron and Miss Judy Lewis, the bride's sister, was bridesmaid.

They wore identical gowns of emerald green velvet, gold shoes and headpieces of green ribbon roses, edged with toning tulle and gold leaves. Their bouquets were gold feathered chrysanthemums.

The bride's petite niece, Sherri Lewis, was flower girl, wearing a gold velvet frock and toning ribbon rose headpiece. Talisman roses centred the white chrysanthemums in the basket she carried.

Best man was Robert Clarke and ushering guests were Gordon Tregear and Grant Udy. Jan Fee sang "Because" during the ceremony.

White and gold flowers flanked the three-tier wedding cake that centred the head table at a reception in White Eagle Hall. J. A. Craig proposed the toast. A three-piece orchestra played for dancing.

Leaving on a honeymoon trip to California, the bride wore a navy blue wool boucle suit, floral blouse, navy accessories and pink rose corsage.

Newlyweds will live at 841 Esquimalt Road.

Victoria Guide Honored

The highest award in guiding was given to Valerie Dennis recently when she was presented with the coveted "gold cords" at an impressive ceremony in St. Matthias' church hall. Presentation was made by Mrs. B. Shaw, commissioner of the Gonzales division.

The top-ranking guide is a member of the 3rd Victoria company, who gave her the gold cord pin, presentaton being made by Mrs. P. C. Henze, a former captain who had been Valerie's instructor through all her guiding years.

Mrs. W. Emmerton, area commissioner, who attended the ceremony, introduced her newly-appointed deputy, Mrs. H. McKeever and spoke on the world-wide organization.

Members of the color parties taking part in the ceremony were the Misses Marnie Whiteaker, Jan Peetz, Patti Taunton, Anne Hertzberg, Susan Price and Karen Ledger.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald D. Dennis were there to see their daughter receive her award as well as many of her friends. Also present were Mrs. G. Whiteaker, district badge secretary, and Miss Marion Woiblet, a Green Ribbon trainer from Surrey, England.

Guides Linda Gordon and Vicki Lennox were in charge of refreshments as part of examination for their hostess badges. Tester was Mrs. F. J. Cairnie.

WOMEN SUFFER BLADDER IRRITATION MORE OFTEN THAN MEN

After 21 twice as many women as men are made miserable by common urinary irritation caused by a germ, Escherichia Coli. To quickly combat the secondary aches, muscular pains and disturbed sleep caused by Kidney and Bladder irritations, try taking an internal CYSTEX antiseptic bath for a few days. All you do is take 2 little CYSTEX tablets with a glass of water. In addition to its cleaning antiseptic action, CYSTEX is also an analgesic pain reliever for Rheumatic Pains, Headache, Backache, and muscular pains. Get CYSTEX from druggist. Feel better fast.

9 IN MEMORIAM

ADAMS—In loving memory of our darling little son, who passed away suddenly on November 25, 1960.
No stain was on his little heart,
Sin had not entered there;
And innocence slept sweetly on
That pale white brow so fair.
He was too pure for this cold earth,
Too beautiful to stay,
And so God's holy angel bore
Our darling one away.
—Sadly missed and never forgotten,
Mommy and Daddy.

FRAYNE—In loving memory of our husband, father and grandfather, Robert Frayne, who passed away Nov. 24, 1962.
Nothing can ever take away
The love a heart holds dear.
Fond memories linger every day,
Remembrance keeps him near.
—Always remembered by his wife Isabella, son Robert and family, daughter Edythe and family.

YATES—In loving memory of my dear mother, Berta Yates, who died November 25, 1956.
Her heart the truest in all the world,
Her love the best to recall;
None on earth could take her place,
She is still the dearest of all.
—Sadly missed by her daughter, Mildred.

"FOREST" CEDAR SIDING

A new cedar specialty for Beauty Long Life Economy

• • •

What is "FOREST" Siding?

A new and attractive type of siding that comes from specially selected cedar logs sawn to bring out all the distinctive character of knots, burls and grain.

How Does "FOREST" compare with other siding?

It has more thickness, greater wood volume to add structural strength to any building. Its snug fitting makes good insulation and its low cost makes it ideal for modest budget home builders or remodellers.

How to finish "FOREST"

"Forest" has a distinctive horizontal shadow line that will enhance the beauty of your home.

There are numerous highly satisfactory stains on the market. They come in a variety of colors, such as Redwood Cedar, Wheat tone, Framings, Maplewood and mahogany.

YOU can easily apply "FOREST" cedar siding

Many home owners have applied this modern, beautiful "Forest" siding themselves without the slightest difficulty.

ELECTROHOME
SPRINGAIRE
Air Circulator-Filter
Electrohome Springaire with the built-in Carbon Filter and the Permachem Filter gives you fresh, clean odor-free air all the year round . . . economically and efficiently. The Springaire is light enough to carry and provides fresh air where it's needed; whether it's in the kitchen, bathroom, smoke-filled living room during parties or just to filter out dust, lint and pollen before it can smudge up your home or aggravate allergies. The chores of dusting and wall washing can be reduced. Springaire filters out even the finest dust that settles on furniture, sofas draperies, covers, mirrors, windows and crystal.

Andy Stephen Looks at TV

As time rolls by the news department of the networks continue to show how they are shaming the entertainment departments in achievement.

One such moment was the quick and comprehensive coverage by all networks minutes following the assassination of President John F. Kennedy in Dallas.

Stephen

The bulletined news shocked Victoria viewers shortly after 10:30 a.m. Friday. All American stations immediately cancelled entertainment programming and cleared time for network reports from the focal points of New York, Washington and Dallas. The Canadian stations were slower in making their moves.

There seemed to be indecision on their part whether to join an American network or continue working on local shows.

Cool heads prevailed, fortunately, and the decision of Channels 2, 6 and 8 was to take a feed from CBS-TV. Later the stations joined either NBC-TV or CBS-TV and stayed with them throughout the day evening, foregoing all entertainment features.

Through the hours there was much dial-switching to keep abreast of the reports and comments from all three major networks.

A pattern slowly emerged Friday showing ABC-TV more advanced in relaying the news and subsequent live and film reports from the various centres.

Guided by news chief James Hagerty, press secretary under former President Eisenhower, the network tackled the job with cool, smooth efficiency.

It also led, later on that infamous day, in making the subtle but gradual transition from films, news shots and speeches of the murdered president to a studied closer look at the new president, Lyndon B. Johnson.

Early Friday evening the network carried a 30-minute video-taped interview with Johnson done earlier this year and without the knowledge of the fateful events to follow.

The other networks made their move in this direction later on in the evening. ABC-TV also showed the first film shots of the accused murderer Lee Oswald in the Dallas jail, plus hurriedly snatched interviews with him as he was directed from cell to interrogation room.

But, ignoring who was first with this or that, all networks, including Canada's, did a tremendous job in the face of great odds. The biggest obstacle broached and bested was establishment of emergency production centres for transmission of continuous reports from widely-separated points.

Even the views of Canadian news analysts from Toronto, despite fatuous local opinion to the contrary, was adult, informative, illuminating, good, tasteful and timely comment.

It is during the hours of coverage of such momentous historic proportions that television comes of age and into its own.

School Trustees Given Posts By Acclamation

Eight of nine school trustee posts in the Greater Victoria region were filled by acclamation today while the last one—in Central Saanich—had absolutely no takers.

The low interest in school board affairs was the highlight of the completion of nominations at noon today in all B.C. municipalities except Victoria and Vancouver which hold elections under special legislation.

Victoria nominations — for mayor, four aldermen and two school trustees—close at 2 p.m. Dec. 5, the day the other municipalities hold balloting.

40 FOR 19

A total of 40 candidates entered contests for 19 vacancies in Saanich, Oak Bay, Esquimalt, Sidney and Central Saanich councils.

Battles for all three reeveships in this area were officially assured, as expected.

Duncan re-elected Jack T. Dobson as mayor by acclamation and all candidates in Lake Cowichan were elected by acclamation.

'WE WERE HERE FIRST'

WHITE MAJORITY BACKS APARTHEID

By RUSSELL HOWE
The Washington Post

CAPETOWN, South Africa — Most South African whites today support the government of Hendrik Verwoerd, the Dutch-born prime minister who bulldozed his way to the top of a party machine that intentionally looks like the German Nazi party.

What does Verwoerd, in unemotional terms, stand for? An intelligent white South African, defending his government, would say something like this:

"Sure, we have a lot of the appurtenances of a Fascist state, but so does every African country and some of them have more authoritarian characteristics than we have.

"Let's face it, this is a racist continent and we few African whites are in the minority. As a minority, we are conspicious by our color, our brains and our money. We've been in this particular country longer than the Bantu — longer than anyone except the bushmen and the Hottentots, who are disappearing and have no political ambitions.

'WE CREATED JOBS'

"Not only were we here first, but the country owes its development to our white skill, enterprise and capital, the Bantu came down from the north and the east, only because we created jobs for them.

"There is a lot on the credit side. Our Bantu citizens have a higher standard of living than any other Africans north or south of the Sahara. They own 100,000 autos. Proportionally, that's four times more than in the Soviet Union. They have more college and high school graduates, more African doctors and nurses, per head, than any other Africans. Behind the apartheid (segregation) wall, most live well and some have made a fortune.

"Of course we're keeping them down politically. Is there any alternative? We'd heed our critics abroad a little more if they could convincingly say that in similar circumstances they'd be prepared to abandon their homelands and the businesses they've built up and trek off into the wild blue yonder.

FOUR TO ONE

"Whites here number three and a quarter million. Non-whites are over 13 million. Four to one. It it were the other way round we'd give 'em the vote."

Despite the rationalizations, many white citizens display pricked consciences.

Natal's English-speaking whites are torn between a desire to flee abroad and a determination not to be rendered homeless by a policy they had no share in elaborating.

Of Johannesburg's 400,000 whites, 140,000 are Jewish. "Our contributions to Israel are the second largest after those of American Jewry," says a community leader.

ENTIRE BUDGET

"We just about pay the entire annual budget of the Israeli air force. Israel has refused South Africa overflight rights on the Negev, the last hope of maintaining the Athens route. Israel sides with the African states against us. We understand that, and we hope Israel understands us. The government's policy is immoral, but so is war, and both are sometimes inevitable."

The majority of the black, Cape colored (persons of mixed blood), and Asian South Africans acquiese in a system which they do not like, politically, but which they would prefer to living in the more African — but more impoverished—states to the north.

It is hard to estimate how many Bantu support nationalist organizations, but diplomats work on the figure of about 50,000. These groups call for, with differing degrees of force, one-man-one-vote, black-majority government.

WIDE MEMBERSHIP

The movements include Communists and frankly Verwoerdian black racists as well as genuine but temperate nationalists like Nobel prize winner Chief Albert Luthuli.

The latter have the full support of the inter-racial Liberal Party, which has a following in Natal but not enough to ensure a parliamentary seat.

Verwoerd's nationalists are supported by about 1,750,000 of the country's 2,015,000 Afrikaner-speaking (Dutch and French descent) whites and many of the 1,235,000 "English."

The United Party, which groups some Afrikaners and most of the English, favors diluted apartheid.

In between comes the Progressive Party, which has one legislative seat and the generous backing of tycoon Harry Oppenheimer, who heads 139 corporations, including the $1½ billion Anglo-American Mining Corporation.

The Progressive Party says that because South Africa relies on a talented minority for its prosperity and is too advanced a state to be handed over to unskilled rule, a qualified franchise is desirable.

Image Blot Dismays

WASHINGTON (AP)—Foreign policy officials reacted with shock and dismay Sunday to the shooting of the accused assassin of President Kennedy.

With the eyes of the world focused on the United States as a result of the assassination of the president, they had hoped the arrest and trial of the alleged killer, Lee Harvey Oswald, would demonstrate order, fairness and justice.

Ed Guthman, information officer for the justice department, said "very strong evidence points to Oswald as the assassin. The FBI will continue to investigate every lead and every bit of evidence."

Ordinance Could Cost Air Lines a Fortune

HEMPSTEAD, N.Y. (UPI)—The town council of this suburban New York City community last week passed an anti-noise ordinance that could cost airlines an estimated $25,000 a day in fines.

The council contends more than half of the 500 airplanes that fly over Hempstead each day, landing and taking off from New York City's two airports, make so much noise they disrupt church services, disturb students, prevent residents of this city of 800,000 from relaxing, and make many so nervous they cannot work, eat or sleep.

$100 FINE

The ordinance provides a $100 fine against any plane that flies overhead and makes more noise than that of a heavy truck travelling on a highway 50 feet away from the listener.

The Air Line Pilots Association warned the council that pilots would violate the ordinance because they could not endanger the lives of passengers by cutting back power to make their engines quieter.

The town's chief executive, presiding supervisor Palmer Farrington, indicated the ordinance would be used as a club to force the airlines to negotiate the problem. He wants the industry to launch a crash program to develop a jet engine that is less noisy.

Industry spokesmen say this is technically and economically impossible.

Canvassers Needed For Kiwanis Blitz

Victoria Kiwanis Club is looking for 200 more canvassers as final preparations are being made for its porchlight blitz for funds Dec. 2.

Target for the drive in aid of Kiwanis Village and Villa at Cook and Lang Streets is $25,000.

Persons or groups wishing to canvass can call in at campaign headquarters, room 303 of the Jones Building, 723 Fort Street, or telephone 385-2535 to have kits delivered.

1,600 READY

About 1,600 persons will be taking part in the drive, scheduled to start at 6:30 p.m. and continue until 8 p.m.

"Almost every family in Greater Victoria is going to be reached by the drive," said campaign chairman Reg Harris.

Kiwanis Village Society president Bill Lyle said the money collected will go toward further construction. The senior citizens housing development is self-supporting.

Next construction project is to complete the Villa to house 80 persons and add a full-size dining area and kitchen to replace temporary facilities now in use.

Present capacity of the Villa is 52. Kiwanis now house 136 elderly persons on the low-rental development.

Current value of the housing project is estimated at $578,000.

BIGGEST ERUPTION

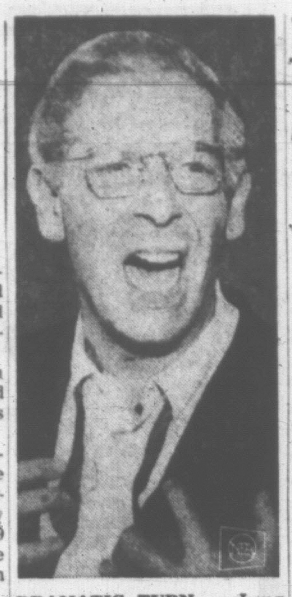

The greatest known volcanic lava flow in history erupted in southern Iceland in 1783, with a volume of about 2.9 cubic miles.

Viet Nam Policy Affirmed

WASHINGTON (AP)—Grasping the reins of foreign policy quickly, President Johnson Sunday pledged the United States anew to winning the war against the Communist guerrillas in South Viet Nam.

He asked all U.S. personnel in South Viet Nam to help the new Vietnamese government to consolidate its position and to develop public support for its policies aimed at winning the war against the Red Viet Cong.

This was the core of a general directive—his first in the foreign-policy field—issued after he conferred with Henry Cabot Lodge, U.S. ambassador to Viet Nam, and other top diplomatic and military leaders.

DRAMATIC TURN — Long noted for his ability at comedy, Milton Berle turns toward dramatic acting. Here desperation marks his face as he portrays a campaign manager fighting for his political life in a television show.

Last Chance Tonight For Card to Europe

Mailing deadlines are the major topics at Victoria post office as officials brace themselves for the annual Christmas mail avalanche.

Tonight will be the last chance to mail a Christmas card to continental Europe to ensure delivery before Dec. 25.

Other deadlines are Saturday for cards to Britain, Dec. 8 for Eastern Canada and the U.S., Dec. 13 for the rest of Canada and Dec. 17 for local mail.

Postmaster Allan Davies reported a heavy load of parcels to Britain when the deadline was reached Thursday epening.

"Early mailing is a tremendous help to us and we certainly appreciate the people's co-operation in this respect," he said.

FALSE IMPRESSION

Doctor-MP Slaps Medical Groups

By JOHN E. BIRD

OTTAWA (CP)—A doctor-MP said last week medical associations have given the public a false impression that all doctors are opposed to government medical insurance.

Dr. William Howe (NDP—Hamilton South) told the commons the propaganda is so strong that doctors who believe in government medical insurance "are afraid to go against this norm . . . and say what they truly believe."

He admitted that many doctors are opposed to medicare, adding:

"I have seen letters from doctors in Saskatchewan and after reading them I was actually ashamed to admit I was a member of this profession.

" . . . Doctors are represented as being dedicated to the care of others, and yet all their arguments against medicare have to do with their own private feelings."

The 47-year-old general practitioner said no private medical plan in the country, including those run by medical associations, gives adequate care. He called for a full-scale government-sponsored plan covering medical, dental, optical and drug costs.

STUDY ESTIMATES

Dr. Howe was one of three doctor-MPs who spoke as the Commons continued discussion of the spending estimates of the health department.

Dr. P. B. Rynard (PC—Simcoe East) urged that a maximum publicity campaign be undertaken to impress on adults the danger of smoking and to dissuade the young from picking up the habit.

He said "the cigarette plays a very definite part in causing cancer of the lung."

Dr. C. J. M. Willoughby (PC—Kamloops) said doctors accept the principle that health insurance is a good thing for the country and a good thing for the people, "if it is a proper health plan."

He said the only people who should be covered by health insurance are those who cannot afford a private plan or who are eligible for social welfare.

There must be no compulsion on anyone to enter a state medical plan. Those who enter must have a free choice of doctor. Except in the case of doctors working for institutions, members of the medical profession should not be put on a salary basis.

Dr. Howe said associations of the medical profession do not express the feelings of member doctors but rather their own feelings.

"The impression given to the public is that these bodies truly express all the doctors' views and I feel that this is a false impression. It is not my intention to deprecate the medical profession, especially since I am a member myself, but I do feel that the misrepresentation should be known."

Dr. Howe wondered whether it was the doctors' fears of these bodies that prevent Canada from having a properly run, government - sponsored medical health plan.

He accused the Ontario Medical Association of deceptive statements against government medical insurance and said profit-making medical plans actually cover only 12.9 per cent of the average family's health costs.

Private plans also were riddled with escape hatches to prevent companies being saddled with heavy expenses.

OPEN TO PRESS, PUBLIC

Dr. Rynard urged that next week's Ottawa conference on tobacco and cancer be opened to the press and public.

Health Minister LaMarsh said that when the conference was called it was understood delegates would be able to speak freely in private.

Earlier the House debated second reading of amendments to the National Centennial Act. One drops the word "national" and changes the name of the measure to the Canadian Centennial of Confederation Act.

During the debate backbench members urged that Canada adopt a national flag and anthem and raise old age pensions to $100 a month as centennial projects in 1967.

Auguste Choquette (L—Lotbiniere) made the flag-anthem proposal stating it is time for Canada to cut the last vestiges of colonialism and become a truly independent nation. It should not have a "foreign sovereign."

The increase in pensions was proposed by Stanley Knowles (NDP—Winnipeg North Centre). He suggested that the boost be in three stages, with a $5 increase next year and $10 increases in 1965 and 1966. The pension, paid to all Canadians aged 70 and over, recently was increased to $75 a month from $65.

Travel Grant Made By Canada Council

OTTAWA (CP)—An $8,000 grant to the Dominion Drama Festival to assist with traveling expenses has been made by the Canada Council, it was announced Sunday.

The council also is making grants of $6,000 to Vancouver's Playhouse Theatre Company. The grant to the Dominion Festival will be used to help regional winners attend the final festival competition next May. The council said the festival is a stepping stone for many young Canadian actors on their way to professional careers.

The competitions will take place at Charlottetown, to inaugurate the new Fathers of Confederation Memorial Theatre, built to commemorate the 1864 Charlottetown conference leading to Confederation.

The grant to the Vancouver Playhouse Theatre Company will assist its spring season. Shakespeare's Julius Caesar is to be presented for British Columbia high school students.

YOU'RE WELCOME, VANCOUVER

Music Man's on the Hop In Symphonic Shuttle Game

By AUDREY JOHNSON

If Victoria looks to Vancouver musical circles to supply two or three leading players for its symphony orchestra, Vancouver has equalized the status quo this season by borrowing its conductor for Vancouver Orchestra performances from Victoria.

As a consequence Otto-Werner Mueller, conductor for this season for Victoria Symphony Orchestra, has been following a schedule requiring split-second timing, a minimum of sleep and the mental agility of a mountain goat.

REHEARSAL

For example, after conducting the concert at Duncan Friday night, he left on the 7 a.m. ferry from Swartz Bay Saturday morning to rehearse the Canadian Opera Company's "Cosi fan tutte" in Vancouver.

He returned to Victoria for the Sunday afternoon concert at the Royal. This ended at 5:30 p.m. and at 6:30 Mr. Mueller was on a chartered plane heading back for more opera rehearsals.

This afternoon he had returned to Victoria for the final of the three Victoria Symphony programs which feature guitarist Rey de la Torre.

The concert will begin at 8:30 tonight at the Royal Theatre.

BACK AGAIN

Then, back to Vancouver for the "Cosi fan tutte" performances.

Two weeks ago Mr. Mueller was going through the same dizzy procedure as he prepared the Vancouver Orchestra for the first of the concerts sponsored by Vancouver musicians, to replace the cancelled Vancouver Symphony season.

Under the circumstances it shouldn't surprise anyone if a page of Mozart slipped into this evening's concert at some point.

But conductors are made with highly flexible minds, so it almost certainly won't happen.

OPENING HERE DEC. 19

It's 'Go-Go-Go' For Ice Capades

When somebody says "GO" it will be time to go see the Ice Capades.

Opening in Victoria Dec. 19 will be the Ice Capades' 23rd edition called "Go."

May, 1940, the first rehearsal of the Ice Capades was held in Philadelphia. It was a lean year and although debts kept mounting the show plodded on. Within a year the show was out of the red and on its way to success. Today it is one of the most popular shows on the road.

47 WEEKS

Every summer a new show starts off in the south and for the next 47 weeks skates its way across the country.

Although there are a few who have been with the show for 23 years like "The Old Smoothies" there is always a search for new talent.

Auditions are held in every city where the Ice Capades perform. If a skater exhibits exceptional talent he or she is immediately worked into the show, others who are accepted are sent back to Metromedia's training school in Hollywood.

"Two applicants from any one town is considered a good showing," says Jay Edson, publicity manager.

16 TO 21

Those eligible to try out are girls 16 to 21 years of age, 5' to 5'6" tall, and boys 16 to 23, from 5'8" to 6'2".

This year there are three skaters from British Columbia with the show, Barbara Olson, Vancouver; Doug Martin, New Westminster and Lorraine Silverthorn, Nanaimo.

For those who remember "The Old Smoothies," Orrin Markus and Irma Thomas, but missed them in the show last year, it will be good news that they are back again.

BROKE HIP

Mr. Markus broke his hip last year during a rehearsal but now they are back to add more mileage to their 250,000 miles of team dancing on ice.

Highlights of this year's show will be the complete score of Jerome Kern's "Showboat" and West Point(ettes) on parade.

Authentic West Point costumes and drills reproduced by the precision team have been approved by that most famous of all U.S. military academy.

Victor Herbert's "Babes in Toyland," a salute to the one and only Yankee Doodle Dandy, George M. Cohan and Rachmaninoff's Concerto No. 2, are just a few more of the features included in the new 1963-64 show.

Box office opens Dec. 2 for the five shows playing in the Memorial Arena, Dec. 19, 20 and 21.

Ashe Captures Three Firsts Frostbiting

Ned Ashe captured three firsts and a fourth place to establish a wide margin over other Davidson class competitors in frostbite racing Saturday.

The races were held at Cadboro Bay and sponsored by Royal Victoria Yacht Club.

Other Davidson class winners were John Todd and Bill MacIntosh.

Peter Young and Robin Boyd finished in a first-place tie in point standings in the Sabot class.

Lyle Russell was second and Greg Anstey placed third.

The races were the first in a series of pennant races which will determine the over-all champion at the end of the frostbiting season.

SOLUTION WEDNESDAY

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of World Book Encyclopedia to Valerie Tucker, age 14, of Okotoks, Alta., Canada, for her question:

What makes the shock of the electric eel?

This sneaky-snaky fellow can electrocute a horse. Daring scientists have studied his deadly batteries in action and probed the secrets of his shock-making cells. His electric organ is in his long tail, and it seems to work somewhat like a man-made electric battery. The shock occurs when he discharges his battery, and he can do this at will.

Electrical activity goes on in all living tissue. The heart and the brain discharge electrical impulses continuously. The nerves cause the electrical impulses that move the muscles. The so-called electric eel has developed this electrical activity one step further to use as a weapon to deal out stunning shocks to his enemies. He also uses it to find his way through the water and to catch fish for food.

This shocking fellow is not a true eel. He is a fishy cousin of the carp and the catfish. His snaky body may be five feet long, but his heart and other vital organs occupy only the front 12 inches of his length. The rest is tail, and most of the tail is occupied by the electric organs that generate his death-dealing shocks.

The first chemical battery made by man was a stack of metal disks separated from each other by wet rags soaked in lye. In many ways it resembled the tissues in the tail of the electric eel. These tissues are made from special cells called electroplaques, and seven of these cells can generate one volt of electricity.

The electroplaques are actually the ends of numerous motor nerves, similar to those that discharge the impulses which move our muscles. They are stacked in rows like the plates of a chemical battery, and the rows are arranged side by side in layers. The entire electric organ is being recharged constantly, just like a chemical battery.

Can Stun a Man

When the electric eel discharges his battery, he sends shocks through the water. He sends mild impulses to find his way and stronger impulses to stun a fish he wants to eat. When threatened, he discharges a series of shocks powerful enough to stun a man, or electrocute a large animal.

The stunning blow from the electric eel can travel 700 yards through the water. Each shock lasts but a fraction of a second, and he discharges three, four or five of them, one after another. He may then pause before discharging another series. Then his battery will be exhausted, and he must wait until it recharges. At his most dangerous time, he can discharge 800 volts of electricity.

Andy sends a 15-inch World Book globe to Tom Goodhart, age 11, of Indianapolis, Ind., for his question:

Do stars rotate?

All the heavenly bodies measured have been found to rotate on their axes. It seems to be a rule of the universe that the spheres must spin around like dizzy tops. A star, however, is made of restless gases that behave somewhat like fluids, and so it does not rotate altogether in a solid sphere, as the earth does.

Our starry sun turns around fastest at its equator. There it turns completely around once in 24.65 earth days. At latitudes 40 North and South of the solar equator, the rotation period is 27.48 days. Near its poles, the sun turns once around in 34 days.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Lucille Ball, the tycoon, has memos to herself Scotch-taped on the mirrors of her dressing table . . . She has a notebook beside her at the wheel of her car, "and whenever I come to a red light," she says, "I've got three or four notes I write down."

The boss lady of Desilu gets so much done because, as she explains it, "I'm a do-it-nower."

And, Lucille says, "I'm an anticipator." She had come to New York to see various sponsors and press people. "I anticipated that I would be asked certain questions." She handed me about four typed pages. "Here are the answers to the questions I anticipated I would be asked."

We were playing the 20 Questions Celebrity Quiz in her hotel suite and she was being asked how a big female executive handles it all.

Q.—Wouldn't you save time having a driver? Then you could make notes all the time.

A.—At this point I don't like to be driven. I relax when I'm driving, and I think, and I'm a good driver.

Q.—Doesn't autographing take up a lot of time?

A.—You finally learn you can't go out alone in this town—without somebody as a buffer. Not that autographing takes up that much time . . .

Did her husband, Gary Morton, practice this time-saving, too?

HE'S READY

"No. I wouldn't want him to. Oh, I notice when we're going some place, he's packed ahead, with the right things. I used to call Desi the manana boy. People who can't plan drive me nuts. But listen, I know a lot of people who are sloppy and slovenly and they condescend to show up at work once in a while, and they're successful, too!"

The phone rang as we talked. Lucille took it. I heard her say, "Miss Ball is in conference."

"I do not do certain things that I don't have to do," Lucille said. "I learned how to sit down and relax and rest—I had to when I got sick while I was in 'Wildcat.'"

Q.: I always thought your illness was really an excuse because you didn't like the show.

A.: Listen, I backed that show for half a million dollars! I was very sick. I couldn't lift either of my arms for two years. On stage Keith was lifting my arms in the dance number. I'd hurt my leg in a Bob Hope show. For one year I sat back. I wasn't even allowed to read. You learn when you're busy, busy, busy, that certain things are allocated to other departments and you don't take on a whole passel of things that are not your problems.

WEEKEND WINDUP . . .

Top offer—so far for Jackie Gleason's plush round house is $100,000; one would-be buyer wanted to set it up elsewhere, as a restaurant, learned the moving job would cost 100Gs . . . Cary Grant, always well-dressed, takes a shower in "Charade" — wearing a $300 suit . . . George Jessel will head an old-time vaudeville show at Harrah's in Lake Tahoe. . . .

Eve Arden said at O. Henry's she'll make a TV series in London . . . Producer Max Gordon's book, "Max Gordon Presents," mentions the time his mother thought he must be dishonest—because he had three plays on B'way at once . . . Hank Williams Jr., 14, son of the late folk singer, will sign an MGM recording contract.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: A visiting film actor asked Jackie Kannon, "What do you buy a wife for a second anniversary? It's the first time I've been married this long."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: A fellow noted that his wife finally finished knitting socks for him: "They're fine, but a little snug under the arms."

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "Intuition is what enables a woman to put two and two together, and get your number." —Jacob M. Braude.

EARL'S PEARLS: The walls in buildings today are really thin. Robert Q. Lewis decided the radio was too loud, reached over to turn it off—and discovered it was playing in the next apartment.

Joe E. Lewis visited the new Paul Revere Tavern and announced, "I remember Revere's midnight ride—in fact, I bet on it." That's earl, brother.

Regina Caps Nip Olympics

REGINA (CP)—Regina Caps defeated the Canadian Olympic hockey club, 7-6, Saturday night in an exhibition hockey game.

Playing-coach Lorne Davis sparked the Regina attack with two goals. Al Johnson, Bill Johnson, Elliott Chorley and Aggie Kukulowicz, and Danny Banda scored singles.

Defenceman Terry O'Malley got two goals for the Olympics. Other goals were scored by Bobby Forhan, Roger Bourbonnais, Terry Clancy and Brian Conacher.

SCHOOLROOMS OPENING

Shifts Cut 30 Per Cent

Shift classes in Greater Victoria public schools were cut by more than 30 per cent last week when 290 children occupied 10 new classrooms in suburban schools.

Facilities have just been completed at View Royal Elementary, where two classrooms were occupied Friday morning, and at McKenzie Avenue Elementary, where eight rooms opened today.

The additions are among the last five projects of the current expansion program, leaving about 560 pupils still on shifts.

View Royal children were barely settled in their new quarters when school children all over the province were sent home in mourning for President Kennedy.

BACK TO NORMAL

The addition at View Royal returns 150 children to normal schooling for the first time since school opened in September.

Contractor George H. Wheaton built the addition in three months.

Total of 140 pupils have been on shift at McKenzie, many of them accommodated in a three-room annex built from Second World War army huts.

The new wing there was started by contractor E. J. Hunter & Sons in late June

OPEN TO PARENTS

Parents may have the opportunity to see the new accommodation at a Parent-Teacher Association meeting at the school Dec. 17.

Next schools due to have additions opened are Cloverdale and Monterey Elementary, each with four classrooms scheduled for completion around Christmas.

Craigflower Elementary, with six new rooms, will be finished later in the school term.

All told, there are about 560 pupils still attending shift classes.

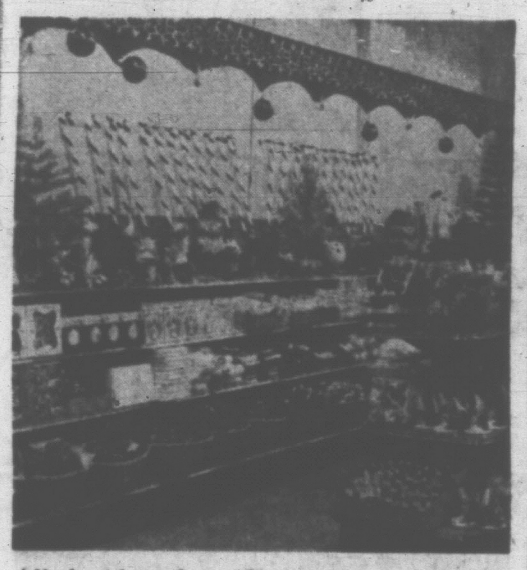

Agree on Government

ROME (UPI) — Premier-designate Aldo Moro announced Saturday he has reached agreement with the socialists to form a new centre-left government. Despite the optimism expressed by Moro in his brief announcement, there still were fears such a government would be torpedoed before it ever got off the ground.

30 Feared Drowned

OPORTO, Portugal (AP) — A Portugese trawler sank in heavy seas off the north coast of Portugal Sunday night. Authorities said at least 30 fishermen were missing. The 50-foot trawler Praia Da Atalaia went down while on a fishing expedition. A coast guard official said one man survived. He was washed ashore clutching a lifebelt.

Suspected Assassin Slain at Jail

Millions See Shooting Of Oswald

DALLAS (AP)—Lee Harvey Oswald met a merciless death amid a crowd Sunday just as President John F. Kennedy did 48 hours earlier. The accused presidential assassin was shot and killed during a jail transfer. Millions saw the shooting on nation-wide television.

Jack Rubinstein, alias Ruby, 52, bachelor owner of a downtown Dallas striptease club, brooding since Kennedy's untimely death, stepped wordlessly forward from the ranks of onlookers outside city hall to send a single pistol bullet into Oswald's abdomen.

The 24-year-old, cold-eyed Oswald dropped unconscious at Ruby's feet, within a cordon of escorting policemen.

That was at 11:20 a.m. while Oswald was being taken from city hall detention quarters to a permanent maximum security cell in Dallas County jail, there to await trial for Kennedy's assassination.

Ruby was quickly arrested and held for a murder hearing today in the same detention area vacated moments before by his victim.

Today, two detectives rushed Ruby from city jail to the county court house.

He pressed down on the car seat so passersby would not see him.

Oswald died at 1:07 p.m. in the same hospital where President Kennedy died Friday, with two of the same doctors working over him who labored with two o fthe same doctors workng over him who labored vainly to save the president's life. Ruby was charged with murder in Oswald's slaying.

A crowd of about 200 cheered the shot that cut down Oswald.

"Somebody got Oswald — hooray," one person shouted.

A crowd of reporters and television cameramen, advised beforehand of the transfer, was on hand.

Hospital Attendants Warned

Hospital Administrator C. J. Price said attendants on duty at the hospital had been warned of the possibility of an attempt on Oswald's life. Thus they were at hand when word of the shooting came from city hall.

Harvey Oswald may have left behind in death his successful blueprint for the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

Oswald died without revealing why he killed the president. In fact he denied shooting anyone.

District Attorney Henry Wade confirmed today that a Dallas city map with X-marks and a line drawn on it which corresponds to the path of the bullet that killed President Kennedy was found in Oswald's room.

Wade said the map has X's at various downtown intersections. At the intersection of Houston and Elm Streets a line traces the trajectory similar to that of the gunfire which took the president's life.

Wade said he would present his case against Ruby to the grand jury "within the next week."

Meantime officers are guarding Ruby around the clock, taking extraordinary precautions. Police Sgt. M. O. Rogers said they have taken away his belt and shoes.

Ruby's attorney said today he will plead temporary insanity.

"I think he was probably temporarily out of his mind," said attorney Tom Howard.

President Johnson has ordered the FBI to make a full investigation into the shooting of Oswald.

Officials are known to believe that information about Oswald's role in the assassination is vital—not only in providing Americans with knowledge about their president's death but in dealing with possible friction in U.S.-Soviet relations.

Intersections Marked on Map

Police officers theorized, The News says, that Oswald marked the other intersections while considering spots from which a sniper could get a good shot at the Kennedy motorcade. He knew it would move slower than usual at these intersections.

From Mexico City came the report that Oswald visited the Cuban and Soviet consuls there Sept. 26 and 28 respectively and tried to get a visa.

The newspaper Escelsior attributes its report to a high official source which it did not name.

The newspaper says bitter arguments ensued over the time required by the consuls to investigate his requests and Oswald apparently let the matter drop.

Police said Ruby told them he wanted to spare Mrs. Kennedy the trial of her late husband's accused killer.

"I didn't want to be a hero—I did it for Jacqueline Kennedy," Ruby said.

The shooting occurred when the handcuffed Oswald was walking between police officers from the city jail to an armored truck.

Ruby dashed forward and fired the shot at a range of only

A dignified, emotion-packed funeral in Washington today and a sordid shooting in Dallas, Tex., Sunday have climaxed the stunning events of the last four days.

Both were historic, to be remembered as long as man exists.

Some have professed to see in these events, caught in the two dramatic photos on this page, a symbolic commentary on the contradictions in U.S. society.

In the depth of their grief for the slain President, Americans revealed the warmth and tenderness of their nature; at Dallas the grisly events of Friday and Sunday showed the persistent undercurrents of violence and cruelty.

Above, Mrs. Kennedy marches in the funeral porcession flanked by the late president's brothers, Robert and Edward.

Below is the dramatic shooting, witnessed by millions on TV, of the president's accused assassin by Dallas night club owner Jack Ruby.

Leaders Attend Solemn Rite

Times News Service

WASHINGTON — Amid pangs of sorrow and with solemn rites, John Fitzgerald Kennedy went to rest today on a grassy hillside in a cemetery reserved for U.S. heroes.

There was a twenty-one gun salute in Arlington National Cemetery for the young leader who fell under an assassin's bullets on Friday.

Following the assassinated president closely every inch of his travel to the grave was his young wife, Jacqueline, bravely bearing up.

Her face partly obscured in a long veil, she went part of the way on foot—from the White House to St. Matthew's Cathedral for the requiem mass.

So also did one of the greatest arrays of foreign statesmen ever assembled — they came from 53 nations and included 26 heads of state or government.

Bells tolled as the slain president's sorrowing wife set out on foot heading the procession of world leaders on an eight-block march to St. Matthew's Roman Catholic Cathedral for a funeral mass.

Attorney-General Robert F. Kennedy held Mrs. Kennedy's hand as they walked out the northwest gate of the White House.

President Johnson and Mrs. Johnson walked behind a line of members of the immediate family, who followed Mrs. Kennedy.

French President de Gaulle was close behind, leading the foreign leaders.

They included Prince Philip, British Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home, West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard and Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson of Canada.

Chief Justice Earl Warren and former presidents Dwight Eisenhower and Harry S. Trueman were among leading Americans in the procession. Mrs. Kennedy and the two Kennedy brothers, walking behind the caisson, were separated from it only by the sailor carrying the presidential flag and the riderless horse that symbolizes the fallen warrior in a military funeral.

The procession from the White House began at 11:10 a.m.

Brief Halt at the White House

The cortege had moved from the Capitol, where Kennedy's body lay in state during the weekend, to the White House. Mrs. Kennedy and members of the family had ridden in limousines on this trip.

After a brief halt at the White House, the cortege moved on to the cathedral with the mourners walking.

Thousands lined the streets through all areas. For the most part it was a silent crowd, a crowd of bowed heads and tears. But at one point, a woman broke into a high-pitched wail: "President Kennedy is gone. Oh Lord, Lord."

When Mrs. Kennedy stepped out of the limousine at the White House, she stood still for a moment, listening to a hymn sung by the Naval Academy Choir.

Then she turned and set out at the head of the procession of walking mourners.

Mrs. Kennedy stood straight between Robert and Edward Kennedy. Her face, beneath

MESSAGE TO K

Johnson To Pursue JFK Goals

LONDON (Reuters) — President Lyndon Johnson, in a message to Soviet Premier Khrushchev, has said that he intends to continue to strive toward improving relations with all countries, including the Soviet Union, Moscow radio reported today.

The message, dated Sunday, said:

"On behalf of the American people I should like to thank you for the condolences you have expresed on the tragic death of President Kennedy.

"All President Kennedy's efforts were devoted to the cause of peace and the peaceful settlement of international problems and to improving relations between all countries, including the Soviet Union and the United States.

"I intend to continue to strive toward the achievement of these aims."

Commons Silent

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons paid a one-minute standing tribute today to slain President Kennedy.

The diplomatic, official and public galleries joined in the tribute.

Dignitaries Attend Mass

Christ Church Cathedral today was decked in mourning for a requiem mass for assassinated President John F. Kennedy.

Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes, Mayor R. B. Wilson, Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston, and other dignitaries attended the mass at 12:15 p.m., conducted by Dean Brian Whitlow.

A requiem mass was said at noon today at St. Andrew's Cathedral for the late president, and Msgr. Michael O'Connell said a eulogy afterwards.

ALL CHURCHES

Virtually all churches offered prayers for the late president during regular Sunday services.

Special prayers were offered at St. Andrew's Cathedral at all masses on Sunday.

Rev. Clifford Waite, DFC, guest preacher at St. Aiden's United Church, spoke of the president during his sermon. Special prayers were said, and a memorial silence observed.

At First Baptist Church, Rev. J. A. Watson led the congregation in prayers for the late president.

The Kennedy family was remembered in prayer during Salvation Army services on Sunday.

At Christ Church Cathedral, prayers were offered for President Kennedy, the Kennedy family, and the new president, Lyndon Johnson.

Dean Whitlow delivered a short sermon about the late president.

Bennett Wants Right to Take Direct Taxes

By FRANK RUTTER

Premier W. A. C. Bennett will ask Ottawa Tuesday to return to the provinces the right to take all direct taxes for themselves.

The main result would be: the provinces would get all the income tax imposed on its residents.

Mr. Bennett, in his brief to a federal-provincial conference, says the rights of the provinces under Confederation have become "blotted out."

The brief also calls for rapid reductions of tariffs which the premier claims put B.C. at an economic disadvantage and which make British Columbians pay much higher prices for consumer goods than residents of Eastern provinces.

POSTPONED

The conference was to have been held today, but was postponed until Tuesday because of President Kennedy's funeral.

Federal interference in provincial matters has caused "much of the strain of recent years on national administrations" the premier says.

"It is time that independent decision on all matters other than those of genuine national and international concern be restored to the provincial legislatures," his brief adds.

Although the brief does not spell it out, this is obviously in part a reference to the legal entanglements of the B.C. Electric takeover.

ADVERSE RULING

The Supreme Court ruled that the province had no right to expropriate a company with federal ties.

Although this judgment never went into effect because of a settlement, the B.C. government argues that it should not be necessary to have those ties.

Mr. Bennett suggests the field of direct taxation should be returned to the provinces on a progressive basis, starting with inheritance taxes.

Present federal estate tax laws encourage cheating and infringe upon provincial property and rights, the brief says.

Until the direct tax field is completely returned to the provinces, Mr. Bennett says, the federal government should, however, continue to make contributions toward provincial highway construction and toward health programs.

HEALTH INSURANCE

The brief repeats the stand B.C. took as long ago as 1955 that there should be a national health insurance scheme initiated by Ottawa.

The present agreement on direct taxes allows the federal government to collect income tax and return only a portion to the provinces, amounting, says Mr. Bennett, to less than 20 per cent.

Although Confederation specifically allows the provinces to exclusive control of direct taxes, they surrendered this power during the war.

Instead of returning the tax rights, the federal government has handed out "equalization" payments and conditional grants. Mr. Bennett refers to them as "subsidies."

FALSE PRINCIPLE

He says that it is a false principle for one government to impose a tax and another to spend the revenue.

The equalization payments are based upon the amount of income tax revenue per capita in each province.

B.C., with a high per capita income, gets no equalization.

This system, the premier says, is wrong and unfair.

It creates the illusion that only one or two provinces are solvent, while the rest are "have-nots."

The payments made by Ottawa total $106,000,000, of which two-thirds goes to Quebec, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

If this system is continued, Mr. Bennett warns, "it will pose a serious threat to the spirit of Confederation."

BETTER TRADE DEAL

B.C. also wants a better deal on trade, Mr. Bennett says.

Present national tariff policies protect Quebec and Ontario, and leave British Columbians paying higher prices for consumer and production goods.

The amount of the difference, the premier says, was $100,000,000 on $600,000,000 worth of goods which B.C. had to buy in 1962.

In addition, B.C. could only sell $130,000,000 worth of its goods to Ontario and Quebec to offset the $600,000,000—a ratio of five-to-one unfavorable to B.C.

This just doesn't make sense, he adds, when B.C. exports more than its proportional share of goods to foreign markets. In fact, Mr. Bennett maintains, B.C.'s heavy export trade saved Canada from a very substantial trade deficit in 1962.

He urges Ottawa to reduce "as rapidly as possible" its national tariffs, quotas and dumping duties.

Tug of War Looming Between East, West

OTTAWA (CP) — Provincial premiers began gathering in Ottawa over the weekend for the federal provincial conference starting Tuesday and early indications were for a tug of war between East and West.

Premier Smallwood of Newfoundland said he does not want to see the federal government lose hold of the national purse strings. Premier Bennett of British Columbia made public a brief urging the central government to pull out completely from the field of direct taxation. Mr. Bennett also wanted abandonment of equalization payments — a succession strongly opposed in the Atlantic provinces.

Mr. Smallwood, Mr. Bennett, Premier Shaw of Prince Edward Island, Premier Manning of Alberta and Premier Lloyd of Saskatchewan were in Ottawa Sunday night despite last-minute postponement of the fiscal conference to Tuesday from today allowing Prime Minister Pearson to attend the funeral in Washington of the late President Kennedy.

SIMILAR VIEWS

Premier Shaw and Attorney-General Richard Donahoe of Nova Scotia expressed views similar to those of Mr. Smallwood.

"When we joined Confederation it was with the idea that all would be given an equal opportunity so far as possible," said Mr. Shaw. "I don't think that principle should be forgotten now."

Mr. Bennett's brief, to be presented at the opening session of the week-long conference, said equalization payments didn't contribute to national harmony.

"The grants are undue subsidies to certain provinces at the expense of others. . . . Equalization in its present form is basically wrong and unfair," he said.

REDUCE TARIFFS

Another British Columbia suggestion aimed directly at Ontario and Quebec was for reductions in tariffs, quota restrictions and dumping duties designed to protect the big manufacturing provinces.

Mr. Lloyd said his provincial submission also dwelt on the question of tax sharing with the federal government but he would not elaborate on what changes he would like to see.

One point that would emerge in his presentation was the question of education of Indian children. Control over such education should be placed in provincial hands with the federal government paying the bills, he said. This would overcome the problem in northern Saskatchewan of having separate arrangements for Indian and Metis children. At present, the Metis—of mixed white and Indian parentage—were a provincial responsibility and the Indians a federal one, he said.

WALKER-GW EARNINGS SET ALL-TIME HIGH

Hiram Walker-Gooderham & Worts Ltd. has reported all-time high consolidated net earnings of $29,643,656, or $3.45 a share, on record sales of $478,788,327 for the year ended Aug. 31.

Earnings of the preceding year were $27,705,832, or $3.22 a share, on sales of $469,287,365.

President Burdette Ford said in his report that industry sales in the U.S. market continued to expand with Canadian and Scotch continuing to enlarge their shares of the whiskey market.

Consumption of distilled beverages aso continued to expand in Canada and the company's brands maintained their positions.

The report shows that while earnings accounted for a little over six per cent of the sales dollar, excise taxes and import duties took almost 60 per cent.

SEPARATISM — SECOND OF A SERIES

Guarding a Treasure

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

QUEBEC CITY — If, as our politicians promise, Canada's constitution is to be overhauled for Quebec's benefit, we had better understand at the beginning what we are about.

Hutchison

This reporter has recently explored, in a rough but intimate fashion, the whole spectrum of French Canada's constitutional aspirations, from the extreme, sansculottic wing of total separatism to the moderates who would leave the British North America Act unchanged.

All the neat and generally unworkable devices of law now debated in Quebec are merely the outward symptoms of something much more important—the true meaning of the "quiet revolution."

That meaning, though it is obscured by the slogans and often distorted by the manoeuvres of politics, can be stated quite simply:

A great, proud and indestructible race, which numbered some 60,000 at the time of the so called Conquest and now forms a third of modern Canada, is struggling to preserve something infinitely precious but indefinable in words.

The elusive something is not only the French language, certainly not the demand for more political patronage. It is not only the Church, whose decline in power has been, indeed, a major cause of a revolution secular in purpose and not without its tinge of anti-clericalism.

No, the inner imperative, usually called Quebec's separate way of life, is larger and deeper than any outward symbol or any political theory and it defies any definition understandable to the Anglo-Saxon mind.

Yet we Anglo-Saxons should be the first to realize that nothing of ultimate importance to any people is ever truly defined. All our own history, and the instincts that made it, though clear and compelling to us, have never been put into words.

Valued Treasure

Suffice it to say, in English, that Quebec has a treasure of highest value to preserve, asks us to recognize it as valuable and seeks the means of preservation.

Accepting these claims (as the writer does), we shall not begin to comprehend the nation's crisis until we realize that the French-Canadian mind is torn today between a new confidence and an ancient dread.

Quebec's resolve to remain Quebec, a racial island in the rising sea of North American conformity, is tortured by the unspoken fear that this sacred dream has been doomed by the nature of the contemporary world. A negative anxiety, far more than any positive policy, animates the revolution, convulses politics and confuses the rest of Canada.

As always, in times of hope and peril, the French mind, with its fatal logic, turns instinctively to the mere mechanics of the constitution, assuming that everything can be settled by lawyer's magic.

So it turned in the revolution of France when, after years of furious wrangle, the constitution, as Carlyle said, would not march. It does not march today without an elected dictator.

Quebec's almost pathetic faith in constitutional amendment as a sovereign remedy is natural to a minority in any nation. Among French Canadians it comes with peculiar force from the long roots, the subliminal impulses of the Gallic spirit, even after two centuries of separation from the motherland.

Hence Quebec's debate, mysterious to the pragmatic Anglo-Saxon and, for the most part, irrelevant to practical affairs.

Starting with the separatist extreme, I sought out a representative figure who could speak with undoubted authority.

Wide Experience

He was not one of those primitive prophets who appear daily in the headlines but possess little influence. He was not the sort of man that one would expect to find in the extremist camp.

On the contrary, he was a man of superlative education, of wide experience throughout Canada and in foreign countries. As in the case of most Quebec intellectuals, his perfect English speech, his refinement of mind and manner, must make most English-speaking Canadians feel rather like savages.

This outright separatist, having sacrificed his own professional career for an ideal, took it for granted that the Canadian Confederation was finished and would not last until its centennial of 1967.

Already, he said, the rest of the nation had sold itself to the United States, a great power without a culture. Quebec alone remained spiritually intact.

Therefore, if it was to survive as an entitity, free of contamination, it must be politically and economically separate—not because it was unfriendly to other Canadians but because it had its special mission, its duty to itself and mankind.

Yes, the new nation of Quebec, about to declare its independence, would face difficulties. Its entire economy would have to be transformed and oriented largely out of North America toward France and western Europe, which would supply its necessary capital and help to nourish its culture. But all these problems could be solved by independence, not otherwise.

Since independence had been assured by the automatic forces of history, it was useless to talk about revising the Canadian constitution, now dead but not quite buried.

The middle position in the grand assize was explained by another intellectual, equally educated but more confused.

He rejected separatism because, he said, it would destroy the very thing that Quebec was trying to preserve. The economy of a French Canadian nation would be so disrupted, when it could no longer sell its goods adequately in English-speaking Canada or secure its capital in the United States, that inevitably the democratic process would collapse under the strains of increasing poverty.

Dictatorship

A brutal, right-wing dictatorship of some kind would then emerge to grapple with these insoluble problems.

The revolution of liberal reform would die in birth. Quebec would become a dark and ugly pocket of reaction where a few rich men fattened on the poor.

Finally, in its desperation, Quebec would join the United States and that would be the end of the French Canadian dream.

To save it, this man and many others are building constitutional air castles of varied design.

The most popular—as openly advocated by Mr. Daniel Johnson, leader of the Union Nationale and a person of irresistible charm—is a constitution giving Quebec a veto on national policy.

It would be provided by an upper house of Parliament, replacing the Senate and equally representing (regardless of population) the French Canadians and the rest of the nation.

The House of Commons, elected according to population, would supervise the nation's routine housekeeping but any vital decisions, touching both races, or such issues as foreign policy, would be settled in the bi-racial chamber. Then two nations within a single state would live happily ever afterwards.

That such arrangements would usher Canada straight back to the old days of deadlock and paralysis, as resolved by Confederation, apparently does not occur to the builders of imaginary constitutions.

The third witness in my little survey was a man of extraordinary learning, reputed to be the ablest constitutional scholar in Quebec.

'Sheer Moonshine'

He dismissed all the notions of the extreme wing and the centre as sheer moonshine. A separate Quebec, he said, could not survive for a decade and, after a spasm of fascist-type rule, would precede the rest of Canada into the United States.

That, in a general way, is the view of the Pearson government and its ministers from Quebec. It is also, I suspect, the private nightmare of the Quebec government.

All French Canada's talent and energy, the constitutional scholar said, would be needed to conduct the revolution already under way, to educate the people, to provide business management, to complete a huge program of social reform.

The existing constitution — one of the oldest and most successful in the world — gave Quebec all the freedom of action required for these purposes. Why waste time and compound the present confusion by worthless legal hair-splitting? Quebec must get on with its day-to-day business, and so it would after a brief, cyclical flurry of separatist agitation.

There, in the rough, is the spectrum of the grand assize revealing at once that Quebec is not unified in its political opinions but fractured on everything except the will to survive.

As I shall try to argue later, none of the current constitutional phantasies can work if the nation is to survive. Given that premise, what are the actual intentions of the Quebec government and of a federal government which promises to revise the constitution? No one knows.

A bipartisan committee of the provincial legislature, established to consider constitutional reform, is the surest proof that no one knows, in the Quebec government anyway. If it had any definite plans it would not need a committee to advise it. Ottawa for its part is equivocating and buying time.

No Agreement

Meanwhile the committee has talked much and agreed, so far, on nothing. In terms of practical Canadian politics it is playing with shadows but the shadows can deepen and become dangerous.

For in terms of practical Quebec politics Premier Lesage is constantly driven toward extreme positions, in words at least, by the competition of Mr. Johnson who, himself a moderate, reasonable man, is driven by his competition for votes.

Gresham's law of politics debases the coinage of thought and imperils both Quebec and the nation.

There is more to it than that. The future of events depends primarily on the secretive, troubled and flexible mind of Mr. Lesage, who will be discussed in a final report.

NDP Endorsed

MONTREAL (CP) — The 320,000-member Quebec Federation of Labor CLC endorsed the federal New Democratic Party at the close of its three-day meeting Saturday but reserved judgment on the newly-formed Quebec Socialist party and the Quebec wing of the NDP.

TRIBUTE TO SLAIN PRESIDENT

Commerce at Standstill

NEW YORK (AP) — Commerce slowed to a standstill today as the United States paid homage to the slain President Kennedy.

The New York and American stock exchanges, regional stock exchanges and major commodity exchanges closed for the day. Most banks across the country also were closed.

Many stores and plants closed for periods ranging from a few moments to the entire day. The Pennsylvania Railroad, Baltimore & Ohio and New York Central trains scheduled halts of one minute as tribute.

The United Mine Workers and the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union said their members would not work today.

Major retail stores in New York closed their doors. Most Broadway stage presentations also were cancelled for the day.

TORONTO (CP)—The Toronto Stock Exchange announced today that it will be open for business as usual on Tuesday.

Trading was suspended at 2:23 p.m. Friday following news of President Kennedy's assassination and remained closed today.

It was the first time in the history of the exchange that it has been closed as a result of any international crisis.

Other Canadian exchanges also were closed today.

FRANKFURT, West Germany (AP) — West German stock prices declined slowly today on a market marked by caution and limited trading. It was the first session following the death of President Kennedy.

Prices were 10 or more points lower at the opening, generally the equivalent of a two to three-per-cent drop from Friday's closing prices. Some leading issues staged a modest rally but then sank again.

There was no trading in American securities. Banks, which act as brokers here, reported only slight offerings on the market and claimed there was no evidence of panic selling.

ZURICH (AP)—Swiss stock markets showed no noticeable reaction to the assassination of President Kennedy today when trading resumed after the weekend. Swiss shares fluctuated unevenly. There was no trading in American securities.

PARIS (AP) — The Paris stock market, which has been in the doldrums since mid-September, was listless today at the opening.

Most quotations were about the same as last Friday, when downward pressure was noted. There were a few gains, especially among Sahara oil issues. Trading was light.

Diamonds Seized

TORONTO (UPI) — RCMP seized $20,000 worth of loose diamonds from a man at Toronto International Airport Sunday as he was about to board a flight for Mexico City. Joseph Eder, 50, of Mexico City, was charged with smuggling and was lodged in jail at Brampton, Ont.

. . . KENNEDY GIVEN HERO'S BURIAL

its shear black veil, was composed.

The Kennedy children — John, who was three today, and Caroline, who will be six on Wednesday—were taken to the cathedral in a limousine.

The world's notables, here to pay homage to the assassinated president, were an imposing sight as they walked in the bright sun of a clear autumn day.

Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia glittered with ribbons and decorations. France's Charles de Gaulle in his olive drab uniform, towered over the man with whom he walked. He stared ahead, his lined face expressionless. The international figures made no attempt to march, just strode as purposefully as the slow pace would allow behind the cortege of their dead colleague.

Surrounded by Security Men

They were surrounded by security men.

Rank on rank the military came, representing all the services.

Church bells pealed in the distance and the crowd watched in utter silence.

At 11:55 a.m. the caisson bearing the flag-draped coffin arrived in front of the cathedral and halted.

Mrs. Kennedy, after a pause, took daughter Caroline and son John by their hands and led them to the steps. The children were both dressed in blue.

Richard Cardinal Cushing of Boston, in a tall white mitre and purple and black robes, came down the steps followed by other churchmen to greet the Kennedy family.

The family filed between the wide doors of the church followed by the foreign dignitaries.

There was Prince Philip of Britain, Queen Frederika of Greece, and the many others who had come from thousands of miles.

The church was already crowded when the procession entered and a choir sang as Mrs. Kennedy and the two Kennedy brothers sat in a front pew. Her children were with her.

Caroline rocked back and forth gently as the choir stopped singing and silence fell over the church. Then an organ began playing.

Because of the cathedral's limited accommodations, admission to the service was only by special card. Except for those who walked behind the caisson, the invited were in their places when the procession arrived.

Just before the coffin was carried into the cathedral, Cardinal Cushing sprinkled holy water on it.

Then the cardinal turned and walked into the cathedral, followed by the guard of honor carrying the coffin with the body of the president.

Procession Led By Three Priests

The procession down the aisle of the cathedral was led by three priests, one carrying a cross, the other two flanking him with candles.

The cardinal ascended to the altar to recite the first hymn of the mass, pleading for eternal rest for the dead and reminding men that all that is flesh and blood "must come before the throne of God."

While Cardinal Cushing read the scriptures, soloist Juigi Vena of Boston sang Ava Maria at the request of Mrs. Kennedy. Vena had sung it at the Kennedy's wedding.

At this point, Cardinal Cushing, again while the soloist sang in the background, prepared to read the most important reading of the mass: The proclamation of the holy gospel.

First Cardinal Cushing prayed that he was worthy of the task and then he read from the Gospel of St. John, when Jesus said to Martha:

"I am the resurrection and life; he who believes in Me, though he is dead, will live on. And whoever has life, and has faith in Me, to all eternity cannot die."

After the celebration of the mass, Most Rev. Philip M. Hannan, auxiliary bishop of the Washington archdiocese, took the pulpit for what in a broad sense was a eulogy although it had been announced there would be none.

Hannan spoke of Kennedy's ideals and aspirations, and read the late president's inaugural address.

Hannan also recalled some of Kennedy's favorite biblical quotations.

After Hannan finished reading the inaugural address, Cardinal Cushing recited the final prayers and blessed the body.

As the cardinal blessed the body with holy water and incense, he recited the Lord's Prayer.

Band Played 'Hail to Chief'

The services ended about 1:15 p.m. and the choir sang May the Angels Lead You into Paradise as Cardinal Cushing led the procession from the church.

The three-man military guard carrying a United States flag met the procession at the front steps.

The marine band began playing Hail to the Chief.

After the cardinal and the priests, came the military guard of honor, nine servicemen carrying the coffin.

The cardinal and the priests stepped aside at the foot of the steps, so the guard of honor could bring the coffin down in full view of the thousands lining the streets outside.

Then came the sailor carrying the presidential flag.

Behind them were Mrs. Kennedy and the two children. Little John Jr., was looking to the side and behind him, seemingly a little bewildered.

Mrs. Kennedy leaned over and whispered to John. The little boy, who was clutching a book in his right hand, handed her the book. He raised his hand and saluted his father's body as it was placed on the caisson for the journey to Arlington National Cemetery.

Mrs. Kennedy entered a limousine. Attorney-General Kennedy joined her.

The many dignitaries got into other automobiles, and the procession to the cemetery began.

The church bell began to toll and the muffled drums beat the cadence.

The thousands who surrounded the cathedral were silent — not even murmurs could be heard.

Hours before the procession began from the Capitol to the White House and St. Matthew's Roman Catholic Cathedral for funeral rites, there was a mass of humanity packed about the Capitol grounds and along the streets.

Some had been there all night. Other thousands came in the early dawn — families huddled with children and blankets.

Through the night, other thousands had walked through the Capitol to see the flag-draped coffin and pay last respects to the fallen president. Police estimated the total at around 240,000.

At least 2,000 were waiting in line, hoping to get in, when the doors were closed to the public at 8:30 a.m.

At times, the line extended nine miles, involving a seven-hour wait.

Bright Sunlight Pierced Windows

As the hour approached for the president's body to leave the Capitol, the rotunda filled with members of Congress, senators, governors of states, and other officials. A few congressmen approached the coffin briefly.

Bright sunlight pierced the windows high up on the dome and cast splashes of light on the north wall. It was a beautiful fall day, sharp and clear.

Mrs. Kennedy, came out of the White House at 10:25 a.m. and entered a limousine for the drive to the Capitol.

The fleet of limousines proceeded slowly up Pennsylvania Avenue to the Capitol between ranks of military guards.

The crowds lining both sides of the street were silent.

The White House party turned into Independence Avenue into the Capitol plaza, stopping at the centre of the Capitol grounds.

Inside, 10 military pallbearers had taken positions around the coffin, and a flag-bearer and guard of honor were stationed just inside the east entrance. In the small lobby outside the rotunda a group of clergymen stood in clerical garb.

Mrs. Kennedy stepped out of her car and walked up the steps of the Capitol. The attorney-general was on one side and Senator Kennedy on the other.

They walked to where the late president's body lay and knelt by the coffin.

There was silence in the rotunda as they rose and slowly backed away, then turned, with Robert Kennedy holding Mrs. Kennedy's hand.

They took a last lingering look before turning away.

The president's flag-draped coffin was slipped slowly from the catafalque.

The guard of honor carried the casket from its resting place with a sailor, bearing the president's flag, walking behind. Guards outside the door saluted as the coffin was borne out the door and down the steps. An officer called "atten," a salute was fired and a band broke into Hail to the Chief.

A U.S. Coast Guard Academy band gave the four ruffles of muffled drums and the other musical tributes.

Outside, the same six white horses were harnessed to the same black caisson that brought the coffin to the Capitol Sunday.

And again the riderless horse, the ancient military symbol of a fallen warrior, was behind the caisson.

Six limousines carrying the immediate family followed the caisson.

The marine band came next, followed by units of the military services.

Contingents from the Military Academ yat West Point, the Naval Academy at Annapolis and the Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs also were in the line of march.

Crowds flowed along the sidewalks, keeping pacew ith the slow-moving procession. Some women wore black veils.

Many of the thousands who lined the route bowed their heads as the caisson passed. Some appeared to be in tears.

The band broke into Onward, Christian Soldiers.

At the White House, while awaiting the arrival of the cortege, the Naval Academy choir sang hymns in front of the north portico.

At St. Matthews cathedral, some eight blocks away, people already were arriving for the service.

Many of the men wore tall silk hats and formal clothes. The block in front of the cathedral was cleared of spectators but thousands pressed against restraining lines in nearby streets.

As part of the security precautions, policemen were posted atop buildings across the street from the cathedral. Many of the black limousines bringing invited guests bore national colors. They stopped at the cathedral steps and unloaded ambassadors and other diplomats.

The army band, its drums draped in black, formed on the sidewalk beside the cathedral.

Among the early arrivals at St. Matthew's were Mr. and Mrs. John Glenn.

There was a momentary stir when a window in a building next to the cathedral shattered, aparently accidentally, and showered down on olice and troops.

As the cortege moved along from the Capitol, the white horses pulling the caisson plodded along quietly but the traditional riderless horse was fractious, keeping his handler busy.

As the cortege approached the White House, the band played a dirge.

The slow clopping of the horses pulling the caisson could be heard over the soft music.

The sun cast a large shadow of the presidential flag, carried by a sailor immediately behind the caisson.

As the procession approached, many of the thousands gathered in Lafayette Square bowed their heads and turned toward the sound of the muffled drums.

All of Family Except Father

All of the members of the president's family, except his 75-year-old father, Joseph P. Kennedy, had gathered in Washington for the funeral.

His 73-year-old mother, Rose Kennedy, flew from Hyannis Port, Mass., Sunday night and with other members of the family also went to kneel at the casket in the Capitol rotunda.

Joining Mrs. Kennedy at the White House were the atorney-general, his wife, Ethel, the president's sisters, Eunice Shriver, Patricia Lawford and Jean Smith, with their husbands, the president's youngest brother, Senator Edward M. Kennedy and his wife, Joan.

Also Mrs. Kennedy's younger sister, Lee Radziwill, who flew here from London.

Mrs. Kennedy's mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh D. Achincloss, who live in nearby Georgetown, were to be at the funeral, too.

While the president's funeral was under way here today, a special private mass was scheduled at the Cape Cod home of Kennedy's father, who is still suffering from the effests of a stroke suffered in December, 1961, and could not make the trip here.

Fifty jet fighters followed by the famed "Air Force One" which John Kennedy used on his presidential journeys streaked across the skies over the grave of the dead chief executive at his burial hour today.

The 50-plane jet fly-by symbolized a salute from each of the 50 states. Then "Air Force One," the sleek blue, silver and white presidential plane with only the crew aboard soared over the scene.

This was the plane which carried Kennedy to Texas on his fateful last trip as President.

LINCOLN, KENNEDY, PARALLELS

NEW YORK (AP) — Striking similarities in the presidential lives of John F. Kennedy and Abraham Lincoln:

Lincoln was elected president in 1860 and Kennedy 100 years later in 1960.

Both were credited with fighting for equal rights for Negroes.

Both were assassinated on a Friday: Lincoln on April 15, 1865, at the age of 56; Kennedy on Nov. 22, 1963 at the age of 46.

Both were succeeded by presidents named Johnson — in Lincoln's case it was Andrew Johnson; in Kennedy's, Lyndon B. Johnson.

Russians Link Assassin With U.S. 'Trotskyists'

By PETER JOHNSON

MOSCOW (Reuters) — An article in the Soviet Communist party newspaper Pravda today linked President Kennedy's alleged assassin, Lee Harvey Oswald, to "the American Trotskyists"—bitter political enemies of Russian Communists.

The article, by Pravda's New York correspondent Boris Strelnikov, was the first suggestion here of a link between Oswald and the Trotskyists. It said it appeared Oswald had been reading "Trotskyist" literature.

Strelnikov said it had been stated that political literature was found at Oswald's home.

The correspondent added:

"Judging by the titles of the books and newspapers, many of them are publications of the American Trotskyists."

A NEW ANGLE

Strelnikov's article represented a new Soviet assessment of Oswald, Western observers said.

The new assessment of the murder came in the wake of widespread mourning here at the death of President Kennedy. In an unprecedented display of regret, Soviet officials from Premier Khrushchev downward paid condolences.

While earlier reports omitted details of reported evidence against Oswald, the Pravda article said 'the police maintain that the guilt of Oswald is fully proved."

The article quoted the United States Communist party and leaders of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee as denying Oswald was associated with those organizations.

'WARNS THE PRESIDENT'

Strelnikov said Governor John Connally of Texas, who was wounded when President Kennedy was assassinated, had flown to Washington to try to persuade the president not to visit Texas, saying unpleasant incidents might occur.

The Pravda correspondent also stated that on the day Kennedy arrived in Texas, The Dallas Morning News carried a black mourning band around one page on which was a letter saying: "Welcome to the city which rejected your philosophy and policy in 1960 and which will reject them even more forcefully again."

Pravda reported the arrest of Jack Ruby for Oswald's murder on the front page. It appeared under the headlines: Ultras cover up the traces.

Earlier, the Comunist press suggested Kennedy's assassination was planned in advance by right-wing extremists who later killed his alleged assassin 'to shut his mouth."

Swedish PM Guarded

STOCKHOLM (CP) — Prime Minister Taga Erlander of Sweden has been put under strong police protection since two anonymous telephone callers threatened his life after the assassination of President Kennedy.

Lots of things got started in 1963

The ignitions of brand-new family cars, for instance, and neighbours' lawnmowers. You helped start lots of both this year if you saved money at the Bank of Montreal.

You can chalk up an assist, too, for starting new farm tractors working in the fields and moving earth-shaking construction equipment into new building projects...for arterial highways steadily advancing towards completion...for bridges moving out across rivers...for new business enterprises of all kinds getting under way.

In virtually every community across the nation, important things were moving because your savings dollars made it possible for the Bank of Montreal to make hundreds of thousands of loans for all kinds of worthwhile purposes. At the Bank's year-end, our customers had $3,961,675,039 on deposit.

Loans totaling $2,419,627,136 were reported.

That's why a whole lot of things got started in 1963.

...NO NATION HAS GIVEN SO LONG A ROPE TO THE DISAFFECTED'

By ARTHUR MAYSE

Our friends have laid their great man away, the nut with the mail-order rifle has been murdered by another murderer, and what will next be written for the centuries on this sombre page of American history, the world waits anxiously to learn.

Today the signs are heartening. The urgly episode in the basement of Dallas jail has not yet triggered a pogrom.

It could have, and still may. Certainly it would be politic for the friends of Castro, the friends of Khrushchev, the friends of John Birch to sing small in the United States for a long time to come.

But so far, the assassination of a president has not brewed the climate of violence that might have radiated outward from Dallas jail when one violent man took the law into his own hands.

It is the pride of our neighbors that their country is a melting-pot. That the pot did not boil over in the dangerous hours when the first shock was wearing off, is an everlasting credit to America.

That country has its faults, and we, so close at hand, are well aware of them. But it would seem that intemperance and panic on the heels of calamity are not among them, and for this we can be grateful.

I do not imply that the United States is likely to shrug off the slaying of a president as a mere deplorable accident.

I think in the weeks and months ahead, we will see a drastic tightening of internal security down there, and a re-definition of where democratic dissent ends and subversion begins.

Surely no nation has given so long a rope, such generous leeway to the disaffected. At times it has seemed from our observation post to the north that these gentry have but to scream "Witch-hunt!" or invoke the Fifth Amendment to justify disservice to their country.

The alleged assassin himself, the dullard who defected to Russia, was one of those who leaned heavy on this wide tolerance. He sang his song of woe at an American embassy and was shipped home at America's expense, to plot the death of his president.

In future, it is unlikely that the enemy within will be dealt with so benevolently.

Our friends have buried their good man, and Canada sent her emissaries as was fitting.

I wish, though that we could have done more . . . the one thing else that might have been permitted us as friends.

Even if only for the changing of a guard, I wish Canada could have shared the death-watch at John Kennedy's flag-draped casket.

Police Search for Prowler After $2,500 School Fire

A fire, believed accidentally set by a prowler at Burnside Elementary School early Sunday morning, caused an estimated $2,500 damage to a grade four classroom.

A city police juvenile officer is investigating the burglary and fire, noticed at 11:20 a.m. by a neighboring woman who saw smoke pouring from broken classroom windows.

It was not known how long the fire burned unnoticed, but it could have been a considerable time before heat built up sufficiently to burst window panes.

Masonry construction throughout the building saved it from total destruction, a school board official said.

"If it had been a frame building like today's schools, it would have burned down," said buildings and grounds superintendent Hamilton Smith.

Burnside School was built in 1914, with brick exterior and reinforced concrete between the floors.

The first floor classroom, 15 feet above ground level because of the ground-level basement, was gutted at one end, where fire burned through wooden floor and wood-plaster ceiling, without spreading.

It is believed the prowler, who ransacked teachers' desks throughout the building, dropped a match he used to light his way, which landed in a wastebasket or paper-filled drawer of the grade four teacher's desk.

The desk burned to the floor.

Used matches were found on floors in other parts of the building.

BROKE WINDOW

Entry to the school was via a ladder and window of principal Evan Oakley's office, which was smashed.

Mr. Oakley said it appeared the prowler was looking for Red Cross pennies or other valuables left in the school. Only a stop watch and a few cents were reported gone.

He thought if it had been intended to set a fire deliberately the classroom door would have been left open to fan the flames.

Pupils are having lessons in the auditoruim until repairs are made.

Japanese oranges, which last year went down to $1.98 a box, will probably cost as much as $2.50 this year because of a reduction in the crop.

B.C.'s allotment will be 15 per cent lower than usual because of cold weather which damaged a high percentage of the crop.

At present the Norwegian freighter Lloyd Bakke is unloading the first shipment of 345,000 boxes, and other swift freighters assigned to the lucrative trade are following her.

The total number of boxes destined for B.C. is 2,250,000.

Police Attack 'Flourishing' Bootlegging

10 Charges Laid; Taxi Confiscated

By DESMOND BILL

Police have cracked down on widespread bootlegging operations throughout the city and charged 10 persons with liquor offences.

Three of the accused pleaded guilty in court today and each was fined $300 or three months in jail.

In the case of one of them, Mary French, 326 Simcoe, her taxi also was confiscated.

Chief J. F. Gregory told the Times: "Illegal liquor outlets appear to have been flourishing in the area. Intensive police surveillance will continue until the situation is brought under control."

SINCE NOV. 1

Police investigation of bootlegging has been intensified since Nov. 1 when this form of crime was made the responsibility of the detective department. Previously the uniformed division had responsibility.

Detective Sergeant W. R. Andrews had charge of the investigation. Most of the work of tracking down bootleggers was carried out by newly enlisted policemen who pretended to be customers in search of an after-hours drink.

In addition to Mrs. French, the persons convicted were Ronald Lee, 1750 Burdon, and Howard Hilton, 1206 Wharf.

AT 1206 WHARF

Evidence in Hilton's case was that he sold a plainclothes officer a bottle of rye in the 1206 Club, 1206 Wharf Street, on Nov. 10.

Sidney Travers, accused of having liquor for sale at the club, which he operates, was remanded until Dec. 2 for plea.

CHARGED $8

Evidence showed Lee sold two bottles of rye to a policeman on Nov. 9. He charged $8 for the bottles which retail at government stores for $1.50.

Lee sold the liquor in the 400 block Dallas Nov. 9.

The offence involving Mrs. French occurred early next morning on the west side of Menzies near Dallas.

Constable Garry Galbraith testified he leaned into the accused car, which was used as a taxi, and bought a $2.50 case of beer for $5.

The other six persons in court today were remanded without plea until Dec. 2 and 3. They are:

Polio Clinics Off Until Next Spring

Poor response to a Metropolitan Health Board anti-polio campaign last week means no further public clinics for distribution of Sabin oral vaccine until next spring.

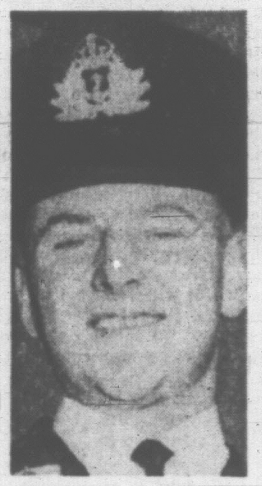

Metro health officer Dr. A. N. Beattie said a total of of 42,000 persons—mostly school children—received Sabin doses at clinics held in Victoria, Saanich, Oak Bay, Esquimalt, Langford, Sidney, Sooke and the Gulf Islands.

The three school districts of the Victoria area have a total enrollment of 28,244, most of whom received the vaccine.

Ground Search Set for Pilots

The navy is organizing a ground search for two Victoria pilots missing in an RCN T33 jet since Saturday.

A navy spokesman said the search party is being organized by Squadron VU33 at Patricia Bay, to which one of the missing men, Lieut. D. S. Clark belongs.

The squadron's search would be independent of the air-sea rescue service operations and still was waiting authority at press time today.

The other officer aboard the two-seater jet was Lieut. N. J. Ogden. Both have families in Victoria.

Ground searchers will be taken, possibly by helicopter, to comb the southeast slope of Mount Elphinstone, a 4,160-foot peak on the west side of Howe Sound.

WEATHER CUTS SEARCH

Bad weather delayed all air search activity this morning.

The navy spokesman said the aircraft could have been over the Sechelt area at the time of last contact. He said the plane left Patricia Bay naval air station at 10 a.m. Saturday to pracice a ground-controlled bad weather landing approach at Sea Island, the RCAF station near Vancouver.

He said it is possible the aircraft had swung northward to make an approach from that direction.

The practise flight entails flying without visual aids at least until the pilot is in sight of the landing strip. Until then he is guided by the voices of ground personnel who watch the flight on radar.

LOST CONTACT

Shortly after 10:22 a.m. voice contact with the plane was lost and the "blip" disappeared from the radar screen.

The search has been centred in the Sechelt area since Saturday night when reports of flares and flashing lights came in from there.

An RCAF Albatross went over the area 30 miles north of Vancouver, but bad weather forced its return.

Four navy mine sweepers combed the area during the night and a marine search resumed today.

The four ships, Fortune, Miramichi, James Bay and Cowichan, were diverted to the search along with four U.S. mine sweepers while the eight vessels were returning Saturday to Vancouver from exercises near Prince Rupert.

The RCN training yacht Oriole assisted along with RCMP and RCAF crash boats from Vancouver.

Sunday, 10 fixed wing aircraft, some of them amphibians, and two helicopters, took part in the search.

The lights had been reported at the 1,500-foot level of the mountain, too low an elevation for aerial search to be wholly effective because of low cloud.

The two missing men live with their families within a block of each other in Oak Bay's Carnarvon Park area. Norman Ogden lives at 1702 Newton and Donald Clark at 1697 Carnegie.

Ogden, 33, has five children. Clark, 29, has two, the youngest being about three months of age.

TOP PILOT

RCN officials said both men had previous experience with ground-controlled flying. Ogden is described as an expert pilot and resident instructor for BC-922 Reserve Air Squadron here, although he is a parmanent force officer.

Clarke, also a permanent officer, was until recently gaining sea experience aboard the frigate HMCS Sussexvale. It is believed the flight was a "brush up" for his benefit.

He is a fully-trained pilot, however, having graduated from flying school in 1955 at Pensacola, Florida. A Burnaby man, he joined the service in 1952.

Thieves Work Hard But Receive Little

Burglars hit 19 times in Greater Victoria during the weekend in what appears to be an almost unprecedented outbreak of break-ins in this area.

Only last week Saanich police reported 11 break-ins within five days and warned that a gang seemed to be operating in the municipality.

The most spectacular burglary was at Burnside Elementary School which could have been burned down. (See picture story this page).

$120 TAKEN

The thieves in the city got little money for their work. But in Oak Bay a prowler in the home of F. D. Rodway, 3392 Henderson, got away with $120 in cash and 25 B.C. Centennial dollars.

Saanich police also reported a break-in at Prospect Lake School, where nothing was taken, and apparent attempts to break into Solid Fuels, Cloverdale Ave., and Trans Canada Service Station. In these latter cases windows were broken but nothing is reported missing.

Most of the city break-ins occurred overnight Saturday. A prowler tried to get into the store of Mrs. F. Leidel, 1387 Hillside, by climbing through an open bathroom window in the living quarters at the back of the store.

DOOR BOLTED

The burglar was foiled getting into the sore because the bathroom door was bolted on the outside.

A transmitter radio and a small amount of loose cash was stolen from Gem Fish and Chips, 975 Kings, by a thief who broke glass in the front door to enter.

The front door of Shearing's Food Market, 810 Catherine, was also forced by the burglar who rifled the cash register of about $3 in small change.

KNEW WHERE

Cash totalling $30 was stolen from Pay and Save gas station, 420 Burnside. The money was hidden in the office but the thief apparently knew where to look for it.

A window was smashed at Doman's Lumber, 208 Bay, the scene of a recent safe-cracking attempt, but nothing is reported missing. C&C Texaco service station, Wharf Street, also had a window broken but police do not think the prowler was able to gain entry.

The burglar who found only $10 in McDonald's Grocery, 675 Burnside, vented his anger by slashing five sacks of flour with a knife. Entry here was made by a back door.

Offices of Mutual Equipment, 2925 Douglas, were ransacked and $20 stolen. A ransacking also occurred at Mais Cafe, 2251 Government, where an undetermined quantity of cigarettes is missing.

They Ate, Drank Heartily

Burglars took a leisurely swing through five Brentwood businesses overnight, eating heartily and drinking deep as the went.

Their take: a kit of drills, about $60 in cash, a case of beer, and supper.

Central Saanich police investigating the break-ins this morning commented on the neat, professional way the job was done.

Tools for the break-ins were taken from the Brentwood Texaco Service, 7226 West Saanich Road, by someone who neatly removed a pane of glass from a side window ot get in, then replaced it.

About $30 was taken from the till, and a case of beer was stolen.

RANSACKED

Next stop for the busy burglars was the office of Drs. J. S. Groves and J. P. Ellis, which was ransacked. Nothing was stolen.

But the burglars then went through a connecting door to the office of the Saanich Peninsula Credit Union.

There, they drank the beer, and tried to punch the lock of the safe, succeeding only in breaking off the dial.

KICKED DOOR IN

Frustrated at the credit union, they abandoned their tools and went next door to Jack's Coffee Shop. They kicked in the door, broke open a cigarette machine and stole $20 from the coin box, and fixed themselves ham sandwiches for supper.

By then the evening was wearing on, so the burglars kicked in the door of the adjoining Brentwood Hardware Store, and stole a set of drills, then fled the area.

"Must have been visitors," said a Central Saanich policeman at the scene.

"Our people would never do a job like that."

It was a repeat visit for the doctors' office.

Burglars broke in there last Wednesday night, and stole a small bottle of morphine.

Prairie Pioneer Dies Here

Eugene R. Johnson, a Saskatchewan pioneer, died early this morning on the eve of his 81st birthday.

He came to Canada from England in 1903 and settled in the Kennel-Ross district of Saskatchewan where he became a charter member of Saskatchewan Wheat Pool and an organizing member of the Kennel-Ross Co-operative Movement.

He was also secretary of the Kelliher Agricultural Society.

After serving in the First World War, he came to Metchosin in 1928.

LEGION SECRETARY

He later became secretary of Branch 91, Royal Canadian Legion, Langford, and secretary of Metchosin Farmers' Institute.

Mr. Johnson was also a member of the Masonic order and Pro Patria branch of the Canadian Legion.

He is survived by the widow, Evelyn, 668 Transit Road, a son, Maurice, and a daughter, Barbara, both of Victoria, and relatives in New Zealand and Great Britain.

Funeral services will be held Thursday at 10:15 a.m. in McCall Bros. Floral Chapel. Cremation will follow.

11th Times Christmas Fund to Pass $100,000 Mark

Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova, director of the Unitarian Service Committee of Canada, will launch the 11th Times-sponsored campaign tonight to raise money to feed refugee children in Korea.

Following a speech at 7:30 tonight in St. Andrew's Church Kirk Hall, Dr. Hitschmanova will present scrolls of honor to the Victoria Daily Times, Dowell's Cartage and Storage Ltd., depot for USC clothing and to Mrs. Mamie Maloney, columnist for the Vancouver Sun, in recognition of their 10 years of service.

During the 10 years in which the Times has sponsored the campaign $90,000 has been raised in Victoria. This year the total should go well over the $100,000 mark.

A Times donation of $100 will start the campaign on its way tonight.

All donations should be sent to the "Korean Kiddies Fund" care of the Times which will publish acknowledgment in daily lists as the campaign grows. Tax deductible receipts will be issued.

Money donated to the USC fund will be used to buy barley for hungry children and provide medical and social assistance for rehabilitation.

Used clothing for Korean children should be sent to Dowell's Cartage and Storage Ltd., 1117 Wharf St.

Since January 11,300 pounds of woolens and layettes have been sent to Korea. It is hoped that by Christmas the total number of pounds of "instant warmths" will reach 20,000.

At the public meeting tonight in the Kirk Hall, 680 Courtney, Dr. Hitschmanova will speak on "The Miracle Tools" and show the Vancouver Island premiere of "The Bridge of Love."

KENNEDY BURIED AS HERO

Assassin's Slayer Charged

DALLAS (AP)—Lee Harvey Oswald met a merciless death amid a crowd Sunday just as President John F. Kennedy did 48 hours earlier. The accused presidential assassin was shot and killed during a jail transfer. Millions saw the shooting on nation-wide television.

Jack Rubinstein, alias Ruby, 52, bachelor owner of a downtown Dallas striptease club, brooding since Kennedy's untimely death, stepped wordlessly forward from the ranks of onlookers outside city hall to send a single pistol bullet into Oswald's abdomen.

The 24-year-old, cold-eyed Oswald dropped unconscious at Ruby's feet, within a cordon of escorting policemen.

That was at 11:20 a.m. while Oswald was being taken from city hall detention quarters to a permanent maximum security cell in Dallas County jail, there to await trial for Kennedy's assassination.

Ruby was quickly arrested and held for a murder hearing today in the same detention area vacated moments before by his victim.

Today, two detectives rushed Ruby from city jail to the county court house.

He pressed down on the car seat so passersby would not see him.

Oswald died at 1:07 p.m. in the same hospital where President Kennedy died Friday, with the same hectic medical activity going on around him, with two of the same doctors working over him who labored vainly to save the president's life. Ruby was charged with murder in Oswald's slaying.

A crowd of about 200 cheered the shot that cut down Oswald.

"Somebody got Oswald — hooray," one person shouted.

A crowd of reporters and television cameramen, advised beforehand of the transfer, was on hand.

Hospital Attendants Warned

Hospital Administrator C. J. Price said attendants on duty at the hospital had been warned of the possibility of an attempt on Oswald's life. Thus they were at hand when word of the shooting came from city hall.

Harvey Oswald may have left behind in death his successful blueprint for the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

Oswald died without revealing why he killed the president. In fact he denied shooting anyone.

District Attorney Henry Wade confirmed today that a Dallas city map with X-marks and a line drawn on it which corresponds to the path of the bullet that killed President Kennedy was found in Oswald's room.

Wade said the map has X's at various downtown intersections. At the intersection of Houston and Elm Streets a line traces the trajectory similar to that of the gunfire which took the president's life.

Wade said he would present his case against Ruby to the grand jury "within the next week."

Meantime officers are guarding Ruby around the clock, taking extraordinary precautions. Police Sgt. M. O. Rogers said they have taken away his belt and shoes.

Ruby's attorney said today he will plead temporary insanity.

"I think he was probably temporarily out of his mind," said attorney Tom Howard.

President Johnson has ordered the FBI to make a full investigation into the shooting of Oswald.

Officials are known to believe that information about Oswald's role in the assassination is vital—not only in providing Americans with knowledge about their president's death but in dealing with possible friction in U.S.-Soviet relations.

Intersections Marked on Map

Police officers theorized, The News says, that Oswald marked the other intersections while considering spots from which a sniper could get a good shot at the Kennedy motorcade. He knew it would move slower than usual at these intersections.

From Mexico City came the report that Oswald visited the Cuban and Soviet consuls there Sept. 26 and 28 respectively and tried to get a visa.

The newspaper Excelsior attributes its report to a high official source which it did not name.

The newspaper says bitter arguments ensued over the time required by the consuls to investigate his requests and Oswald apparently let the matter drop.

Police said Ruby told them he wanted to spare Mrs. Kennedy the trial of her late husband's accused killer.

"I didn't want to be a hero—I did it for Jacqueline Kennedy," Ruby said.

The shooting occurred when the handcuffed Oswald was walking between police officers from the city jail to an armored truck.

Ruby dashed forward and fired the shot at a range of only

SILENT TRIBUTE IN OTTAWA

OTTAWA (CP) — Noon hour crowds stood with bowed heads and motor traffic halted on Ottawa streets today in mourning for former President Kennedy.

The silence was observed for two minutes and was followed by a musical tribute on the carillon at the top of the Peace Tower of the Parliament Buildings.

A steady procession of visitors filed into the United States Embassy to sign a book of condolence.

MESSAGE TO K

Johnson To Pursue JFK Goals

LONDON (Reuters) — President Lyndon Johnson, in a message to Soviet Premier Khrushchev, has said that he intends to continue to strive toward improving relations with all countries, including the Soviet Union, Moscow radio reported today.

The message, dated Sunday, said:

"On behalf of the American people I should like to thank you for the condolences you have expresed on the tragic death of President Kennedy.

"All President Kennedy's efforts were devoted to the cause of peace and the peaceful settlement of international problems and to improving relations between all countries, including the Soviet Union and the United States.

"I intend to continue to strive toward the achievement of these aims."

Commons Silent

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons paid a one-minute standing tribute today to slain President Kennedy.

The diplomatic, official and public galleries joined in the tribute.

Inquiry Ordered

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Texas Attorney-General Waggoner Carr announced at a news conference today that he will conduct a court of inquiry into the deaths of President Kennedy and his accused assassin Lee Harvey Oswald.

Oswald Buried In Fort Worth

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) —Lee Harvey Oswald, the man accused of slaying John F. Kennedy, was buried here today even as funeral ceremonies were being held for the president in Washington.

Oswald, shot and wounded fatally during a prison transfer Sunday, was buried in Rose Hill Cemetery in Fort Worth, the hometown of his mother.

He was carried out the back door of an undertaker's parlor in a wooden coffin covered with a grey cloth.

The coffin was placed in a hearse and driven across town to the cemetery. Four police cars escorted the hearse.

53 Nations Represented At Funeral

Times News Services

WASHINGTON — Amid pangs of sorrow and with solemn rites, John Fitzgerald Kennedy went to rest today on a grassy hillside in a cemetery reserved for U.S. heroes.

There was a twenty-one gun salute in Arlington National Cemetery for the young leader who fell under an assassin's bullets on Friday.

Following the assassinated president closely every inch of his travel to the grave was his young wife, Jacqueline, bravely bearing up.

Her face partly obscured in a long veil, she went part of the way on foot—from the White House to St. Matthew's Cathedral for the requiem mass.

So also did one of the greatest arrays of foreign statesmen ever assembled — they came from 53 nations and included 26 heads of state or government.

Bells tolled as the slain president's sorrowing wife set out on foot heading the procession of world leaders on an eight-block march to St. Matthew's Roman Catholic Cathedral for a funeral mass.

Attorney-General Robert F. Kennedy held Mrs. Kennedy's hand as they walked out the northwest gate of the White House.

President Johnson and Mrs. Johnson walked behind a line of members of the immediate family, who followed Mrs. Kennedy.

French President de Gaulle was close behind, leading the foreign leaders.

They included Prince Philip, British Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home, West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard and Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson of Canada.

Chief Justice Earl Warren and former presidents Dwight Eisenhower and Harry S. Trueman were among leading Americans in the procession.

Mrs. Kennedy and the two Kennedy brothers, walking behind the caisson, were separated from it only by the sailor carrying the presidential flag and the riderless horse that symbolizes the fallen warrior in a military funeral.

The procession from the White House began at 11:40 a.m.

Brief Halt at the White House

The cortege had moved from the Capitol, where Kennedy's body lay in state during the weekend, to the White House. Mrs. Kennedy and members of the family had ridden in limousines on this trip.

After a brief halt at the White House, the cortege moved on to the cathedral with the mourners walking.

Thousands lined the streets through all areas. For the most part it was a silent crowd, a crowd of bowed heads and tears. But at one point, a woman broke into a high-pitched wail: "President Kennedy is gone. Oh Lord, Lord."

When Mrs. Kennedy stepped out of the limousine at the White House, she stood still for a moment, listening to a hymn sung by the Naval Academy Choir.

Then she turned and set out at the head of the procession of walking mourners.

Mrs. Kennedy stood straight between Robert and Edward Kennedy. Her face, beneath

ALL CHURCHES OFFER PRAYERS

Dignitaries Attend Mass

Christ Church Cathedral today was decked in mourning for a requiem mass for assassinated President John F. Kennedy.

Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes, Mayor R. B. Wilson, Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston, and other dignitaries attended the mass at 12:15 p.m., conducted by Dean Brian Whitlow.

A requiem mass was said at noon today at St. Andrew's Cathedral for the late president, and Msgr. Michael O'Connell said a eulogy afterwards.

Virtually all churches offered prayers for the late president during regular Sunday services.

Special prayers were offered at St. Andrew's Cathedral at all masses on Sunday.

Rev. Clifford Waite, DFC, guest preacher at St. Aiden's United Church, spoke of the president during his sermon. Special prayers were said, and a memorial silence observed.

At First Baptist Church, Rev. J. A. Watson led the congregation in prayers for the late president.

The Kennedy family was remembered in prayer during Salvation Army services on Sunday.

At Christ Church Cathedral, prayers were offered for President Kennedy, the Kennedy family, and the new president, Lyndon Johnson.

ISLAND DIGEST

Hope Still Alive For Boat Basin

NANAIMO—The city's $850,000 boat basin project has not yet been shelved by the federal government, according to Nanaimo MP Colin Cameron.

Mr. Cameron said he sent two telegrams to Ottawa after reading reports by city aldermen that the project had been deleted from the 1963-64 fiscal estimates.

Public Works Minister Jean Paul Deschatelets wired back stating the report was untrue, he said. Finance Minister Walter Gordon had not replied.

The project, first proposed five years ago, was approved by the federal government earlier this year. But two weeks ago Doug Greer said he had been informed by Northern Affairs Minister Art Laing the project had been shelved.

BACK ON APRIL 1

Mr. Cameron said the project could have been taken off the estimates. But he added it would likely be put on the 1964-65 fiscal estimates April 1.

Estimates for this year will come up for review in two weeks at which time the project could be reinstated, he said.

The boat basin, to provide moorage space for commercial fishing craft, is planned at the mouth of the Millstone River adjacent to the Nanaimo Yacht Club.

School Finally Open As Well Water Flows

Three-months-old Durrance Elementary School was occupied for the first time last week with completion of its independent water supply.

School district 63 chairman Reginald Sinkinson said there is "more than adequate flow" from a 175-foot well brought in with service lines at a total cost of about $4,500.

DRY HOLE

Although the three-room school was completed in time for school opening in September, the 106 pupils had to wait for the water supply, a delay compounded by a dry hole in the first 75-foot well.

The chairman pointed out that this well is covered in the total cost, of which ratepayers in the Saanich school district pay only 25 per cent. The province pays the balance.

Pupils were on shift at other schools in the district until going to the new school last week.

There is provision in the new building for addition of another four classrooms whenever they may be needed.

Location is on West Saanich Road at Durrance Road, serving the northwestern part of Saanich municipality and southwestern portion of Central Saanich.

Girl Scores Top Marks In 4-H Work

DUNCAN — Isobel Roberts was awarded the Baumgart cup for scoring the highest number of points in club work during the year at a recent Cowichan 4-H Holstein Club achievement banquet.

She also won the prize for the best junior calf in the club and the Barkley cup for the best yearling heifer.

Sandra Bell, secretary of the club, received from Peter Bird, manager of the Imperial Bank of Commerce, Duncan, a gold watch for scoring the highest points in livestock judging at the annual field day held earlier this year.

She also received the Cowichan Creamery cup for placing first in the intermediate judging class.

BEST SENIOR CALF

Harry De Wit, Chemainus, won the cup for the best senior calf, the Doney trophy for the best animal in the club, and the Imperial Bank of Commerce rosebowl for the most points of any 4-H member at the Cowichan Exhibition.

Winners of other awards were: Bill Roberts, Buckerfield cup for the best fitted and shown calf; Case Van Jaarsveld, Sandra Bell, public speaking badges; Harry De Wit, Zweitse De Wit, demonstrator badges; Henry De Wit, Isobel Roberts, judging badges; Margaret Tattam, Case Van Jaarsveld, Frances Wallace, Annie Ottosen, Kathy O'Shea, George Baird, showmanship badges; Linda Doney, Annie Ottosen, Kathleen O'Shea, Bonnie Wied, Case Van Jaarsveld, Margaret Tattam, Isobel Roberts, George Baird, Henry De Wit, husbandry badges.

New Officers Elected

DUNCAN—Officers of the newly established Cowichan 4-H Beef Club are Lorraine Jameson, president; David Skeet, vice-president, and Beverley Robison, secretary-treasurer.

Club leader, Cal Campbell, said the interest shown in the new club is beyond expectations, and one of the most gratifying facts is the enthusiasm shown by six Indian children who have joined.

Total membership of the club is 21. The next meeting is scheduled for Dec. 5 at 8 p.m. at the Cowichan Exhibition office.

View Royal To Talk Street Lights

A street-lighting study will be the major topic at the annual meeting of View Royal Community and Ratepayers' Association Tuesday.

The meeting will be held in View Royal Community Hall at 8 p.m.

"The directors of the association will also report on the smoke nuisance in the area," said J. A. Rogers, a spokesman.

"Provincial and federal help has been sought, particularly in view of the projected expansion of the Plumper Bay mill."

Mr. Rogers also said Esquimalt-Saanich MP George Chatterton has indicated he will attend the meeting.

Indian Voice Gets Through

VANCOUVER (CP) — A British Columbia Indian delegation has returned from Ottawa confident the voice of the Indian will carry more clearly into Parliament.

Lawyer Henry Castillou of Vancouver said Saturday Ottawa had indicated acceptance of a suggestion that an Indian liaison committee should be formed to travel throughout the province annually to hear submissions from the Indians.

Mr. Castillou accompanied a four-man delegation to Ottawa to press for an Indian commission with wide terms of reference to study mainly the land question which has been unsettled since 1926.

FOUR DELEGATES

Delegates were Chief Edward Theyarge of D'Arcy, near Lillooet; Chief Richard Malloway of Sardis; Clarence Joe of Sechelt, and Ross Modiste of Koksilah, representing 7,000 Vancouver Island Indians.

The liaison committee suggestion — an entirely separate committee from the proposed Indians commission, would consist of parliamentarians, and advisors who would visit each reservation and study its problems, Mr. Castillou said.

"At present, when a band wants to be heard it has to send a delegate to Ottawa and some bands don't have sufficient funds."

He said the five-man delegation also was successful in extracting from Ottawa a promise to supply 90 per cent of the funds necessary for construction of a vocational school in the Powell River district.

"We pointed out the need for more vocational training and were given assurance the school for both Indians and whites near Powell River would be given the necessary financial backing," he said.

"We also got the assurance from the Indian affairs department that it would pay 50 per cent of the cost of sewers and inside plumbing on reservations."
